ARBUTUS

To a man whose kindly personality, keen interest, warm understanding and genuine affection for all that is Hoosier wins our respect and admiration . . . To a man who fully realizes the importance of higher education in preparing the youth of Indiana for a useful role in our modern society . . . To a man who held Indiana University in such high esteem that he sent both his son and daughter here for their collegiate training . . . To a man whose rise to his present high position came through his keen understanding of his fellow man and his indefatigable industry . . . To this man, Henry F. Schricker, Governor of the State of Indiana, we respectfully dedicate this volume of the ARBUTUS.

DEDIC

ATION

An aerial photograph of a town and university campus, likely Indiana University, serves as the background for the page. The image shows a dense cluster of buildings, including a large university building with a prominent tower, surrounded by trees and greenery. The town extends into the distance, with rolling hills and fields visible in the background.

FOREWORD

Neither as detailed as Pepys' Diary nor as expansive as Boswell's Life of Johnson, this, The Arbutus of 1941, attempts, nevertheless, to combine the intimacy of the former with the personality of the latter into an epitomized review of a year at Indiana University . . . the University has grown until a year of its life can hardly be encompassed by the covers of a book, but through a panorama of persons, places, and events this volume has hoped to capture the soul and spirit of the institution as well as to add a chapter to its history. . . .

A University is a place where knowledge is gathered, sorted, distilled and disseminated, a process inversely complex to the simplicity of its output . . . it is a system by which taxpayers provide, trustees guide, administrators administer and teachers teach, and the student is the focal point of providence, guidance, administration and teaching . . . it is an institution minutely organized for the purpose of handing a new generation an old torch . . . in these pages you will find those who give, those who take, and those who supervise both processes . . . those who make up Indiana University. . . .

HERMAN B WELLS

IN the few short years of his administration, Herman B Wells has injected all the youth and vitality which he personifies into Indiana University. He has scoured the country to bring to the faculty men of eminence in their fields, and, at the same time, never ceased in his promotion of all phases of the University.

No distant leader set apart from the students, President Wells truly has his finger on the pulse of Indiana University, recognizing its needs and endeavoring to fulfill them. He keeps in close contact with students by means of Tuesday afternoon "open houses" when students are free to come to his office and talk over matters of mutual interest.

Leaving the field of banking, after having become a recognized authority, he returned to the campus to become Dean of the School of Business, of which he was a graduate. Upon the retirement of Dr. Bryan as President of the University in 1937, Herman B Wells was named acting President and on December 1, 1938, was inaugurated as President of the University.

In Memoriam

Hal F. Nolan
1892 - 1940

“W ISE in every circumstance, honest in every fiber, with reverential fear of God in his heart but fearing no man on earth—there was a priceless man, Val Nolan.” With these words President Emeritus William Lowe Bryan paid tribute to the United States District Attorney who had been a member of the University Board of Trustees since 1935.

As District Attorney, as a Trustee of the University, and as a loyal alumnus, Val Nolan fulfilled his obligations in the best manner he knew. Inspired by the vision of a “Greater Indiana University,” he has played an important role in the development of the University.

MRS. SANFORD F. TETER

CHARGED with the responsibilities of guiding the destinies of Indiana University are the Board of Trustees who have worked overtime this past year with details of the University's ever-expanding development. Although not required by law to be alumni of the University, all eight members of the present Board formerly attended I.U. Five members of the Board, pictured in the top row above, are appointed by the Governor upon the recommendation of the State Board of Education and the remaining three—Judge Wildermuth, Mrs. Teter, and Mr. Hastings—are elected by the alumni of the University. Mr. Biddle and Mr. Cookson, both University administrative officials, work with the Board in an ex-officio capacity as Secretary and Treasurer, respectively. Members of the Board in the order of the seniority are the President, Judge Ora L. Wildermuth, who was re-elected to his sixth consecutive term last June, Mrs. Sanford Teter, Paul Feltus, William A. Kunkel, John S. Hastings, J. Dwight Peterson, Uz McMurtrie, and Frank E. Allen.

WILLIAM LOWE BRYAN

PRESIDENT Emeritus of Indiana University, William Lowe Bryan, still devotes his time and energy toward building a greater University. Freed from administrative incumbrances when he relinquished his position as head of the University in 1937, Dr. Bryan is enjoying the opportunity to devote himself to his writings. This year the Yale University Press published his volume entitled Wars of Families of Minds, containing his Powell Foundation philosophy lectures in 1939.

Psychologist, philosopher, scholar—Dr. Bryan provides an inspiration to greater intellectual achievement and to higher ideals. Much in demand as a speaker at campus functions, he has the enviable ability to put the substance of powerful thoughts into a few well-chosen words.

WARD GRAY BIDDLE

THROUGH the years, Indiana University has flourished because of the efforts and work of such officials as Ward G. Biddle. For eighteen years Mr. Biddle has rendered faithful and untiring service to the University.

First as Manager of the Indiana University Bookstore then as Director of the Indiana Memorial Union, and now as Comptroller of the University and as the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, Mr. Biddle has contributed a great deal to the progress and well-being of Indiana University. He has promoted its extensive construction program, and on March 23, his fiftieth birthday, he witnessed in the dedication of the Hall of Music Auditorium the fulfillment of one of his great dreams.

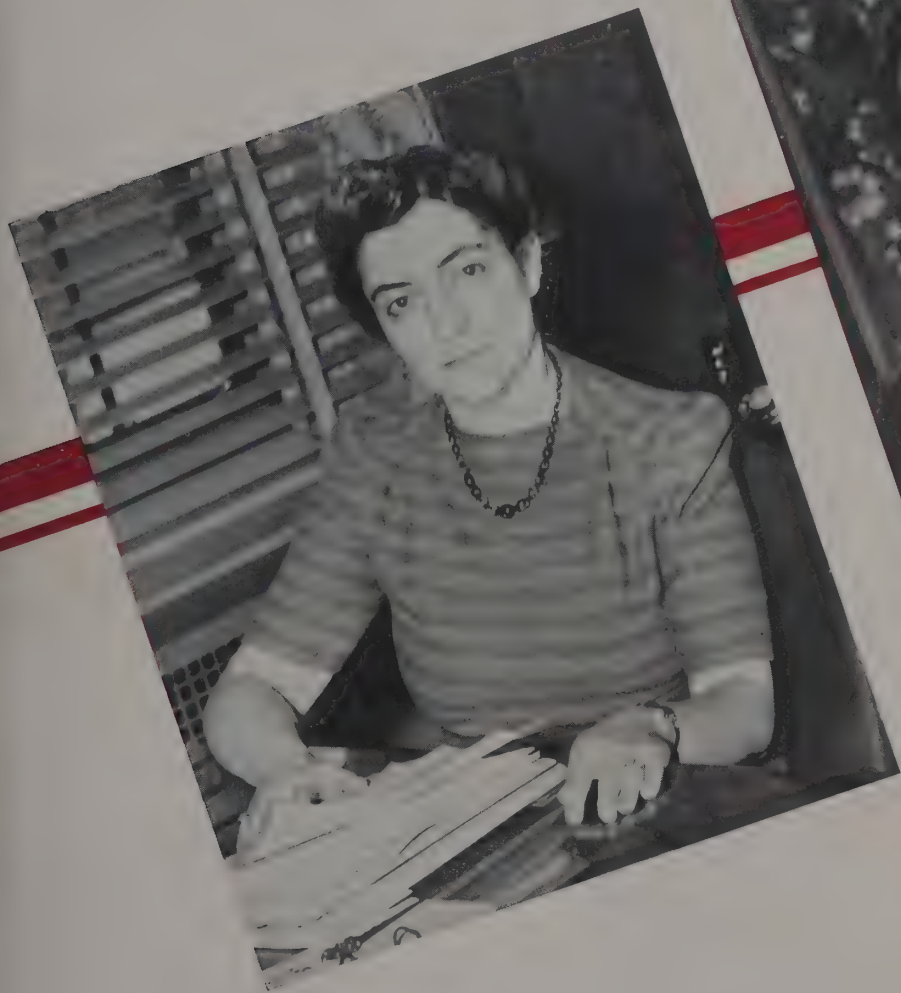

A THOROUGH scholar, a sympathetic teacher, and a dyed-in-the-wool sports fan, Charles J. Sembower has all of the human qualifications to assure his success as Dean of Men. His friendly understanding of student problems and his wisdom in dealing with them help to establish closer relationship between the students and the faculty. Dean Sembower was graduated from Indiana in 1892 and received the Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1909.

DEAN of Men at Indiana University since the office was created in 1919, Dean Clarence E. Edmondson has won the respect of students through his kind, sympathetic handling of their problems. His skill at billiards has brought him nation-wide fame and at present he holds the Collegiate Faculty Championship of the United States. A 1906 graduate, Dean Edmondson received the A.M. degree in 1912 and was awarded the Ph.D. degree two years later.

MRS. Kate Hevner Mueller, I.U.'s progressive Dean of Women, efficiently handles her extensive duties which range from supervision of women's social activities to the planning of social training and the planning of adequate programs. Her training as a psychologist and her marked attention to the opinions of students are apparent in her handling of the myriads of problems confronting the coeds. It is her wish that Indiana women will ultimately become attractive homemakers and effective leaders in community life.

MRS. Lottie Kirby, the essence of graciousness in her personal life as well as in her official capacity, finds no problem of I.U. women too trivial for careful personal attention. She has demonstrated her unusual and varied capacities as a teacher, an assistant to the Registrar's office, a secretary to the President, a mother, and above all, as a sincere friend of young people. Her wide experience has equipped her well to solve the difficult and important problems of women students who seek her wise counsel.

BRISCOE

BECAUSE of the ever-increasing complexity of the University problems to be handled by the President's office, President Wells, in May 1940, announced the appointment of Herman T. Briscoe to the newly-created position of Dean of the Faculties. In his new duty Dr. Briscoe is responsible to President Wells for the general academic administration of the University.

An Indiana graduate with the degrees A.B., A.M., and Ph. D., Dr. Briscoe also is chairman of the Department of Chemistry. He is Director of the new Student Guidance program which is planned to help newcomers adjust themselves to University life.

BOOKS WRITTEN BY FACULTY

THE outstanding contribution to Indiana University's faculty publications this year was Professor Emeritus James A. Woodburn's Volume I of History of Indiana University, 1820-1902. The volume, which reviews the formative period in the history of I.U., was presented by the author to the University through President Herman B Wells at a testimonial dinner for Dr. Woodburn on November 30, 1940. Among other books recently written by faculty members were Europe's Return to War, 1938-1940, by Dr. F. Lee Benns; Quantitative Analysis, Second Edition, by Dr. Eugene W. Kanning; Hospital Accounting and Statistics, Prof. Stanley A. Pressler, co-author; Twentieth Century Bookkeeping and Accounting, Prof. Ralph Prickett, co-author; Concept of Public Business, by Prof. Ford P. Hall; Studies in Econometrics, Francis E. McIntyre, co-author; Cases on Criminal Law and Procedure, by Prof. James J. Robinson; Introduction to Politics, Prof. Roy V. Peel, co-author; Cases on Procedure, Volumes I and II, and Revision of Browne's Blackstone, all by Dean Bernard C. Gavitt; Cases on the Law of Torts and Readings on Torts, by Prof. Fowler V. Harper; Indiana State and Local Government, Second Edition, by Prof. P. S. Sikes; Indiana Administrative Code and Cases and Materials on Legislation, by Prof. Frank E. Horack, Jr.; Radio Journalism, by Mr. Paul H. Wagner; Cockpit of the Revolution, by Charles L. Lundin; and Wars of Families of Minds, by President Emeritus William Lowe Bryan. In addition to these, hundreds of other pamphlets, articles and special studies too numerous to mention were written by members of the faculty.

MEMBERS of the Senior class who have taken part in extra-curricular activities for four years and have given their all for honorary and "rod" organizations have a form of concrete reward in the selection of Senior class officers.

Since 1935 it has been the custom to choose the Senior officers by the merit system. Points are given for scholastic standing and activities and those piling up the greatest number are selected for the offices.

This year, Richard Stoner, campus leader, headed the field of point-getters to carry off the title of Senior President. Mary Susan Stull, as high-point coed, was named Vice-President. The office of Secretary was filled by Margaret Lou May, who ranked second among women students. Val Nolan, second among the men, was selected chairman of the Siwash Committee. Dan Chiddister, eighth-ranking man student, was made Treasurer.

THETA ALPHA PHI

VERA MAY MASSEY .....President
JAMES PHILLIPPE .....Vice-President
BETTY JO HANSON .....Secretary

THE Indiana Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic honorary, was founded in 1922 in order to promote an appreciation for, and a participation in University dramatics.

Two major campus organizations sponsored by Theta Alpha Phi are the University Theatre, organized in 1932, and the Experimental Theatre, organized in 1937. These organizations provide students an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of all phases of theatre work, presenting plays and various productions throughout the year.

This honorary for embryo dramatists is growing in importance due to the completion of the new Music Hall Auditorium, which will give an added impetus to dramatics on the campus.

Each year Theta Alpha Phi awards the Niezer Scholarship to outstanding Freshmen actors. The Paul Hochgeiger award, given for distinguished service to the theatre, was established in 1939 in memory of Mr. Hochgeiger, an outstanding former member of Theta Alpha Phi.

Other major activities sponsored by the organization are the "Vodvil Varieties," a musical production, and the State Drama Conference, attended by high school students from over the state. The organization also sponsors Taps, a Junior dramatic group.

Indiana Alpha Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi was founded on St. Valentine's Day, 1922. Membership is granted to those students of drama who have obtained fifty points for any kind of stage work and who receive an unanimous vote of the whole organization. Dr. Lee Norvelle is sponsor of the group.

EACH year, Theta Sigma Phi, honorary for women in journalism and sister organization of Sigma Delta Chi, brings to the campus some woman outstanding in the field of journalism to speak at the Matrix Table. Evelyn Eaton, author of "Quietly My Captain Waits," was this year's speaker at the banquet.

Dread of many a coed, and the subject of campus talk for weeks preceding it, is the annual Razz Banquet "for women only" sponsored by Theta Sig. Several awards are given at the dinner which are received with questionable enthusiasm. The serious award of the evening is the Senior Ring, given to the girl that Theta Sigma Phi feels is the outstanding Senior woman in the University.

This year Bloomington has been chosen as the place for the national convention which will be held the last of June and will be attended by representatives from chapters all over the country. Theta Sigma Phi was founded nationally at the University of Washington in 1909. Indiana's chapter, Delta, was organized in 1913.

The purpose of Theta Sigma Phi is to join together all women journalists. To be eligible for membership in Indiana's chapter, a woman must have worked on the staff of The Daily Student, and must show an intention of remaining in the field of journalism. Members are usually pledged at the annual Theta Sigma Phi-Sigma Delta Chi picnic in the spring. Mrs. John E. Stempel is advisor for the sorority.

GUIDING hands of The Daily Student, members of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, nevertheless find time to sponsor several of the leading activities on the campus. They sponsor the Blanket Hop which is held on the night of one of the principal home football games. It is the oldest continual traditional dance on the campus, and proceeds go toward buying "I" blankets for graduating lettermen.

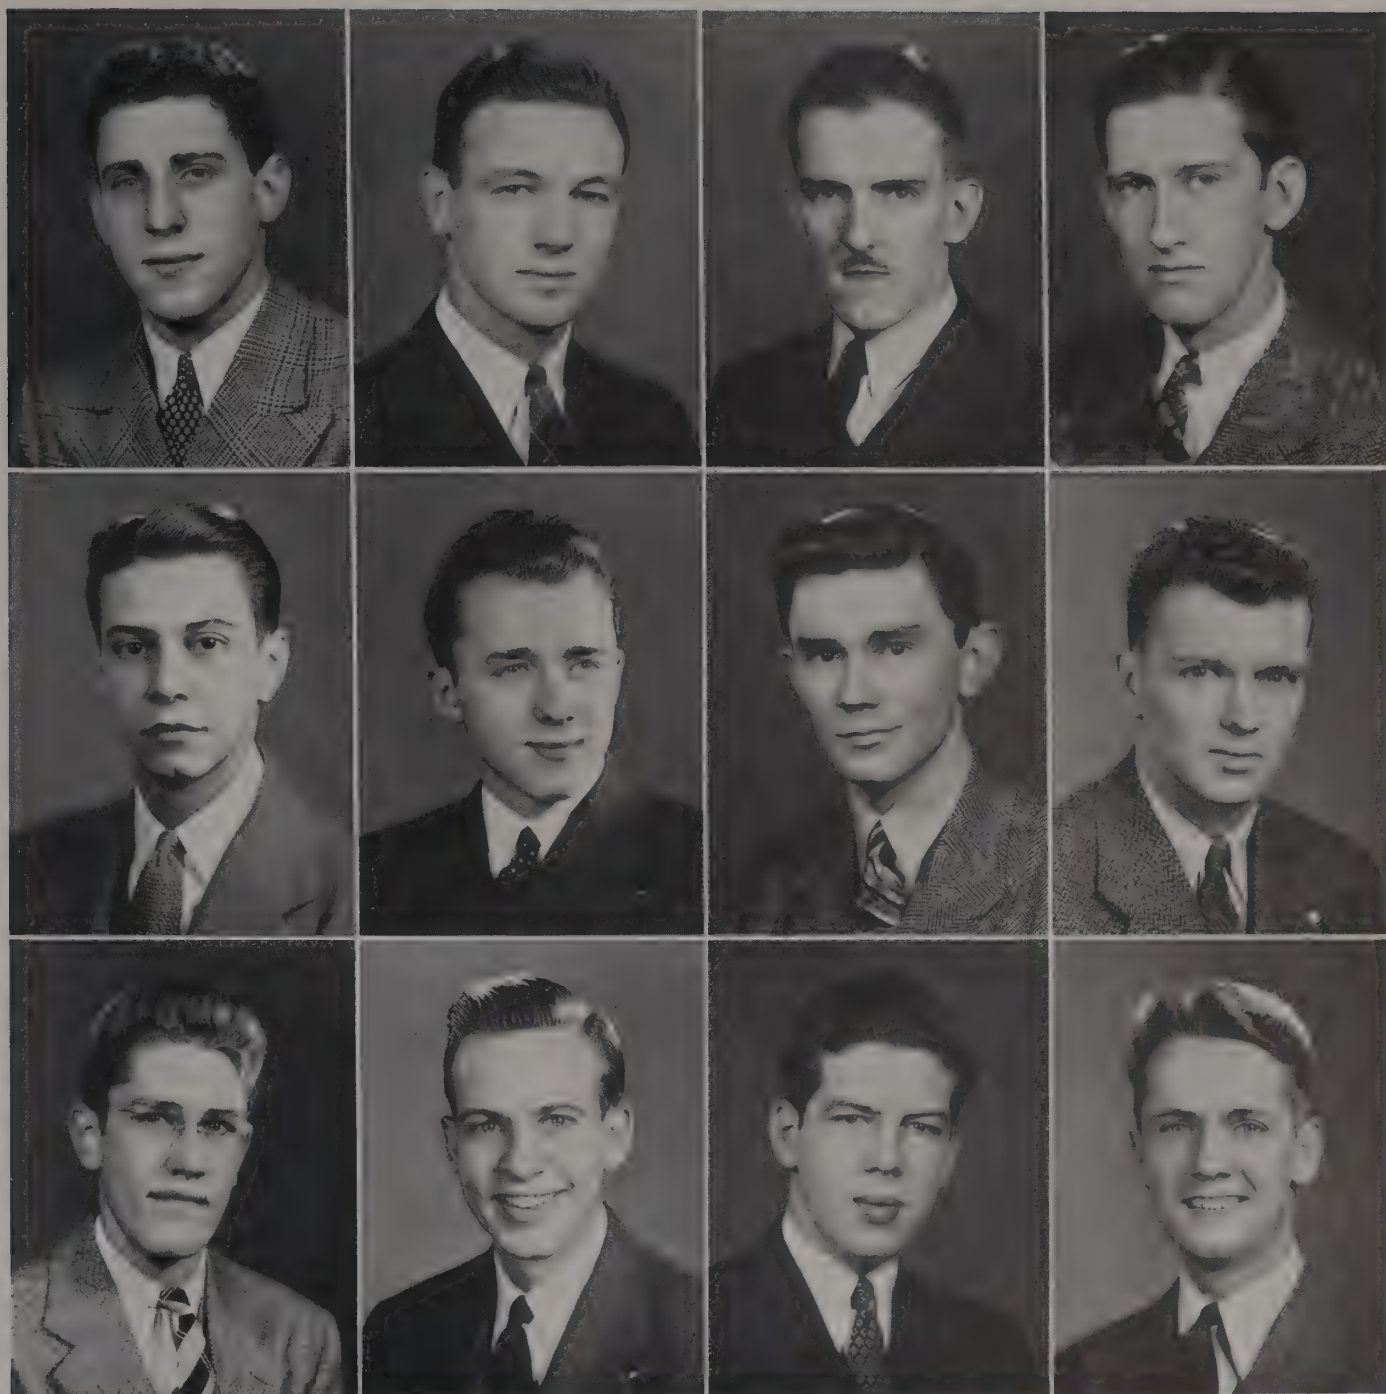

Sigma Delta Chi members take time to razz the University administration, faculty members, organizations, and "rods" at their annual Gridiron Banquet. Limited to men only, the banquet also includes several serious awards, including a brown derby for the most popular member of the faculty, a leather medal to the faculty member who is voted to have done the most for the University, and an award to the outstanding Senior man.

The fraternity maintains a den in the Union Building in memory of Don Mellett, a Canton, Ohio, editor who was killed in 1926 during a crusade against racketeers. Mellett was a former member of the local Sigma Delta Chi chapter.

Besides its other activities, the chapter also awards a two-hundred dollar scholarship to two outstanding Sophomore journalists, presents a book to The Daily Student reporter who writes the best story each month, and sponsors a High School Newspaper Contest each year. Prof. John E. Stempel, head of the Department of Journalism, is advisor of the chapter.

MEMBERS of the Euclidean Circle are students who take their mathematics seriously. They must all be students of higher mathematics. The Circle is under the leadership of Miss Cora B. Hennel, who this year succeeds Prof. Kenneth P. Williams, who had been faculty sponsor for several years.

At the monthly meetings, discussions of tough problems, student papers, games and puzzles are presented.

The two big annual functions are shared with the "junior-partner," the Junior Math Club. One of these is a Christmas party held at the home of Dr. Agnes Wells. The other big affair is the spring picnic at which the faculty of the mathematics department are guests.

JUNIOR MATH CLUB

HELEN DAVIS .....President
 ROBERT BASH .....Vice-President
 MIRIAM WALTHER .....Secretary

THE Junior Math Club is made up of students who are interested in the finer points of mathematics but have not taken enough work in higher mathematics to be eligible for membership in the Euclidean Circle.

At the monthly meetings, mathematical puzzles and games are stressed for the "Junior brain-trusts." The group sponsors a Christmas party and in the spring faculty members are their guests at a picnic. This year the club examined the University's shiny new cyclotron at one of its meetings.

Dr. Agnes E. Wells is sponsor of the group. The annual Christmas party is held at her home, where members are joined by those in the Euclidean Circle and the mathematics faculty.

TAU KAPPA ALPHA, honorary for University debaters, has as its underlying purpose the bringing of debating closer to the average college student. This year the group used two methods of attaining their goal.

An intramural debate tournament was held in the fall with nearly a hundred entered. The tournament was won by the Independent Students Association.

The organization is also sponsor of the University Speakers' Bureau which was inaugurated last year. The Bureau was organized to provide speakers for campus groups and at the same time to give student speakers practice.

At the Regional Conference held here this year, Paul Bard, President of Tau Kappa Alpha, was chosen Regional President. Michigan, Illinois, and Purdue were among the schools having representatives. A mock Congressional session with debaters making up the membership of the "Congress" was again presented as a feature of the conference.

With the aid of its sponsor, Mr. Robert Huber, varsity debate coach, Tau Kappa Alpha has been able to be of service to many organizations on the campus who have been in need of speakers.

The group also helps to sponsor the Bryan Oratorical contest which is held on the campus each spring. A number of members of Tau Kappa Alpha have received awards in state and national debate contests in the past few years.

PROMOTING interest in the practical application of chemistry by women is the chief aim of Iota Sigma Pi, national honorary organization for women majoring in Chemistry. The requirement for membership in the local chapter, which was founded eleven years ago, is a B average in at least twenty hours of Chemistry.

Iota Sigma Pi was founded nationally in 1902. White, gold, and cedar green are its colors and the white narcissus is its flower. The chapters are named for elements; Indiana's chapter is named Indium. The local chapter is one of the few composed of undergraduate members. Most of the other chapters are formed of women working professionally in Chemistry.

Bi-weekly luncheon meetings with guest speakers give the members an opportunity to come into contact with many outstanding men and women in that field, and also give them a concept of the social value of Chemistry.

A tea was given the Wednesday before Christmas vacation, open to all women taking courses in Chemistry, rather than just Freshmen women as in previous years. Iota Sigma Pi sponsors a banquet each spring honoring the faculty members in the Department of Chemistry.

Mrs. Martha T. Scott of the Department of Anatomy is the faculty advisor this year.

STUDENTS who have received above a B average in one year of French are invited to join Le Cercle Francais. In order to promote the understanding of spoken French, the meetings are conducted entirely in that language. In addition to skits, plays, and lectures presented by faculty members and students, the presentation of French classical and popular music is included in the club's program. Each year one off-campus speaker is asked to present a talk on some phase of French life of interest to the members of Le Cercle Francais.

Social activities are also sponsored by the club, giving French students an opportunity to become better acquainted with each other as well as with the faculty members of the Department of French.

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN was organized thirty years ago as a club to promote an active interest in the German language. By presenting lectures, German plays, and music at its regular meetings, the club has succeeded in making the study of German more interesting to the students.

Students with an active interest in the German language and with a desire to learn more about the ways of the German people, are eligible for membership to Der Deutsche Verein.

The club's social activities attempt to further a closer relationship between the students and the faculty of the German department by means of informal club meetings.

MEMBERSHIP in Beta Gamma Sigma is limited to the upper ten per cent of the Junior and Senior classes in the School of Business. Only two per cent of the Juniors and not more than ten per cent of the Seniors are eligible to become members. Good business ability, moral character and scholarship are the qualities stressed for membership in the organization, which corresponds to Phi Beta Kappa for the School of Arts and Science.

Having chapters in almost every school which holds membership in the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, the fraternity was founded nationally in 1913 by the University of Southern California, the University of Illinois, and the University of Wisconsin. The local chapter came into being in 1923. The organization recognizes scholarship each year by placing the name of the outstanding Sophomore Business student on the Beta Gamma Sigma plaque and by giving the William A. Rawles key to the Business student who has the highest average at the end of his first two and a half years in the School of Business.

THE Collegiate Chamber of Commerce was founded in 1927 for the purpose of establishing a closer relationship between the faculty of the School of Business and the students, acting as a connecting body between the two groups. The organization was made a charter member of the National Inter-Collegiate Chamber of Commerce in 1938. The Collegiate Chamber this year introduced the Student Opinion Questionnaire which was distributed to 4,000 Business School students to obtain their opinions on the instructional qualities of their professors. Another function of the organization is the annual Business Careers Conference, at which prominent Indiana business men discuss with the students the actual nature of their occupations.

The governing body of the group is the Board of Directors, pictured above, made up of a boy and a girl elected from each class, and one representative each from Beta Gamma Sigma, Delta Sigma Pi, Alpha Kappa Psi, Chi Gamma, Omicron Delta, and the Accounting Club, all of which are organizations for Business students. These, with the three members held over from the previous year, constitute the membership of the Board; all Business School students are automatically members of the Collegiate Chamber.

ACTIVITIES of Delta Sigma Pi, the honorary for men in the School of Business, include debates by members of the organization on business subjects, annual tours to the industrial plants of large cities, business luncheons at which guest speakers address the group, and semi-monthly professional meetings. The organization works in cooperation with the Board of Directors of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce.

The organization, ranked as one of the largest in the professional field, was founded at New York University in 1907. The local chapter, Alpha Pi, was established in 1925. Among the functions of the national group are the maintaining of a large and effective alumni organization, the administration of a personnel placing service on a national basis, and the publication of a quarterly magazine. Also prominent in their list of achievements is the Alumni Placing Service, a cooperative undertaking whereby members are assisted in securing employment in keeping with their training. Another activity is the presentation of a scholarship key each year to the graduating Senior with the highest average in the School of Business. Informal get-togethers are held with the faculty members of the group, who are Professors Edward Edwards, John Mee, James Moffat, James Gates, Claire Barker, and Harold Lusk.

ALPHA Kappa Psi, commerce fraternity, lists as its purposes, furthering the individual welfare of its members; fostering scientific research in the fields of commerce; and promoting and advancing in institutions of college rank courses leading to degrees in business administration. The organization was founded in 1904 at New York University, the Indiana chapter, Beta Gamma, coming to the campus in 1927. There are now fifty-three active chapters throughout the country.

Activities for this year began with a rush smoker on October 2, at which Bill Stout, '37, of L. S. Ayres, spoke on "Public Relations." At a professional meeting November 17, Prof. Anshen of the School of Business spoke on "Business Adjustments to the National Defense Program." In the same month, the "Miracles of Modern Science," an exhibit by General Motors, was sponsored by the group. In February, the organization visited Louisville on a tour of the industrial plants of that city, and in April, the same type of tour was made to Chicago. The latter is a yearly activity for Alpha Kappa Psi. The organization also publishes a semi-annual journal, called the Beta Gamma News, edited by John Leininger, and sent to other chapters.

NOW in its fourth year on the campus, Omicron Delta, honorary organization for Junior and Senior women in the School of Business, serves as an aid to the coed preparing to enter the business world. The organization helps to point out opportunities for women in this field and gives them information and pointers concerning the future. It serves to promote friendly understanding and professional interest among business women. The members of the group try to carry out their purpose with both a social and an instructional program.

This year, Omicron Delta entertained the faculty in collaboration with Chi Gamma and gave a tea in honor of Mrs. Arthur Weimer, wife of the Dean of the School of Business. In addition, the group meets once a month to discuss their affairs and to hear guest speakers from large business concerns throughout the state. The group was founded with the aid of Miss Lule Westenhaver and Mrs. Esther D. Bray of the School of Business and Miss Sarah Kirby, assistant to the Dean of the School of Business. The organization is represented in the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce by membership on the Board of Directors. Omicron Delta was instrumental in the re-establishing of Chi Gamma on the Indiana campus.

IN its third year on the campus, the Indiana University Accounting Club has attempted to bring about better relations between students and professors and has tried to further the interest of Accounting students. In order to do this, the club brings prominent speakers to the campus, who are connected with some kind of accounting work.

This year, the club's roster of speakers included Mr. George Purcell, Bloomington Postmaster; Mr. George Olive, public accountant from Indianapolis; Mr. Horace Reed of the Basca Manufacturing Company, Indianapolis, and a representative from the J. D. Adams Manufacturing Company, Indianapolis.

The organization aims to further the students' interest in accounting by supplementing their work at the University with actual business contacts. They endeavor to interest accountant employers in the students, and they maintain a graduate placement organization.

Meetings are held once a month and an annual banquet is given for the members. Faculty members include Alva L. Prickett, Geoffrey L. Carmichael, I. W. Alm, Stanley A. Pressler, and Robert E. Walden, with Mr. D. Lyle Dieterle acting as advisor to the group.

PROMOTION of higher standards for girls in the business world is the aim of Chi Gamma, which was founded on the campus of Indiana University in 1930.

Any Freshman or Sophomore girl in the School of Business who is interested in the objectives of the group is eligible for membership. The objectives include the promotion of higher education for women in the field of business, the development of solidarity in working together, the advancement of high standards of business efficiency, business ethics and culture, as well as the stimulation of the development of professional attitudes. Different phases of business and the duties and requirements of various vocations have been discussed at the regular meetings of the club this year, by special speakers and through student forums.

The organization became inactive for several years but was reorganized in 1939 and now meets regularly once a month. Mrs. William Bray is sponsor of the club.

Members of the group are: Joanna Archibald, Arline Baldwin, Ruth Margaret Bailey, Natalie Blackburn, Rosemary Burkart, Irene Carson, Emmy Lou Cavanaugh, Virginia Cooper, Rita Mary Cosgrove, Marianna Frakes, Thelma Gernstein, Ruth Green, Martha Grimes, Phyllis Hamilton, Betty Harkless, Virginia Hawley, Mary Ellen Hazel, Mary Elizabeth Hendricks, Rosemary Hendricks, Nancy Lee Harkless, Beatrice Hruskovich, Mildred Inman, Thelma Johnson, June Johnston, Barbara Kline, Elizabeth Kollman, Eileen Krueger, Norma Lagenaur, Maxine Lowe, Mildred Maddox, Rebecca Morris, Rebecca Mott, Martha Owens, Christine Pate, Betty Anne Regel, Alice Schafer, Betty Ross Seiberling, Helen Seledsow, Barbara Smiley, Esther Soshnick, Jean Spencer, Joanne Strauss, Lucille Townsend, Georgia Willan.

INDIANA'S Memorial Union has been steadily becoming a center for conventions from all over the state. Scarcely a week passes that Alumni Hall is not set with banquet tables and the lobby is not full of visiting delegates. Conferences this year have ranged from the Bankers Conference to the Alpha Phi Omega conference; from the Real Estate and Managers Conference to a meeting of the Lions Club representatives; from the Indiana Schoolmen's Club, to the Theta Sigma Phi convention; and from the writers Conference to the State mathematics contest. The Building is also used for Parents' Day and the High-school principals conferences and other special events.

Dean H. L. Smith, one to instill the desire to instruct in the embryo teachers—an inspiration to those who want to learn and help others learn—head of Indiana's School of Education.

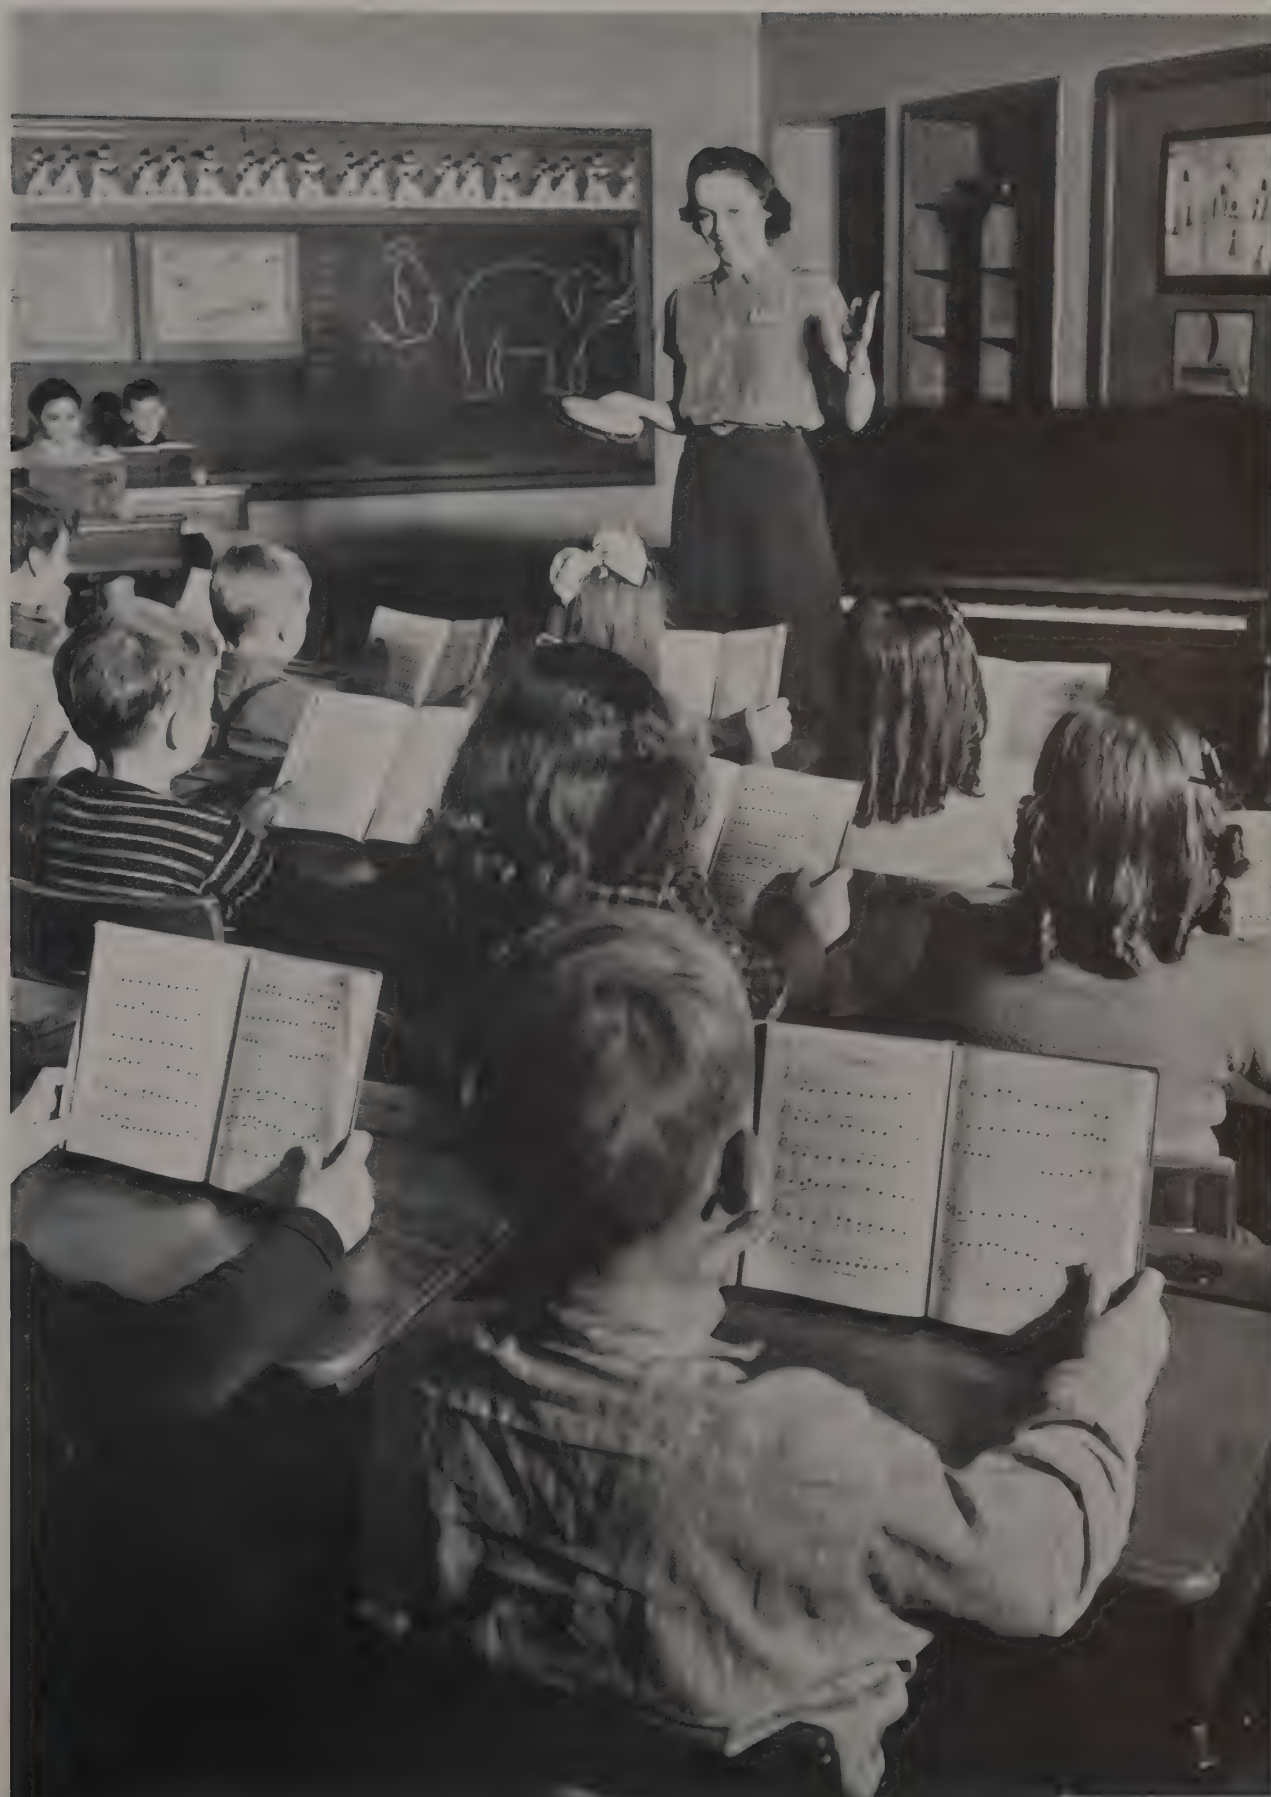

Jim Gridley, Sigma Pi Varsity basketball player, saunters down Union Building steps enroute to a one o'clock.

Experience gained in all lines in practice teaching.

NOW in its third year of growth, the University School is following close in the footsteps of its college cousin, still serving its threefold purpose of educating pupils, serving as a proving ground for prospective teachers, and acting as a model for educators throughout the state.

The building is a study in efficient, stream-lined architecture. It has been designed to make schooling as advanced and pleasant as possible for the pupils, who range from the primary grades to seniors in high school. Modern methods of teaching are applied here, with the student-teachers deriving benefit from the class room period, as well as the pupils themselves.

INDIANA'S chapter of Pi Lambda Theta is one of sixty-two scattered over the nation. This year the local chapter celebrated its twentieth anniversary. Ethyl Falk, who founded the group, spoke at the event, November 12.

Gallardo, Commissioner of Education in the Philippines, spoke at a dinner given on November 16 in his honor by Pi Lambda Theta and Phi Delta Kappa.

Initiation was held December 14 for twenty-eight new members. In connection with initiation the chapter had national inspection with Carolyn Garbe Mitchell, national member at large, officiating.

Other officers in the local chapter are Ruth Froberg, corresponding secretary, and Betty Stoops, Keeper of Records.

Composed of townswomen and graduates as well as student members, Pi Lambda Theta functions as an honorary organization whose purpose is "to encourage a spirit of fellowship among women in the profession of teaching."

Several Indiana University graduate students in education are now seeking the two hundred fifty dollar scholarship offered for excellence in research work.

PHI DELTA KAPPA

HAROLD CRABILL ..... President
NED REGLEIN ..... Vice-President
ROGER M. SHAW ..... Secretary
CHARLES MURRAY ..... Treasurer

PHI DELTA KAPPA was established at Indiana University in 1907 as an honorary scholastic organization in the School of Education. Members of the organization are selected from the Senior class and from graduate students in the School of Education. Eligibility for membership is determined on the basis of high scholastic standing and good personal qualifications. This honorary group has established high ideals and standards for the organization to follow, including scholarship, leadership, and service.

Although mainly a scholastic group, the organization finds time to sponsor the annual Bookmen's Picnic and the All-Men's Round-Up during the summer season. Phi Delta Kappa also offers programs relating to more recent developments in the field of educational research.

EDUCATION CLUB

ROBERT CARTWRIGHT ..... President
EVELYN VICKERY ..... Vice-President
WILMA PICKARD ..... Secretary
ROSEMARY ARBURN ..... Treasurer

STUDENTS who have a sincere interest in the problems of teaching and desire to teach some day themselves have an opportunity to become better acquainted through the Education Club. The Club was formed on the Indiana campus in 1935 and is an offspring of Pi Lambda Theta and Phi Delta Kappa, honorary organizations of the School of Education.

The Club each year has a banquet with Pi Lambda Theta and Phi Delta Kappa. Officers of the club are introduced at a picnic in the spring.

Upperclassmen in the School of Education who express a sincere desire to teach and who maintain a C average are eligible for membership, but all pledges must be voted in by the members of the Cabinet.

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA

ELMIRA SCHICKEDANZ ..... President
 MILDRED McBRIDE ..... Vice-President
 HARRIET YENNE ..... Secretary

SIGMA Alpha Iota, a professional music fraternity for women, is a national organization, composed of seventy-two chapters. It was founded at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan, June 12, 1903.

Iota Epsilon chapter was installed on this campus December 17, 1939, with seventeen charter members. The local group is now composed of thirty-three active members and nine patroness members who are selected because of musical interest and proficiency.

As a national project, Sigma Alpha Iota maintains Pan's cottage, which is located at the MacDowell Colony for Creative Artists at Peterborough, New Hampshire. The purpose of the colony is to provide a place where composers, poets, writers, painters, and sculptors may work undisturbed amidst congenial surroundings.

The purpose of Sigma Alpha Iota is to promote and dignify the musical profession for women; to further the development of music in America; and to give moral and material aid to its members.

Persons eligible for membership in Sigma Alpha Iota include professional musicians and students in a school of music who are working toward a degree in music. At Indiana University the music student must have a B average, faculty recommendation, and have shown excellence in scholarship and musical ability.

Every autumn Sigma Alpha Iota and Pro-Music Club give a joint reception for new music students. Prominent musical visitors on the campus are entertained by S.A.I. The annual MacDowell Tea given in the spring furnishes funds for the maintenance of Pan's Cottage.

PRO-MUSIC CLUB

MILDRED McBRIDE .....	President
CHARLES COATES .....	Vice-President
HARRIET YENNE .....	Secretary
RUTH DIXON .....	Treasurer

PRO-MUSIC Club was created with the purpose of bringing national music fraternities for men and women students to the campus. Its purpose has been fulfilled at the present time since Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music fraternity for women, was established here two years ago, and Phi Mu Alpha, Music fraternity for men, is now being organized on this campus.

At the present time Pro-Music Club is an honorary requiring its members to be of at least Sophomore standing with a B average. They must also possess a fair degree of musical ability.

In the past this organization has sponsored an annual light opera. Gilbert and Sullivan productions have been their choice for the last four years. Members assist at concerts and recitals by performing and by acting as ushers.

ORCHESTRA

DEAN Robert L. Sanders conducts the symphony orchestra of Indiana University in its three rehearsals each week. The orchestra is composed of approximately sixty members. Besides giving separate concerts, it frequently plays over the University's Sunday morning radio program "Everyman's Campus of the Air."

In connection with the glee clubs, the orchestra played at the dedication of the new Music Auditorium.

Dr. Schaeffer, father of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, and Sir Thomas Beecham, conductor of the London Philharmonic Orchestra, were guest conductors during the year. Bernice Barnes and Tommy Wright, violinist and pianist respectively, were soloists with the orchestra.

GAMMA ETA GAMMA

RICHARD LANGOHR ..... Chancellor

GAMMA ETA GAMMA was founded by several students at the University of Maine in 1901 in order to "establish in this and in other schools of law, as well as in the general practice of the profession an elevated standard of personal deportment, a high code of professional ethics and a broad development of mental culture and moral character . . ."

Since then 33 chapters have been founded at various law schools throughout the United States. Eta chapter was founded at Indiana University in 1912.

Each fall the members of Gamma Eta Gamma hold a get-acquainted smoker for Law School Freshmen in order to acquaint them with the purpose and members of

Gamma Eta Gamma.

The annual reunion banquet is held on the campus sometime in November of each year. The Founders Day celebration, called the Prandium Cancellarii, is on the 25th of February each year.

Socially, bi-weekly luncheons are held on the campus with guest speakers from other schools. Public affairs discussion groups are also held bi-weekly and a guest speaker is also present at these meetings. Gamma Eta Gamma has also organized study groups for the discussion of current legal problems and the analysis of trends in legal thought.

THE chapters of Phi Delta Phi are called Inns after the old English Inns of Court. The first Inn was founded at the University of Michigan in 1869. Indiana's chapter is called Foster Inn and was established on this campus in 1900.

The members of Phi Delta Phi have banded themselves together to oppose corrupt legal practices and to promote a strict adherence to a code of professional ethics and culture in the law profession.

On this campus, the fraternity holds bi-monthly lunches with a prominent guest speaker from the campus. Phi Delta Phi also has a smoker in January of each year for Freshman members of the law school. Founders Day is observed nationally on December 13.

During the regular meetings discussions are carried on over points of interest which are not discussed in the classrooms. At the present, there are 28 active members and 18 pledges of Phi Delta Phi.

Paul V. McNutt; Honorary Member Judge George L. Tremain, of the Indiana State Supreme Court; Judge Curtis G. Shake, also of the Indiana State Supreme Court; and Dean Bernard C. Gavit of the Indiana Law School make up Phi Delta Phi's list of prominent alumni.

Third Row: William Moore, John Widaman, Russel Fisher, Richard Dafler, Morris Weikart.
Fourth Row: Norman Burnworth, Edward Ball, Orville Fox, Forrest Lacey, Charles Barnhill, Joseph Kerwin, Robert Parrish.

Harper and Gavit, guest artists picked up on the mike by Bretz at the Taxi-dance. Shirley Maloney crowned queen of the Taxi-dance by "Bus" Waddle.

Miller leads the Law's "Blitz" on the Meds. The Laws protest the draft en masse.

Dean Willis D. Gatch, of the School of Medicine—a personality which characterizes the true spirit of the medical profession, keeping it alive in the hearts and minds of his students — carrying on the tradition of keeping Indiana's School of Medicine among the top in the country.

. . . And this is the way it's done . . . feeding the inner man.

The Senior year of Medical School, the end of four years of formal education for the profession of medicine, is characterized by clinics at the Medical Center and the Indianapolis City Hospital. Here the medical student obtains practical experience in examining and interviewing patients, and is guided by the faculty in diagnosis of the patients.

Two weeks of the Senior year are spent in the supervised practice of obstetrics at the City Hospital. When at last the medic's formal training is ended, and he receives his M.D. degree, he is ready to start his two years service as interne at a hospital. At the end of these two years, he can say that he has completed his training, and has proven himself capable of the practice of medicine.

When the medic enters his Junior year of training, he adds to his curriculum an advanced anatomy course the purpose of which is to aid him in assembling and summarizing his previously gained anatomical material. Also he gets his first study of surgery, and spends much of his time in watching skilled surgeons operate in the operating room, and in discussing the operation with the doctor after it has been completed.

Also he begins his work in the clinics, and there he gains practice in taking down histories, and writing up case reports. Although, mathematically speaking, at the end of these three years he is three-fourths of the way trained towards being a doctor, yet the student cannot help but realize that his training is still a long ways from perfection.

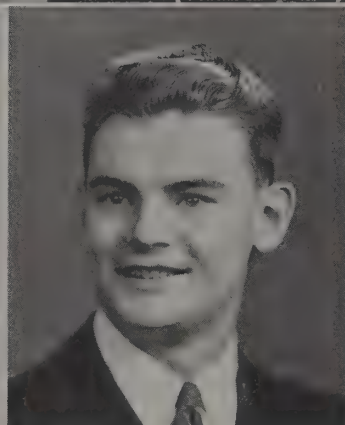

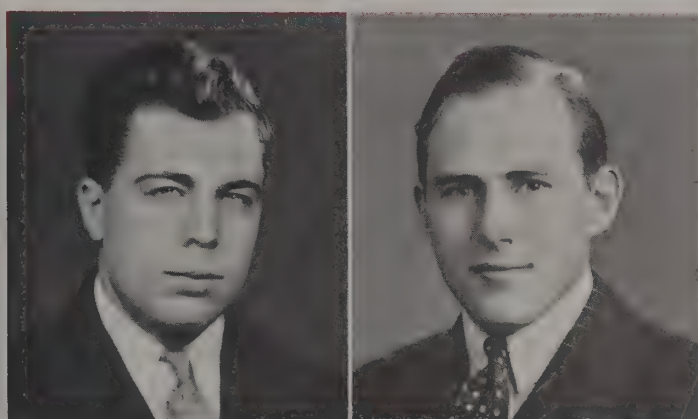

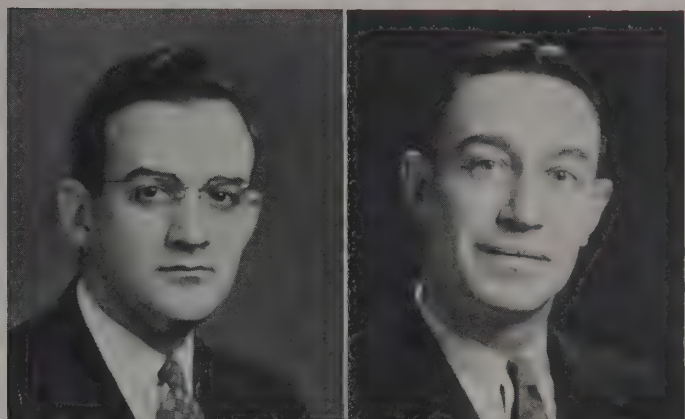

Although the Sophomore year is the second year of medical training for the medic, it is his first year on the campus of the Indianapolis Medical Center. Now he has gotten away from the anatomy lab of his Freshman year, but he has important and difficult courses in biochemistry, bacteriology, pathology, and pharmacology.

If in the Freshman year he has not learned that he is working toward a career, he realizes it now, for not only does he study medicine in all of his classes, but at mealtime, and during his other spare time he is thrown with other medical students, doctors or internes around the Medical Center. However, all who enter this year have learned to enjoy the fascinating study of medicine, and in spite of its difficulty, they would not be content with any other work.

To most of the students on the Bloomington campus the Freshman year is characterized by the white lab coats, and the law-medic fights. However, the medical student himself remembers his Freshman year for the long nights of study on Gray's Anatomy, and the many hours spent in dissecting the cadaver in anatomy lab, to say nothing of the countless number of histology sections that he has peered at through the microscope.

The Freshman medic has an advantage over the medic of a decade ago, in that in the labs of the new medical building he has the latest and most up-to-date equipment with which to work. Here the Freshman medic obtains his foundation for his later studies in surgery, advanced anatomy, and the like at the Indianapolis Medical Center.

ALL Freshman medical students automatically become members of the Skeleton Club, which was founded in order to give students an organization to band them together socially and through the ties of their common interest. The group also functions as a voice of student opinion in questions of policy that are left for students to decide.

The club endeavors to broaden the medical knowledge of its members by discussions of medical problems at its meetings. Meetings are held every three weeks.

The officers of the club are chosen by the merit system in general use on the campus. Skeleton Club maintains a lounge for the use of its members on the first floor of the Medical Building. Here the students gather to talk over problems of the profession or just to relax.

Each spring a dance is sponsored by members of the Skeleton Club. A banquet shortly follows the dance. This banquet honors the members of the faculty who have been particularly helpful to the members of the Freshman medical class. The sponsor for the group is Dr. W. Brown Scott, while the honorary sponsor is Dr. William J. Moenkhaus.

THE Phi Chi medical fraternity was really founded at two different places and on two different dates. Phi Chi was founded at the Louisville Medical School on October 26, 1894, and also at the University of Vermont on March 31, 1898. Finally, these two fraternities which both had the same name, consolidated nationally, and the former is the so-called Southern division of Phi Chi, while the latter is the nucleus for the so-called Northern Division.

The local chapter was chartered in 1903, under the old Indiana Medical College, and has the distinction of being the oldest medical fraternity in the state. Alumni of the Indiana chapter number over five hundred, and many of them are among the state's foremost clinicians and instructors.

The national organization has grown in its forty-eight years of existence until it now has a membership which totals more than twenty thousand physicians. The various chapters of Phi Chi are governed by the grand chapter which was set up when the Northern and Southern divisions combined in 1905.

The fraternity has as its aim to raise the standards not only of its own group, but also of the medical profession in general, and therefore imposes requisites of character and scholastic achievement upon its members.

PHI BETA PI, national medical fraternity, boasts a membership of close to 19,000 members. It was founded in 1891 at the West Pennsylvania Medical College. Indiana University's chapter, Omicron Alpha Zeta, was established in 1905. The pledge chapter is made up of medical students on the Bloomington campus, while the active chapter is made up of men enrolled in the Indianapolis medical school. There are now over forty such chapters in prominent medical schools all over the country. The fraternity flower is the white chrysanthemum, and the colors are green and white.

A very active alumni chapter in Indianapolis assists the groups in maintaining a high scholastic average, in promoting good fellowship among medical students, and in working together in defeating unethical medical practices.

Each year, the Phi Beta Pi-Frank Mann Lectureship is given which is of great educational interest to the fraternity. Two dances are held each year; one is a Christmas formal dinner-dance, and the other is the spring initiation dance which follows the initiation banquet. To these are added smokers, luncheons, and stag parties completing the social calendar. The year's activities made up a well-rounded program of a social and educational nature.

NU SIGMA NU was founded at the University of Michigan in 1882 by six students of the School of Medicine, and the Beta Eta charter was granted to Indiana University in 1908. The national organization is now composed of fifty-eight chapters and its membership totals 10,000 men. Scholarship has been one of its primary aims, as well as fellowship and unity, not only within the chapter, but within the school as a whole.

The local chapter of fifty-two members holds its monthly meetings at the Medical Center, where outstanding men are invited to lecture. In the spring an initiation dance and banquet, which is attended by actives and alumni from all over the state, is held. Also a state alumni organization affords guidance and fraternity fellowship for the several hundred practicing physicians.

Nu Sigma Nu proudly lays claim to such great names in medicine as Osler, Mayo, and Cushing. The many chapters in the various medical schools in the United States and Canada are ever striving to justify its existence as a vital force among undergraduates in modern medical education.

PHI RHO SIGMA is the national fraternity for the professional affiliation of medical students. In 1890 the first chapter was founded at Northwestern University; the success of the new organization was instantaneous and in the following years 29 new chapters were established in the outstanding medical schools of the nation. In 1903, thirteen years after the original founding, Dr. Victor T. Keene of Indianapolis established the local chapter, Pi, at Indiana University.

Promoting good fellowship among congenial men of medical schools throughout the United States and encouraging a high standard of professional work is the aim of this fraternity. Emphasis is also placed upon social contact with the large and powerful alumni chapter in Indianapolis. Informal discussions on medical problems and current events are held each month in the homes of Indianapolis physicians.

The activities of the Pi Chapter begin in the fall with the annual rushing; later the members hold a formal initiation, give an open dance and an Alumni banquet. The sponsoring of a preceptor-apprenticeship plan which is open to all members of the Junior class during the summer vacation is the final project completing the social calendar for the year.

THETA KAPPA PSI was founded in the year 1877 as the first medical fraternity in the country. The birthplace was the Medical College of Virginia. Since then fifty-seven collegiate and graduate chapters have been founded in twenty-six different cities where medical colleges are located. The colors which were chosen by the fraternity are green and gold and the red rose is the official fraternity flower.

The primary purpose of this group is to promote friendship, character, and scholarship among members of the fraternity and all students in medical schools.

The Gamma Upsilon chapter was established at Indiana University in 1924. Chapter business meetings and social gatherings are held each month. At the business meeting, a member of the Medical Center faculty speaks on the problems of the medical profession. Theta Kappa Psi cooperates with all the other medical fraternities in social events.

Topping the social calendar is the annual initiation, followed by a banquet and dance. Many alumni return at this time to renew old acquaintances and to make new ones. At the banquet the Senior, who is deemed by his brothers as the fraternity's most valuable member, is presented an honorary key as recognition of his services.

PRIOR to 1930, Gamma Phi Zeta was known as the I.U. Medic Dames Club which was formed in 1928. In 1929 the advantages of a Greek sorority were recognized and on May 7, 1930, the Alpha chapter was organized.

This is a social organization and its existing purpose is to facilitate acquaintanceship among the wives of medical students, interns, residents, and practising physicians now in Indianapolis and those who will arrive from Bloomington in the future.

Founder's Day is commemorated in May by a dinner which the members give for their husbands.

Their relationship and interest in the medical profession furnishes a common bond among the members of Gamma Phi Zeta that forms a basis for the success of the organization which is manifested in its steadily increasing membership.

NU SIGMA PHI is a national medical fraternity founded in 1898 at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the University of Illinois. Its chapters are placed only in medical schools which have had a Class A rating. The guiding principle of the fraternity during its existence has been the indorsement of scientific investigation, of intellectual advancement, and of social development.

Gamma, the Indiana University chapter, was established in February, 1909, by alumnae of the Alpha Chapter. Initially there were fourteen graduate members from other medical schools, four students and ten graduate physicians. At present there are eleven students, approximately sixty graduate physicians, and several graduate members.

Gamma is represented on the national roster of officers by Dr. Olga Bonke-Booher and Dr. Mary Alice Norris, who are National President and Secretary respectively of Nu Sigma Phi. The Indiana University chapter was host to the national organization in 1927 and again in 1939.

Outstanding affairs in this year's calendar have been an autumn picnic for Freshmen and Sophomore women, a banquet for the women, and banquet and formal initiation services in early winter. At the monthly meetings, prominent members of the profession speak concerning the advancements in medicine.

*Head of the Department of

THE Indiana University Training School for nurses was opened in 1914. The March class of this year will be the 55th to enter this school and consists of girls from many states other than Indiana among its student body. The school is under the capable direction of Miss Cordelia Hoeftlin and represents a formidable portion of the Indiana University Medical Center.

Prerequisites for admission consist of 30 hours of designated college work satisfactorily completed. In addition, there are orientation periods held during the months of February and June. During these periods the prospective nurse must show herself adaptable in professional activities.

To maintain a high standard of nursing and to administer the best type of nursing care to the sick are the prime purposes of the school. It proposes to give each of its students who have selected nursing as a profession every opportunity to become a competent and practical member of her selected community. Practical experience in the hospital is combined with carefully planned class work in order to give the student an intelligent and understanding insight into the basic problems encountered in the remedial care of the sick and promotion of community welfare.

Not all activity is confined to work and study, however. Extra-curricular activities are almost entirely planned by the student body. These activities consist of a choral club under the direction of Mrs. Martin of Indianapolis; a basketball team that plays home and return games with other nursing schools; tennis; dancing; and teas.

The department of dietetics is under the capable supervision of Miss Lute Troutt. This division of the Indiana University Medical Center conducts a postgraduate course in hospital and institutional dietetics. Miss Troutt has charge of feeding patients, staff, employees, and students at the Medical Center.

SENIORS

THE training school for Nurses at Indianapolis is a part of the University School of Medicine. It is the purpose of the School to maintain a high standard of nursing, to give the best of nursing care to the sick, and to give to young women who choose nursing as a profession every opportunity of becoming competent and broad-minded members of the community. The didactic courses are given by members of the Faculties of the School of Medicine and of the College of Arts and Science, and the practical training is obtained in the University Hospitals.

After the successful completion of the first year's work the Florence Nightingale Loan Fund is available to those students who deserve it. The curriculum for the Senior twelve months includes courses in English Literature, Senior Dietetics, Field of Social Work, Medicine, Pediatric Nursing, Professional Adjustments, Psychiatric Nursing, Social Psychiatry, Sociology, Senior Surgery and Public Health Nursing.

FRESHMEN

THE course for nurses consists of a preliminary trial period of six months. The purpose of this period is to give each girl an opportunity to see what nursing is really like. With this idea in mind, the student can adjust herself to the new work, make an intelligent decision whether or not she would like nursing for a career, and decide whether or not to continue the course. If the student decides to continue, she enters into her Freshman year. Her courses now consist of Dietetics, History of Nursing, Medical Nursing, Pharmacology, and Therapeutics. When the student has completed all of these courses, she will have finished the first term which consists of a two and one-half year training period.

JUNIORS

HAVING completed her Freshman course, a student nurse looks forward to the Junior term. Wearing her newly acquired cap she starts into twelve months of very hard work and intensive training. During these twelve months the nurse takes the required courses of Nursing, Laboratory Medicine, Nutrition, English and Sociology. In addition to these courses the nurse is required to do a certain amount of practice work in the wards under close supervision. This is the time when a nurse gains her experience. After looking at the imposing list of courses she has to take, perhaps she does not look forward to them, but she realizes that they are the means to the end that she will become a graduate nurse.

DIETITIANS

THE training which is offered at the Medical Center to the students of dietetics is more comparable to the internship which a doctor serves in a hospital than it is to an actual formal year of schooling. The students are graduates of courses in dietetics, and serve during the course of the year in various capacities ranging from preparing diets for diabetics to managing the cafeterias which are on the campus for the employees and the students.

As they serve in all of the various capacities, they are always under the watchful eye of Mrs. Lute Troutt, who is in charge of the dietetics department. After the students have completed this year of internship, they are then ready to take over a position as a professional dietitian.

THE Senior Class consisting of only eighteen students is the smallest class in the history of the Indiana University School of Dentistry. Climaxing six years of intensive training, the members receive the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery marking the completion of their preparation for a professional career.

Through the past four years this class has built up a very united and cooperative spirit which has evidenced itself not only in the high quality of their work but also in the close friendships and alliances shared by every member.

THE class of 1942 has made remarkable progress in putting into practice those things which were learned during the past two years. William Henning of Boonville led the class in scholarship during the year, but was followed closely by several others. All of the class were kept pretty busy by their fifteen subjects, daily clinical practice, and "extra curricular activities". The Juniors were fortunate last year in obtaining many assistantships and offices in the various school organizations.

The class mourned the loss of one of its members during the past summer. Andrew Larimore passed away in July, 1940. "Andy," as he was known to his classmates, was a jolly good fellow and is missed by all of us.

THE Sophomore Class made up of twenty-eight members is the largest of any class at Indianapolis. With the beginning of the year they found themselves still the underclassmen in the school since the Freshmen matriculate in Bloomington.

The class has been unique in that they received instructions from several new additions to the Dental faculty. They also are the first class to be admitted to the clinic while in the Sophomore year under the supervision of Dr. H. B. Morrow. Although they have acquired considerable knowledge through basic training, they are beginning to realize that their experience in the vast fields of Dentistry needs supplementing through clinical operations. The Sophomores, realizing the necessity of this fundamental training, and being confronted with high expectations, have proven themselves industrious, scholastic, and intent on further advancement.

THE opening of the 1940-41 school year found the Freshman dental students comfortably located on the Bloomington campus. For the first time in the history of Dental education in the State of Indiana the Freshman class received its instruction in the biological sciences in courses closely paralleling those of the Freshman Medical students.

The forty-seven students comprising the class spent their time in the various laboratories and lecture halls of the new medical building. An excellent spirit of mutual interest existed throughout the year between the Medical and Dental students. Medical students welcomed a helping hand from the Dental students in the well established feud with the large student body of the Law School.

The members of the Freshman class anticipate with pleasure the continuance of this splendid mutual cooperation with the medics on the campus of the Medical Center at Indianapolis next year.

THE Student Council, established in 1939, has proven to be a worthy and successful organization. Its purpose is to bring together through a definite medium the administration, faculty, and student body, so that a closer association may be had for furthering the educational program of the school.

At the meetings, Dean Crawford, the Student Affairs Committee, made up of the heads of the different departments, and the members of the Student Council discuss and act upon suggestions of the students and faculty members related to student affairs and problems.

The members of the council represent the student body in these meetings, and they present before the body any problems which may aid in the progress of the school or alleviate discord or grievances. Respect for and arbitration of student problems is thus recognized as being of vital concern for the betterment of the student body and the school.

THE Indiana University Society of Junior members of the A.D.A. is an organization conducted under the auspices of the Dental School. Having been organized in November, 1940, the society now boasts approximately seventy-five per cent of those eligible. The membership is limited to Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors.

The purpose of the association is to contribute to the elevation of Dental education in the student body by literary discussions or clinics of subjects relating to dentistry. Many problems are discussed which are likely to confront the Dental graduate for the purpose of guidance along principles advocated by the association for a successful and a worthy career in dentistry.

The annual Junior A.D.A. dance is one of the outstanding school activities. Junior members, upon graduation, automatically become senior members of the American Dental Association.

DELTA SIGMA DELTA was founded at the University of Michigan in 1882, and claims the distinction of being the first dental fraternity organized for dental students and members of the profession. Since that time the fraternity has grown until it is now composed of forty-two auxiliary chapters with thirty-three subordinate chapters including auxiliary chapters in England and France. This fraternity is known for the fraternal spirit existing between faculty and alumni members.

Local Xi chapter was established in 1900 and has been active in dental school activities ever since. The Delta Sigs own their own chapter house in Indianapolis where Dr. F. Wade LaRue, a past Supreme Grand Master of the fraternity, is the deputy in charge. The late Dean F. R. Henshaw was also a Past Supreme Grand Master of this fraternity and many of the faculty members of the Dental School are alumni of this organization.

Delta Sigma Delta "Desmos," official quarterly publication of the fraternity, containing fraternal news and information both local and national, is sent to each member. Upon graduation students may apply for membership in the Supreme Chapter of the fraternity. Graduates may thus maintain a closer relation with their fraternity and brother practitioners.

XI PSI PHI fraternity began its existence as the first Dental fraternity at the Indiana Dental College with the installation of the Theta Chapter in 1893. It was the second Dental fraternity to be organized, having its origin at the University of Michigan, on February 8, 1889.

Xi Psi Phi, growing rapidly since its inception, established forty-six active chapters. At present, due to mergers and discontinuance of Dental schools, there are twenty-five active chapters.

In the years 1900-1902 a fraternity magazine was published intermittently. In 1906, the official publication, the Xi Psi Phi Quarterly, was founded. It has since proved to be a worthy publication.

Xi Psi Phi is the only Dental fraternity in which every initiate receives life membership in the alumni chapter upon his graduation. Included with this membership is a lifetime subscription to the Xi Psi Phi Quarterly.

THIS oldest, largest, and foremost of Jewish Dental fraternities was founded in 1909. At this time Romach Fraternity (1906) and Alpha Omega (1907) of Pennsylvania University and University of Maryland, respectively, combined. Now there are over fifty chapters from coast to coast, and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. Indiana University's Alpha Gamma chapter was founded in 1928 at the School of Dentistry.

To instill in its members the virtues of truth and wisdom; to cultivate the social qualities of its members; to surround each member with true life-long friends; to generally advance the Dental profession; and to carry forth the fraternity's ideals of scholarship, fellowship, and Judaism—these are the aims of Alpha Omega.

THIS year for the first year the Freshmen in the Dental School took their work at Bloomington. Dean William H. Crawford, Dean Gatch, and Dean B. D. Meyers worked out the plan so that the Freshmen Dental Students use the School of Medicine building and have the same faculty for the sciences as the Medical Students plus several new dental instructors. At Indianapolis the dental students use the facilities of the Departments of Pathology, Bacteriology, and Pharmacology that belong to the medical unit. This plan has been arranged so as to further coordinate the teaching of Dentistry with the teaching of Medicine and Surgery.

Basically this plan is the same as the two-four year plan used previously except that three years are spent at Bloomington preparing in the sciences before entering the Indianapolis Dental School. The curriculum has undergone few modifications.

EXTENSION DIVISION

EXTENSION DIVISION

THERE are two main divisions of the college without a campus—the Indiana University Extension—the Extension of Teaching Service and the Public Welfare Service. The Bureaus of Class Instruction, Correspondence Study, and Lectures are classified under the first division, while the Bureaus of Public Discussion, Audio-Visual Aids, and Child Welfare are under the latter.

The Extension Division offers several hundred different courses most of which are undergraduate courses of the College of Arts and Science, although a limited number carrying graduate credit are offered. Practically the whole four years' college course is available by correspondence. Members of the classes are required to be regular in their attendance and must do definitely assigned work.

During the first semester of this year, there were 2,879 men and 2,492 women students enrolled in the four Extension centers of Indianapolis, Ft. Wayne, Calumet (East Chicago—Hammond—Gary) and South Bend (Mishawaka), and in classes in other cities. Supplementing these totals were 1,924 correspondence students.

Various faculty members go out for single lectures any place over the state where there is a request. Last year 89 lectures were scheduled to the Bureau of Lectures. These lectures enable communities to keep in touch with the latest thought and give them the most reliable information upon the current questions.

The Public Welfare Service is the phase of the University Extension which has to do with the less traditional and standardized methods of instruction, employing the methods which serve best the various agencies endeavoring to meet certain community needs.

The Public Discussion Bureau offers such services as the package library loans, lending of plays to high schools and other groups, and club study package loans. It also has charge of the State High School Discussion League and the various high school contests.

For those persons who for various reasons are unable to attend college, the University Extension Division offers facilities for study and enables the students to enter into activities and recreation without the expenditure for the heavier fees of the University.

BUREAU OF AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS

THE rapid increase in the use of visual aids in education in the last decade or two has probably been due mostly to the excellent work of such organizations as Indiana University's Bureau of Audio-Visual Aids, which is a division of the Extension Division. For several years it has provided public schools and various community agencies with educational motion pictures, lantern slides, art exhibits, and other object materials. The production service of the bureau includes a well-equipped photographic laboratory which does special work for faculty members, the News Bureau, the athletic department, and such campus publications as the Arbutus. Another service is the distribution of pictures and projectors to various campus groups.

The bureau operates in an advisory capacity with classes in the Extension centers throughout the state. It also conducts frequent conferences concerning visual aid problems. It has equipment consisting of 1,200 different films, silent and sound, and 600 different lantern slides. The department has done some of its own motion picture production, and hopes to do a great deal more in the future.

The majority of the staff of the organization is composed of students. The bureau is efficiently directed by L. C. Larson, who is known as the Co-ordinator, and Mrs. Pauline J. Ellis, who is secretary of the bureau.

A sight unfamiliar to most of the students of the Bloomington campus is the Athenaeum of the Normal College of the American Gymnastic Union, shown at the top. However, the scene at the lower left is more familiar, as it is an exhibition at one of the basketball games by students of the college. In the lower right-hand corner is Dr. Carl B. Sputh, President of the College.

N. C. A. G. U.

IN November of this year, Indiana University enlarged its fields of interests by merging with the Normal College of American Gymnastic Union in Indianapolis. This College which is devoted strictly to physical education courses, has been affiliated with the University for eight years. Previous to the merger students were required to go three years to the College and one year to the University after which they received a bachelor's degree from both schools. Under the new arrangement, which becomes effective at the beginning of the 1941-1942 school year, graduates will receive a degree of B.S. in physical education after having spent two years at the Indianapolis school and completed the four year term on the Bloomington campus.

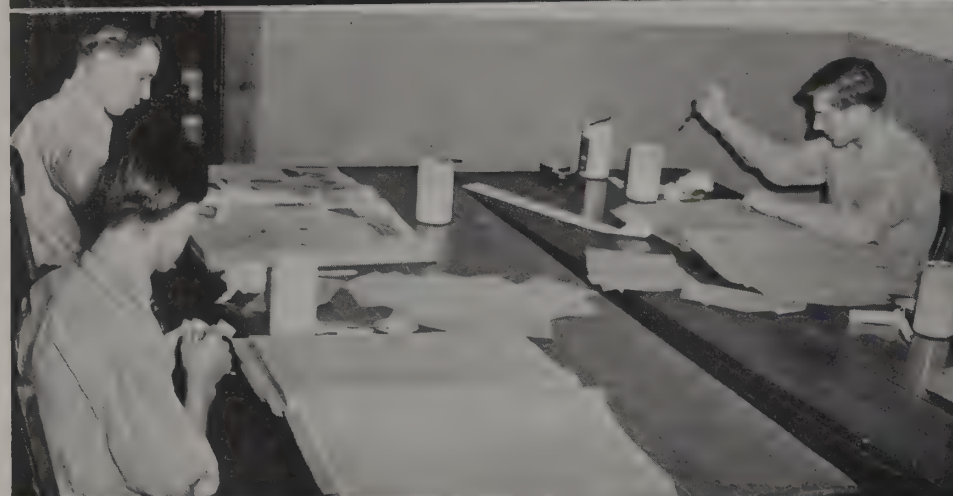

All alumni of the Normal school automatically become alumni of Indiana University, and if they desire may receive a diploma with the B.S. degree and a major of health and physical education.

Located at the Athenaeum in Indianapolis, the NCAGU has an approximate enrollment of 100. Carl B. Sputh, '12, is president of the college and the instructional staff numbers twenty-three, five of whom are members of the Indiana faculty.

Indiana was fortunate in receiving the library of the Normal College, which is recognized as one of the most complete of its type in the country. The scholastic records of the College were also turned over to the University.

The NCAGU was founded in 1866 and was a traveling institution of gymnastics until 1875 when it settled in Milwaukee. The College transferred back and forth from Indianapolis to Milwaukee from 1875 till 1907 when it made its permanent home in the Indiana capital. In 1910 the Normal College incorporated under the laws of Indiana and has since been accredited by the State Board of Education. The school is recognized as one of the oldest of its kind in the country.

NATIONAL YOUTH ADMINISTRATION

A LIST of 650 names comprises the N.Y.A. payroll for the Bloomington campus of Indiana University. The work done by the students who are receiving N.Y.A. assistance varies greatly. Some of the important projects going on now are: the bindery at the library, the rumpus room, the speech clinic, and Mr. Robinson's experiment in the Department of Physiology.

This year in the library Miss Moeller has kept about twenty-two students busy. Mending and repairing of books is only one part of their job. They also list, repair, strengthen, and bind manuscripts.

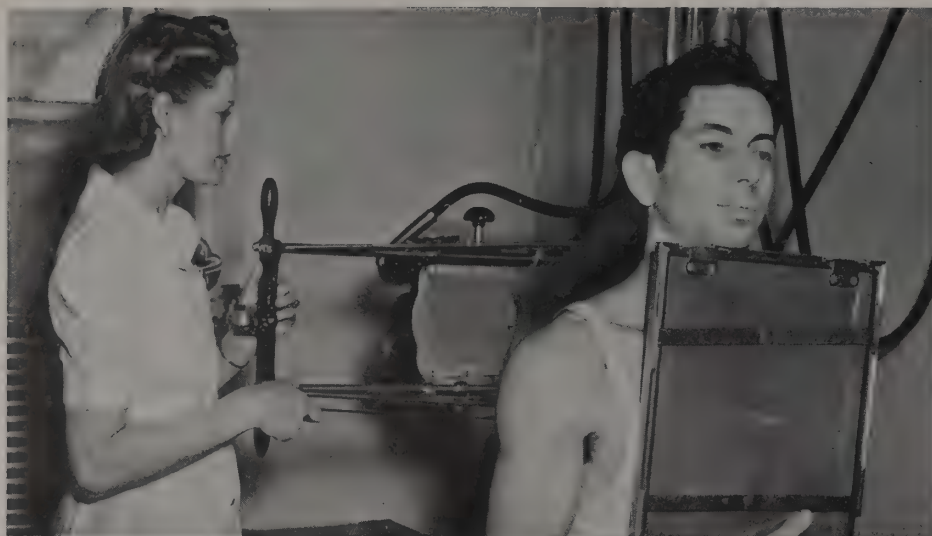

The A.W.S. Rumpus Room is open to dates from 5:00 to 8:30 o'clock every evening. Here fellows and girls may enjoy ping-pong, badminton, and shuffleboard which are provided under the direction and supervision of N.Y.A. workers.

Mr. Milson in the speech department is in charge of several projects. Two stenographers, one general office helper, two carpenters, three clinicians help in the examination and treatment of speech and hearing disorders of University students.

Mr. Robinson's experiments deal with fatigue in relation to age, race, athletic training, and industry. The N.Y.A. boys assist in the measurement of a man's fatigue by acting as subjects as well as by helping in some of the technical procedures connected with the experiments.

Although most coeds and eds do not realize it, their well-kept campus is greatly affected by N.Y.A. workers. The landscaping around school buildings, planting and care of lawns, flowers, shrubs, trails, and footpaths are looked after by the workers. The N.Y.A. student workers benefit the University in general and help themselves as they learn while they earn.

STUDENT GUIDANCE

IN an effort to help students with their individual problems, the Student Guidance Committee, under the able leadership of Dr. Herman T. Briscoe, Dean of Faculties, has subdivided itself into several groups.

One group is the faculty advisors for freshmen in the University, selected with reference to School. The aims of this group have been outlined as follows: to study the freshmen who meet with difficulties of a scholastic nature; to cultivate the intellectual and academic interests of the students, and to provide an easy contact between each student and his faculty advisor. This group does not attempt to advise the freshmen concerning the courses they are taking, but simply tries to solve the problems of the students by giving advice, when sought by the student, or referring the individual to someone who may help him.

The guidance committee has also instituted a system of councilors in the dormitories and in some fraternity and sorority houses. This is a new venture and so far has proved successful.

Other groups working in connection with the guidance program are the testing bureau, which prepares tests for entering freshmen; the remedial and reading work for those low in efficiency; the speech clinic; the Deans of Men and Women and all the academic Deans, and the vocational guidance committee.

The coordinating committee for the guidance program for 1940-41 is Merrill T. Eaton, chairman; R. C. Davis, Charles Harrell, Cora B. Hennel, Dean Kate H. Mueller, R. C. Murray, Mary Ruth Palmer, Ned Reglein, Robert A. Royer, and Dr. Edith B. Schuman.

The Committee is to be commended for its competent work this past year. Working in a new field for Indiana University, they have made progress and laid the groundwork for greater work in the future.

STUDENT HEALTH SERVICE

THE Student Health Center has as its many functions the complete examination of each student on his admission to the University; the improvement of living conditions of students in collaboration with the City and State Health Departments; the diagnosis of all ailments complained of by the students, and the treatment of minor ailments.

The Student Health Department strongly emphasizes that their policy is not to interfere with the private practice of Medicine. The Center merely provides a complete diagnosis and treatment for minor ailments, advising the care of a private physician if the illness is a major one. If treatment in a hospital is required, the Department will pay up to twenty dollars on the hospital bill.

Having treated over 18,000 cases since school opened, the Center has managed to keep busy this year. Most of the business was during the month of February, when 124 cases of influenza were treated, and 3,773 cases in all were taken care of.

The Center treats everything from measles and pneumonia to swallowed pins, concussions, and mumps. The small office on Forrest Place is furnished with modern medical equipment along with a men's and women's infirmary for those requiring supervision or isolation.

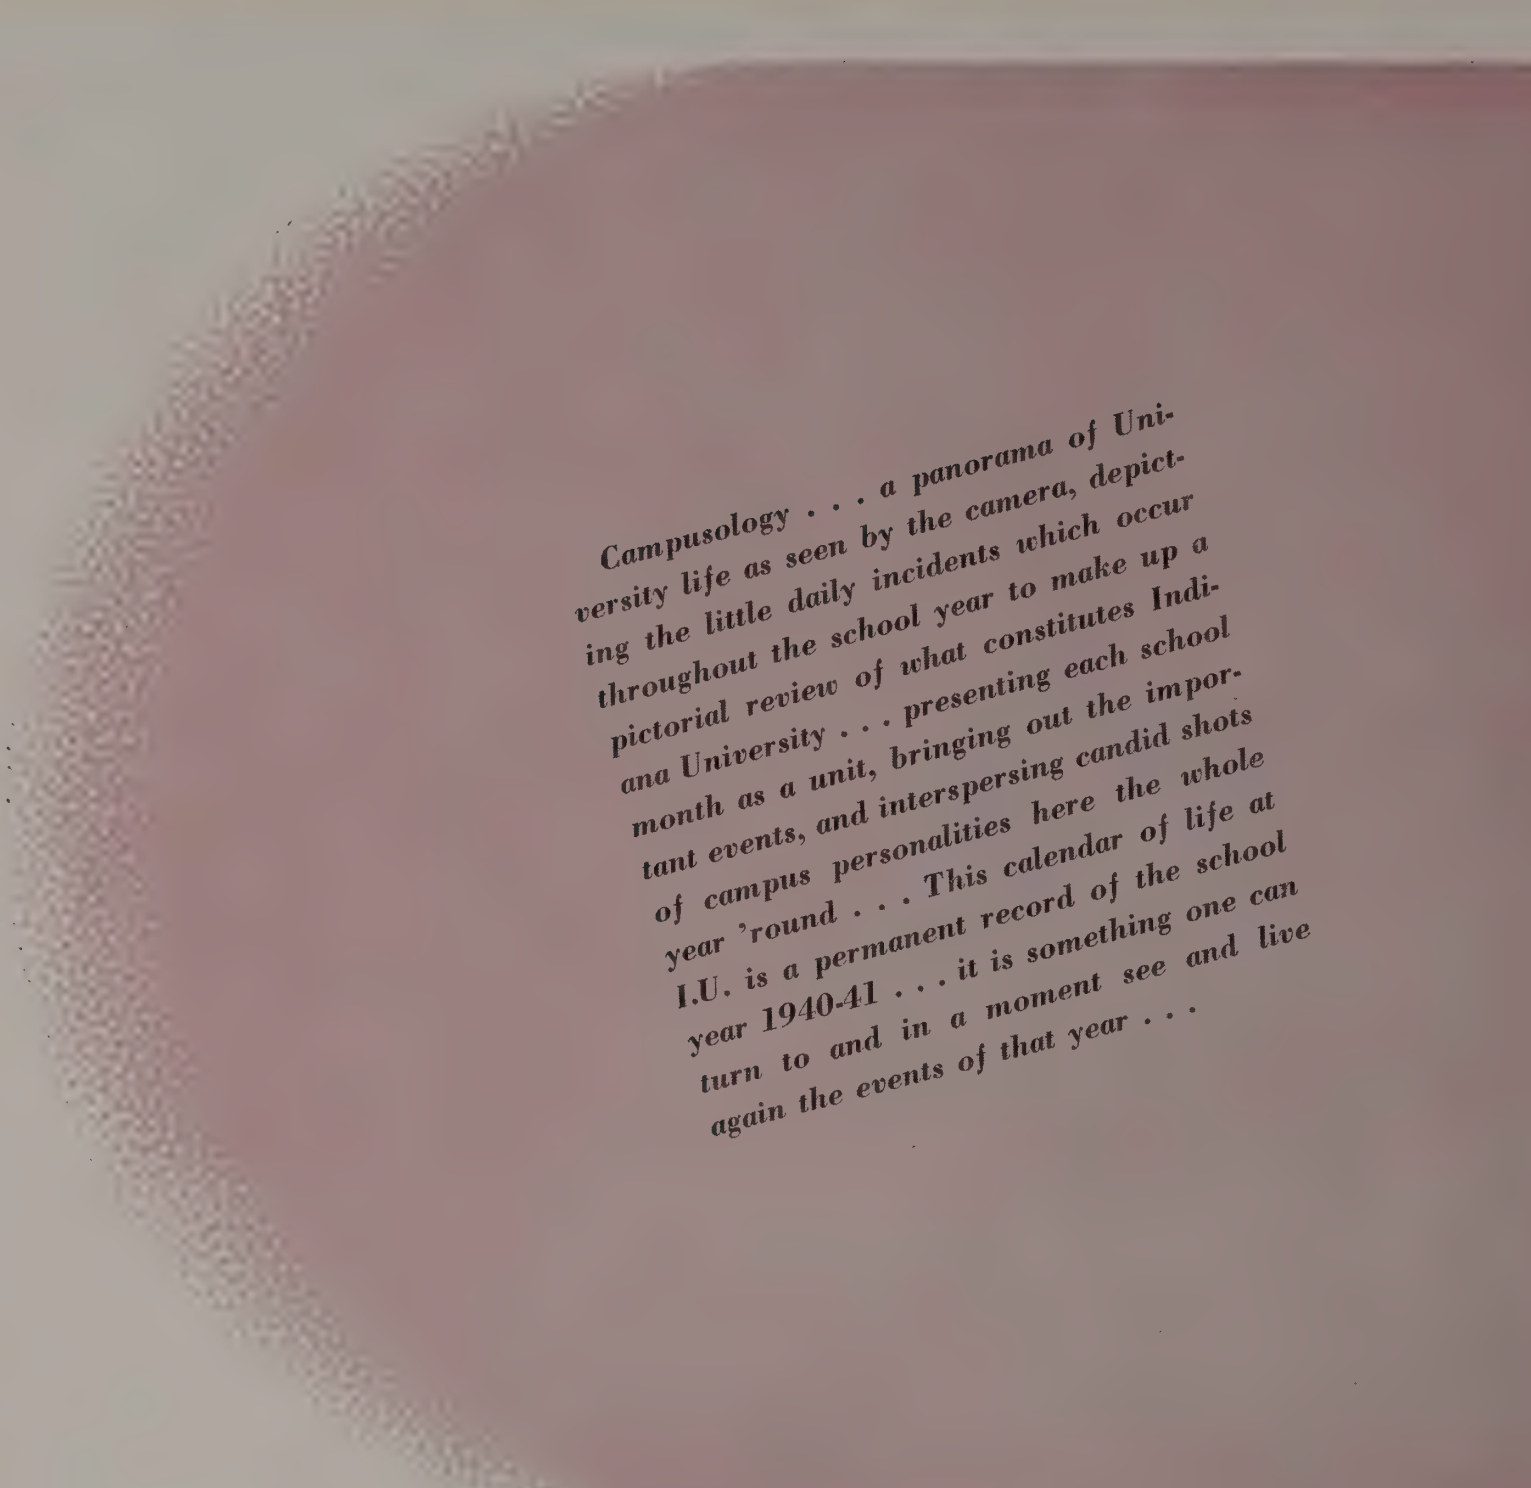

Dr. W. D. Gatch is director of the Student Health Service and Dr. Edith Schuman is executive secretary. University physicians are Doctors Charles E. Holland, Robert Speas, and John H. Smith.

FOOTBALL

Standing: Junior Managers Ripley, Fischer, Arnold, and Siegal.
Seated: Senior Managers Ulen and Cooper.

Assisting Head Coach A. N. ("Bo") McMillin is a capable staff of coaches and managers. Track coach E. C. ("Billy") Hayes and wrestling coach W. H. ("Billy") Thom both devote their fall time to helping "Bo" mold his gridiron machine. Paul C. ("Pooch") Harrell, head baseball coach, tutors the freshman squad.

Head line coach is Carl ("Swede") Anderson, who played under McMillin at Geneva College and assisted him at Kansas State. Anderson came to Indiana three years ago after being Athletic Director and football coach at Western Kentucky State Teachers' College.

Ralph Graham, head backfield coach, also served under "Bo" at Kansas State. Graham is also freshman basketball coach and former tennis mentor.

In charge of the necessary detail work of running the squad were senior managers Gilbert Cooper and Clay Ulen. Under their direction travel arrangements, care of equipment, and countless other tasks were carried out by the junior and sophomore assistants.

Although Bo's boys won only three games and lost five this season, they showed much greater offensive power than their opponents. "Winning" nearly every game in the statistics department, the Hoosiers rolled up 88 first downs to their opponents' 63 and gained a total of 1,685 yards to 1,411.

Starting off with the dismal showing against Texas, Indiana did not offer much offense during her 13-6 defeat, and not until the second-half of the Nebraska game when they shoved the Rose Bowl selectees all over the field did they come to life and almost overtake the 13-7 lead of the Cornhuskers.

Iowa obliged by coming here for the Homecoming game and went home on the wrong end of a 10-6 score, the four winning points being provided by Gene White.

Against Northwestern White again booted the extra point that gave I.U. a 7-6 lead that lasted until the closing minutes of the game when the Wildcats took advantage of the "breaks" to win by a 20-7 score.

Ohio State found Indiana down in the "dumps," and scored three quick touchdowns before Indiana started to click again. By that time it was too late and the Buckeyes won, 21-6.

Michigan State, conqueror of Purdue, came to Bloomington for the Dads' Day game with the idea of doing the same thing to Indiana, but went home sadly on the wrong end of a 20-0 score.

Again it was an early "Blitz" that struck Indiana down at Wisconsin, three fumbles giving the Badgers scoring opportunities in the second quarter which they gleefully seized to win, 27-10. The score at the half was 27-3.

The well-known story of the Purdue game, the season's finale, is glorious history. The battle of the stalwart lines in the mud; the punting duel, in which both teams' kickers averaged nearly 40 yards per punt with the soggy ball; Cobb Lewis' pass interception and run-back in the fleeting minutes; little Red Zimmer's entrance into the game and his sweeping end runs; and last and perhaps most spectacular, Gene White's crowning feat, the winning field goal; all these provided a fitting climax for the always courageous Fighting Hoosiers.

FRESHMEN

THE "rhinies" turned out 70 strong in early September bidding for the chance to prove themselves capable of holding down positions on the varsity for the next three years.

With seventeen varsity gridders leaving via graduation this spring, "Bo" and his staff may find the necessary replacements in this squad for next fall. An entire new forward wall must be developed. Tackles especially will be in great demand, as Al Sabol, Emil Uremovich, and Frank Smith vacate the posts they have held for three years.

Freshman coach Paul C. (Pooch) Harrell had plenty of experienced aids in Branch McCracken, John Widaman, and Robert (Spanky) Haak, all former Crimson linemen. McCracken spent time with the ends, Haak with the tackles and guards, and Widaman, the backs. "Pooch" acquainted the boys with the McMillin-type plays and helped them develop from high school players to college gridmen.

The highlight of the Freshman practice season was the annual intra-squad battle after the Powwow on the night before the Homecoming game. Played in the Fieldhouse under the lights, the game proved as fast and skillfully played as many big time contests. Neither the dirt floor nor the length of the field, only 80 yards, had any perceptible effect on the boys' play.

The two teams, the Reds and the Grays, were almost evenly matched, the main difference being that the Gray squad boasted Bill Hillenbrand, flashy triple-threat halfback, and Lou Saban, powerhouse fullback.

Hillenbrand sliced off right tackle in the second quarter and evaded the entire Red team scoring a 40-yard touchdown.

The Reds came back in the third quarter and after a sustained drive led by Bill Waldon and Jim Ricketts, former Kokomo stars, reached the Grays' 4-yard line from where Charles Jacoby ripped through for the score.

The tide turned again and the Grays ran rough-shod down the field to the Red 3-yard line before a fumble ended the drive. Hillenbrand received the punt at mid-field and raced to the Gray 20 on the next play. A pass to Allen Gilmore, rangy end, put the ball on the 6-yard line and Bill Kennedy put it over in two smashes. Passes filled the air in the final minutes, but the scoring had ended for the night.

VARSIITY

Coach A. N. (Bo) McMillin and Company went through spring training and fall drills confident that the 1940 football squad would prove to be one of the best in the history of Indiana University if not one of the topnotch teams in the country.

Their confidence was based on several encouraging prospects. First, a squad with 22 veterans was on hand around which to build the team; sixteen of these men being seniors with two years' Big Nine experience. Secondly, a group of speedy sophomores gave promise of adding zip to the Hoosiers' attack.

Another reason for looking forward to a highly successful season was the fact that for the first time in several years Indiana had men in sufficient numbers so that suitable reserve strength could be developed.

Eddie Herbert's injury was the first blow that struck at the Hoosiers' high hopes, but even then, there were still the powerful veteran line, Hursh and McGuire, fine passers, and Tofil, Lewis, Dumke, and Zimmer, experienced ball carriers.

What happened during the season that followed was a series of amazing form-reversals and heart-breaking losses. The team clicked beautifully for three well-earned wins, but the joy of those victories was blotted out by the loss of the five other games on the schedule.

The Hoosiers were champions on paper. Their statistical records show that they seemingly ran roughshod over their opponents; however, one column, the "Touchdowns Made" column, proves that the Hustling Hoosiers didn't do much hustling over enemy goal lines.

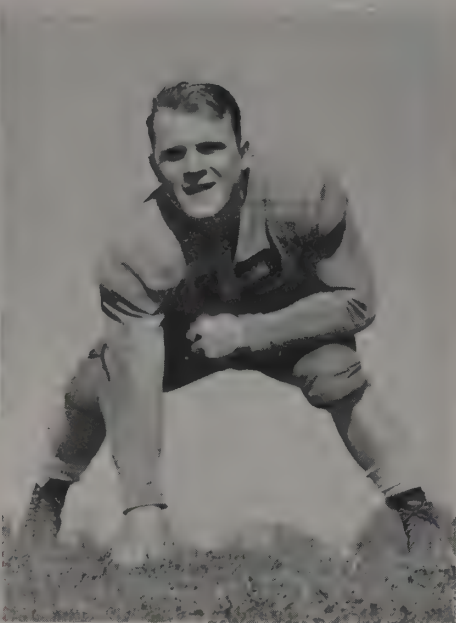

The collegiate football careers of sixteen seniors ended with the Purdue classic in which all of them saw action. They fought through grime and mud for 59 minutes, and finally their efforts were crowned by the spectacular playing that put Gene White in position for his winning field goal.

Probably the most pleasant surprise of the season was captain-elect Gene White's place kicking. His educated toe became a scoring threat every time Indiana pushed the ball into enemy territory, besides adding those all-important points after touchdowns.

Longhorns Stampede Hoosiers; Win, 13-6

Bloomington, Oct. 5—Under a broiling sun the Texas Longhorns stampeded over I.U., 13-6, to open the Hoosiers' 1940 football season. Outdriving the Indiana line throughout, the visitors capitalized on two scoring "breaks" to lead, 13-0, before Bo's "pore little boys" scored their only touchdown. Indiana showed plenty of power in the air, but their ground attack was nil. That much-needed scoring punch just wasn't there until too late.

Before the fans had settled in their seats, Spanky Gahm recovered a Texas fumble right after the kickoff. Little Red Zimmer scooted to a first down on the Texas 10-yard line and the Hoosier fans were whooping it up in anticipation of the score. However, the Texas line smothered three running plays and then batted down a pass to take the ball over on downs.

Pete Layden's long spirals kept Indiana deep in its own territory in the second quarter and set up the second "break" of the game. Kutner blocked Hursh's kick and recovered on the I.U. 15. Four plays later the Longhorns had stampeded over for the score.

The second half found the Texans on the rampage again but the Hoosiers "roped" them on the 6-yard line. Hal Hursh's pass was intercepted by pony back Jack Crain who galloped 40 yards back to the six. This time the Longhorns raced across on a wide end sweep.

With Mickey McGuire passing brilliantly, Indiana surged down the field in the final quarter, but needed a 15-yard penalty against Texas to move the ball to the 1-yard line. Ray Dumke immediately hammered over right tackle to make the final score: Texas, 13; Indiana, 6.

Huskers Drive To 13-7 Win Over I.U.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 12—Nebraska's Rose Bowl-bound football team today held Indiana's inspired second-half rally in check to win 13-7 on two touchdown passes by Rohrig and Hopp. The Huskers, after scoring twice in the first half, relinquished the aggressor's role to the Hoosiers who had given a listless performance up to that point in the torrid temperature.

After scoring one touchdown on a pass, Red Zimmer just missed tying the count when he dropped one of Hal Hursh's tosses with a clear field ahead in the final minutes.

Late in the first quarter "German Herman" Rohrig, star Husker back, led his mates on a 64-yard march, and provided the climax by throwing a 12-yard touchdown pass to Prochaska.

With a new line-up on the field, Nebraska made another drive in the second period, this time engineered by Harry (Hippity) Hopp, 2nd varsity quarterback. The march ended on Indiana's 5-yard line, but was resumed following Hursh's wobbly out-of-bounds punt on Indiana's 31-yard line. Two Nebraska plunges put the ball on the 20, from where Hopp threw a strike to Allen Zikmund, sophomore halfback, who ran for the score. Fullback Rohn kicked the extra point.

In the third quarter guard Gene White intercepted a pass and raced 31 yards to the Nebraska 33. Tofil plunged to the Husker 18 in two quick smashes. Then Hursh flipped a long cross-field pass to halfback Red Zimmer, who eluded two Nebraska tacklers and sprinted over the goal. Shortly afterwards, Zimmer dropped a pass when he was clear for a certain touchdown.

Homecoming, the annual week-end of "grip-slipping," back slapping, and overworked freshmen, was carried on in its usual style this year. Old grads returned to their Alma Mater in droves, bringing their bald heads and bay windows, too.

In years past the various social organizations put up beautiful decorations to make the alums think the house had improved, but in this "modern" age the grads are treated to decorations that range from tree stumps to worn-out mattresses.

Freshmen and barnyard creatures are recruited to stand below all manner of odd signs floating in the breeze. The opposing team is usually the object of subtle or just plain nasty cracks about how bad Indiana is going to beat them.

Iowa Hawkeyes Bow To Indiana; 10-6

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 19—Indiana's twice-beaten Hoosiers today upset the dope bucket and opened their Big Nine season with an impressive 10-6 win over Iowa. A Homecoming crowd of 20,000 cheered as a perfectly executed field-goal by Gene White, and a 56-yard jaunt by Red Zimmer gave the Hoosiers a 10-0 first-quarter lead which was never seriously threatened by the Hawkeyes.

Showing a spark and drive which had been sadly lacking in their two previous games this season, Indiana did their scoring in the early stages of the game. Shortly after the opening kick-off Iowa punted to mid-field. Hal Hursh promptly rifled a pass to big Archie Harris for a first down on the Hawkeye ten. When three line plays failed to dent the Iowa defenses everyone thought that, as usual, the Hoosiers were still impotent at the goal line; but guard Gene White pulled out of the line and booted a perfect field-goal to give Indiana a three-point margin.

A few minutes later little Red Zimmer was sent into the fray and on the first play romped 56 yards around Iowa's left end for a touchdown. Reliable Gene White converted and Indiana had a 10-0 lead. From then on the Hawkeyes were held in check for one 80-yard march in the third quarter which resulted in their only touchdown.

Today's victory gives Indiana a record of one win and two losses, but since the losses were administered by non-Conference foes the Hoosiers have a clean slate in the Big Nine and once again loom as possible title contenders.

Breaks Avert Wildcat Upset; I.U. Dropped, 20-7

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 26—Indiana's Hoosiers, playing their best game of the season thus far, nearly upset the powerful Northwestern Wildcats today; but Fate intervened and gave the Purple two scoring breaks and a 20-7 victory in the fleeting minutes of the fourth quarter. A long Northwestern pass was completed to the Indiana 10 from where Benson, Wildcat back, punched the ball over in four plays. With only two minutes of play remaining, Mickey McGuire's attempted punt was blocked by big Alf Bauman and scooped up by Jimmy Smith who romped over the goal for the Wildcats' third touchdown.

Indiana controlled the ball throughout the first quarter, but were held in check by effective Wildcat punting. Soon after the opening of the second period, Northwestern drove to Indiana's 44 from which point Hahnenstein tossed the first of the fatal passes, connecting with Butcherus on the Hoosier 9. The Purple drove the ball across on two plays but the attempted conversion was wide.

Following the kickoff Indiana started a drive that completely bewildered the Wildcats. The vaunted Purple line was ripped to shreds by Tofil, Dumke, Zimmer, and Swihart in successive thrusts. Tofil rushed over from the 2-yard line to top the field-length march. Gene White kicked the Hoosiers into the lead, 7-6, which they held at half-time.

Costly fumbles deprived Indiana of two more touchdowns in the third quarter. Defensively, Uremovich, Sabol, Rucinski, and Bucchianeri were the standouts of the Indiana forward wall.

Ohio State Trounces I.U., 21-6, Before 56,667

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 2—Indiana University's "statistical champs" clashed with the Ohio State powerhouse today in quest of their second Big Nine win, but were dealt a severe jolt in the form of a 21-6 trouncing. Langhurst's two touchdowns plus one by Kinkade, all in the first half, were too much for the Indiana statisticians to cope with even though the story of the game on paper added up to an Indiana victory.

A crowd of 56,667 saw the Hoosiers bound back in the same manner that characterized their play in the second half of the Nebraska game, which they also lost. The Crimson managed to punch over a score in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter on a plunge by Joe Tofil after an extended drive which showed both ground and aerial power, but their scoring for the day ended there.

The Indiana line was again outstanding in stopping Langhurst and Kinkade for negligible gains in the second half, and Hursh and McGuire completed 12 out of 21 attempted aerals for 161 yards, but the Hoosier attack invariably stalled inside Ohio's 20-yard line.

According to Coach McMillin, Archie Harris, giant right end, aggravated an old shoulder injury in the contest, but is not expected to be kept out of the Michigan State game next Saturday because of it.

The fact that Ohio State isn't included on the Crimson's 1941 schedule is not likely to cause much grief in Bloomington, because today's thumping came on the heels of a 24-0 victory that the Scarlet and Gray hung up last year and a 6-0 triumph that they managed in 1938.

Statistics may sound like "sour grapes," but Indiana made 17 first downs to Ohio's 10, netted 328 yards to the Buckeyes' 195, and completed 12 of 21 pass attempts against Ohio's 5 out of 10 . . . Proves nothing except too much Langhurst and Kinkade . . . Spanky Gahm, 3-year veteran at the pivot spot, was I.U.'s acting captain . . . Big Al Sabol stopped Buckeye backs at the scrimmage line more times than he has fingers . . . Picture below shows Hursh launching an aerial.

Hoosiers Show Power; Rout Mich. State, 20-0

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 9—Charley Bachman's Michigan State Spartans ran into a crew of angry Hoosiers who were still smarting from a decisive beating at the hands of Ohio State, and consequently were handed a 20-0 lacing. A fourth quarter touchdown, resulting from a blocked kick by Archie Harris which was recovered by Eddie Rucinski, was added to touchdown passes from Hal Hursh to Dale Swihart and Harris, providing Indiana's margin of victory.

The Spartans threw a scare into the Hoosiers in the first quarter when they drove deep into Crimson territory before being stopped and their fourth-down field goal attempt was wide.

Hal Hursh, Bob White, Joe Tofil, and Dale Swihart took over the Indiana backfield as the second period opened, and an 80-yard drive started at that point. Tofil crashed through for a first down, then Swihart added another, carrying the oval to midfield.

Hursh went into high, clicking on an aerial to Harris for a first down on the invaders' 28-yard line. Hursh then hit Swihart for a first down on the 16-yard line. Finally Hursh dropped a pass into Harris' arms in the end zone. White added the point on a place-kick.

Indiana struck twice in the final quarter to "ice" the game. Hursh tossed to Swihart on the Spartan 40 and the shifty back, with beautiful broken field running, galloped to the end zone.

Seconds later Harris pushed his blocker line into the Spartan kicker, effectively blocking the punt which rolled into the end zone where Rucinski fell on it for a touchdown.

Wisconsin Wins, 27-10; Hoosier Fumbles Costly

Madison, Wisc., Nov. 16—Wisconsin's fast-charging Badgers, underdogs before the game started, bottled up Indiana's vaunted "Aerial Circus" today and trampled the black-clad Hoosiers, 27-10, before a Dad's Day crowd of 16,000 at Camp Randall field.

On the first play after the kickoff Wisconsin's Johnny Tenneant fumbled and Rucinski recovered for Indiana on the Badger 26. Indiana made eight yards and then guard Gene White place-kicked a field goal from the 25.

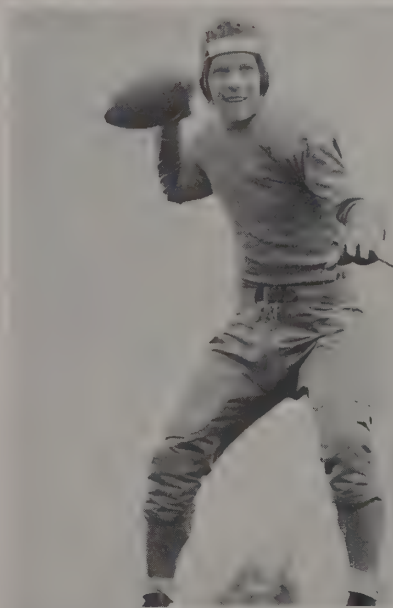

Wisconsin came back with a 69-yard drive to the Indiana four, but fumbled and Hursh punted out. Badger fullback Paskvan broke off tackle on the next play and raced down the sidelines back to Indiana's four. In two tries he scored a touchdown.

It was Indiana's turn to fumble in the second period. Center Bob Henry recovered one of them on the Crimson 26-yard line and a pass, Hoskins to Schreiner, put Paskvan in position for another touchdown smash. Another Indiana fumble, by Red Zimmer, on his 10-yard line, set up an off-tackle sprint by McFadzean for Wisconsin's third touchdown.

When Indiana lost possession on Wisconsin's 32 a few minutes later, McFadzean gained five yards and Bob Ray, in four successive plays, ran the ball 67 yards to Indiana's goal for Badger touchdown number four. Ray also kicked three conversions.

Indiana's touchdown came late in the fourth quarter. Starting from his 21-yard line, Hursh passed to big Archie Harris, who evaded midfield tacklers and was hauled down from behind on Wisconsin's 10. Swihart lost a yard and then Hursh passed to Harris in the end zone.

GENE WHITE . . .
Hero at Purdue
and Captain-elect.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 23—In a story-book finish Indiana's Fightin' Hoosiers today waited until the last 14 seconds of play before winning their annual feud with Purdue by a 3 to 0 score in rain-drenched Ross-Ade Stadium. A field goal, with a mud-soaked ball, kicked from the 26-yard line at a difficult angle, by Gene White, junior guard, provided the three points that gave Indiana victory and possession of the traditional Old Oaken Bucket for the first time in five years.

The long awaited "break" finally came in the final minute when Cobb Lewis, junior halfback, intercepted a last-quarter Boilermaker pass on his own 35-yard line and returned 25 yards.

Red Zimmer, Hoosier speed merchant, then made his first appearance in the game and personally moved the ball to the 19-yard on three sparkling end runs.

With time almost gone, White stepped back to make his second attempt from the field in the game. In quick succession, the ball passed from the hands of center "Little Spanky" Gahm to those of ball-holder Bill Tipmore to the toe of White to the arms of the referee, waiting beyond the goal posts.

Indiana's powerful line held the Lafayette athletes almost helpless. Purdue's only real scoring threat came in the third quarter when, on being stopped after a drive down the field, they, too, attempted a score from the field. The kick was short and was caught and run back by Lewis.

Indiana's powerful aerial offensive was checked more effectively by the rain than by any opponent met during the season. The usually free-tossing Hoosiers made only eight attempts through the air, with three of them clicking. Neither team was able to register extensive gains on the ground, the Bo-men holding a slight edge in first downs, 6 to 5.

The game was, for the most part, a punting duel with Indiana's Earl Dolaway and Hal Hursh countering the attack of Purdue's left-footed Johnny Galvin.

Macmen Win 17 Out of 20 Games; Big Ten Runnerup

Branch smiles and looks over his Seniors; the Seniors who were raw Sophomores when he returned to his Alma Mater in 1938 to take over the reins from his teacher, Coach Everett Dean.

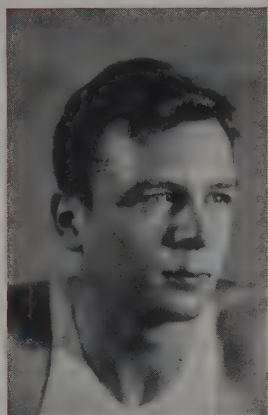

Branch and his boys have gone far in three years; have hung up impressive records; have won from the best in the land. The national championship of the 1939-1940 season; three times runners-up for the Big Ten crown, each time with its heart-breaking memories of how close the "hard-luck Hoosiers" were to the top; a new Conference scoring record last year of 519 points in twelve games; 26 victories in 27 non-Conference games, losing only to Southern California this year after 25 consecutive non-Conference victories; won every home game for three years, until Wisconsin's title-clinching victory on February 24 of this year; these three years could easily be called the "golden age" of Indiana basketball.

The class of Seniors has been the backbone of the Hoosier squad for these three campaigns. They have accounted for approximately eighty or ninety per cent of Indiana's total points. The starting lineups have invariably included at least three or four of them. Big Bill Menke has held down the pivot spot and Schaefer, Dro, McCreary, and Armstrong usually played the major portions of ball games in their respective positions.

A crop of fast-developing Sophomores have lent valuable aid in crucial games during this last season, besides Andy Zimmer and Everett Hoffman, both Juniors. Johnny Logan, Irvin Swanson, and Ed Denton were especially valuable in relief work after Curly Armstrong's ineligibility.

Nine Crimson Cagers End 3-Year Careers

The crack of the timer's gun ending the Chicago game also ended the careers of nine Senior members of the Indiana basketball team. These nine Seniors were Sophomores when Branch McCracken assumed the coaching duties at Indiana. Since then their names and his have become synonymous with outstanding basketball. They are the same crew, with the exception of Huffman, who captured the national championship in 1940. This year they were bolstered by an aggressive group composed of a Junior and four Sophomores who gave the team reserve strength of undreamed-of calibre.

Indiana's record was seventeen wins and three losses. The stand-out of the wins was the "pupil versus teacher" game played against Stanford. In a 60-59 overtime win Pupil McCracken's Hoosiers nosed out Teacher Dean's Indians at San Francisco during the famous West Coast invasion. The standard of the three losses was the 38-30 defeat by Wisconsin which gave the Badgers the Western Conference championship and relegated the Hoosiers to second place.

 Top Row—Schideler, Torphy, Logan, Swanson, Wellman, Heine.

First row—Holsapple, Morris, Shumaker, Gilmore, Schienbein, Kilby, Long, Charles Hamilton.

Second row—Coach Graham, Munson, Marlow, Moore, Lewis, Steinwedel, Ralph Hamilton, King, Smith, Partenheimer, assistant Coach McLelland.

FRESHMEN

With nine Seniors of the Indiana varsity graduating, those members of the Freshman squad who prove their worth can well expect to fill the nine vacancies when the season opens next year. Sophomores played a vital part in the campaign this year, which is noteworthy in that only one regular was graduated last June.

Ralph Graham, Freshman coach, also tutors the football backfield, so his cagers practiced at night. They were grouped in two squads this year, the Reds and Blues. The rhinies often proved valuable in scrimmaging the varsity, and gave creditable showings in most of the engagements with the McCracken aggregation.

Before each home game the frosh held intra-squad practice games on the fieldhouse court. In these encounters the traditional Indiana "firewagon" style was seen to be developing rapidly in the play of the squad.

A few of the standouts on the squad were: Ralph Hamilton, of Ft. Wayne South Side; Dick Wittenbraker and Warren Lewis of Newcastle; Ed Schienbein, of Southport; Roy Kilby, of Muncie Burris; and Jim Funk, of LaPorte.

NON-CONFERENCE

In the two seasons preceding this one the Merry-Macs of Indiana had compiled a non-Conference record of nineteen wins in nineteen games. Opening the season this year in quest of their twentieth straight victory, they played host to the Georgia Crackers. The easy-going Southerners couldn't quite keep up, and number twenty was in the bag as a result of the Hoosiers' 44-31 win on the Fieldhouse floor.

How long the Indiana string of non-Conference victories was to continue became a much-discussed topic in basketball circles as the Hoosiers trekked to Indianapolis where the Butler Bulldogs were waiting, fangs bared. The Hoosiers apparently were a little too relaxed, and barely kept their string intact as they struggled through to a 39-36 win. That made twenty-one.

Next on the list was Marshall College of West Virginia. They gave one of the best ball-handling exhibitions the McCracken cagers had seen in some time, but the national champs put on an even better exhibition of basket-sniping and won going away by a 53-22 margin. Thus number twenty-two was chalked up as the Hoosiers prepared for their West Coast invasion.

Indiana's eight-day West Coast invasion will be long remembered, both here and along the Pacific shores. Hailed as the best team in the country, the Hoosiers were confronted in the first of their four-game schedule by Stanford, the pride of the West Coast.

This game was truly the "Press Agent's Dream." Branch McCracken had his team in San Francisco to play the team coached by his former coach, Everett Dean, whom he succeeded at Indiana University. There was a certain drama about the two teams meeting. Who would be the victor, pupil or teacher? This issue was decided on the night of December 21 before a huge turnout of excited fans. Two teams could not have been any more evenly matched than those two were that night. In a torrid first half the lead seesawed back and forth continually with Indiana finally gaining a 22-21 lead. The second half was even more bitterly contested, and at the end of the regulation playing time the count was knotted at 54-54. In the overtime period that followed Indiana scored six points to Stanford's five, and emerged the victors. The West Coast fans still have their hearts in their mouths after watching the Hoosiers chalk up number twenty-three.

(Top) Andy Zimmer jumps higher than his three rivals from Georgia as he takes a rebound. Driver (27) lends moral support.

(Middle) Bill Menke (38) neatly drops in one of his famous one-handed push shots in Indiana's 39-36 victory over Butler.

(Bottom) Sophomore Ed Denton (42) vies with a Marshall man for a rebound as the Hoosiers wallop Marshall, 53-22.

Somewhat sluggish after their battle with Stanford, the MerryMacs were closely pressed by the California Bears, who wanted to break that victory string which had now reached a total of 23. However, the Indiana spirit won out, and the California squad bowed by a close 42-39 score.

The Hoosiers then had a 4-day rest in Los Angeles before tackling U.C.L.A. on December 27. Tales of their experiences with the wonders of Hollywood and its glamorous stars are still told and retold. But like efficient business men, they were all business on the night of the 27th when they routed the Uclans by a 51-26 margin, allowing them only eight points during the second half.

To compare the effectiveness of the Hoosier play on that night, U.C.L.A. proved to be no "weak sister" when on February 1 the Uclans took a 45-44 decision from Stanford, to hand the Indians their second defeat of the season.

On the next night the long-cherished non-Conference winning streak of the weary Hoosiers was broken by Southern California at 25 consecutive victories in three years.

Ever since the Trojans lost their chance to meet Indiana in the N.C.A.A. tourney last year, they had been pointing for this game. The Trojans started off fast and built up a lead in the first three periods that even a pace-killing Hoosier rally in the final quarter couldn't overcome and Indiana tasted their first defeat of the year, 41-39.

Three days later found the hustling Hoosiers in the midst of the Sugar Bowl Carnival in New Orleans. The Macmen found their "land legs" after a rough air trip from the Coast and awed the Southerners with a typical "fire brigade" victory over the champions of the Southeastern Conference, the Kentucky Wildcats, on December 30.

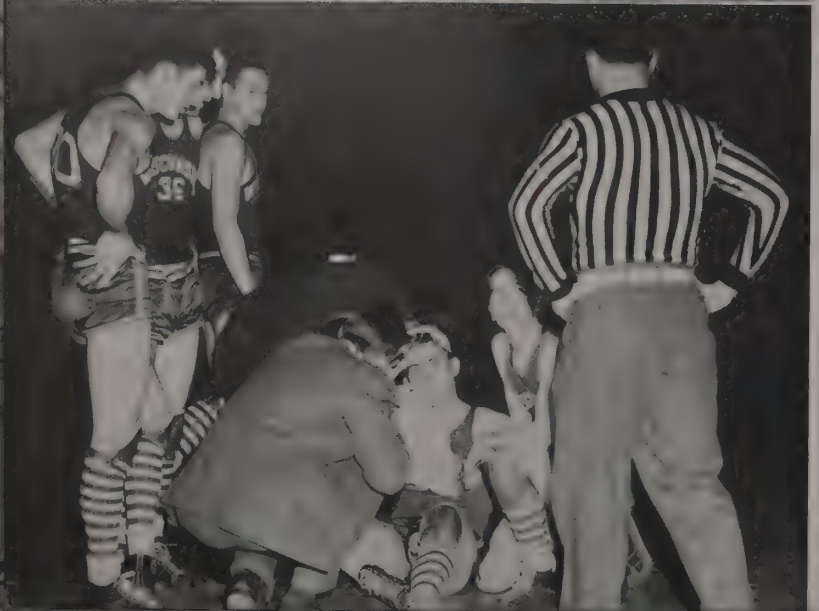

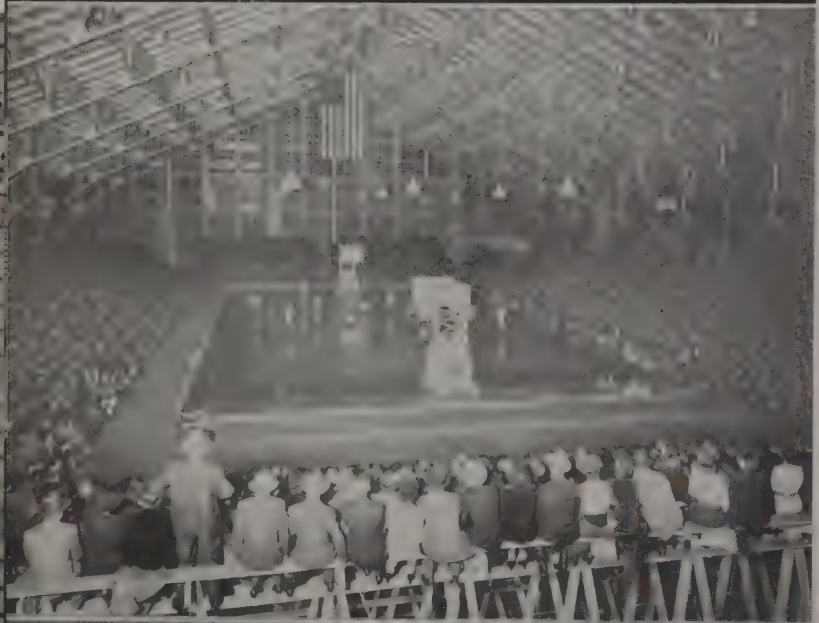

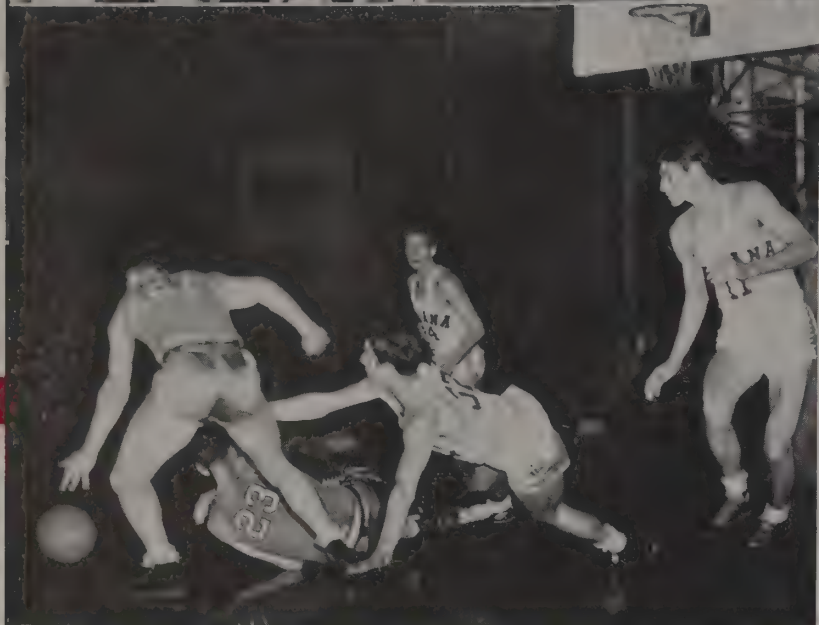

Called the greatest Sugar Bowl champions in its 6-year history, the Hoosiers led almost throughout the thrilling game and won, 48-45.

Wisconsin Trips I.U., Takes Big Ten Title; Indiana Places Second

February 24 was a cold night in Bloomington, cold and dreary. Probably the coldest men in Bloomington were the five representing Indiana on the Fieldhouse floor against Wisconsin's Badgers. As a result, the Badgers went back home with a 38-30 victory and a clear ticket to the Big Ten title. Indiana picked the wrong off-night and ended up in the runner-up spot in the conference for the third consecutive year.

Before the ill-fated Badger game, the Crimson squad had swept all contenders except Purdue out of its path with decisive wins.

Bill Menke scored 24 points against Illinois in the Hoosiers' 48-38 victory to begin the campaign. Northwestern threatened in the first half, but bowed before a basket barrage in the second half, 52-32. Michigan next went on the victim list to the tune of 41-37. Purdue punctured the Hoosiers' balloon at Lafayette with a dogged 40-36 decision.

On the rebound the "firewagon gang" put on the steam and sunk Ohio State, 45-25, and Iowa, 50-40, in rapid succession. Minnesota didn't prove too tough and fell 44-34.

The Macmen then traveled to Ohio State and clipped them for the second time, 40-33. Iowa again felt defeat at the hands of the Hoosiers at Des Moines, 47-36.

Then came the struggle for the Big Ten crown with Wisconsin, and the Crimson squad had to be content with second place after avenging Purdue's defeat by humbling them 47-29, and taking the cellar-bound Chicagoans 49-33.

TRACK

ONCE again Coach E. C. ("Billy") Hayes climbs back to the top of the ladder with a cross-country and track team that just wouldn't be beaten.

To add to the long list of champions that Coach Hayes has developed will go the names of Campbell Kane, the nation's outstanding collegiate middle-distance runner today, Roy Cochran, 440-yard dash star, Fred Wilt, already the Conference two-mile champion though only a sophomore, and Archie Harris, giant all-around field man and former Big Ten titleholder in the shot put.

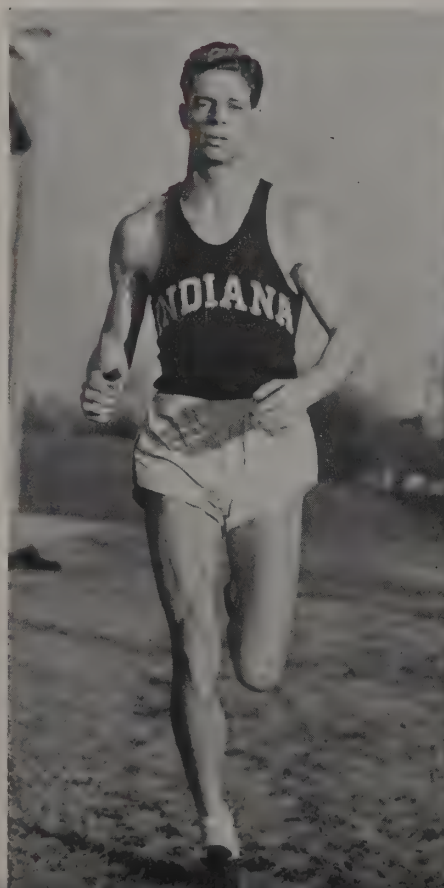

The National and Big Ten championships garnered by the cross-country team last fall were the first indication of a "grand slam" season. Next came the remarkable success of Kane and Cochran and the relay teams against the cream of the country's competition in the Eastern Invitational meets before the regular indoor schedule began.

The crowning achievement came with the overthrowing of the powerful Michigan team's domination of the Big Ten Indoor Track Meet at Purdue. Although this publication goes to press before the running of the Big Ten Outdoor Meet, the outcome should, by all indications, be in favor of the great Hoosier squad.

The Crimson machine would then be faced with dethroning the Southern California Trojans in the NCAA meet in June to complete one of the most successful years in track history.

Campbell Kane

Roy Cochran

COACH Hayes' proteges made indoor track history before the regular schedule even started. Spectacular victories in middle distance and relay events at the invitational meets in the East brought honors to Indiana and hopes of both the indoor and outdoor Conference titles.

Kane and Cochran earned the title of the "Flying Duo" at the third annual Veterans of Foreign Wars track meet in Boston January 11 by winning the half mile and 600-yard run, respectively. Cochran avenged his Sugar Bowl defeat by pacing Quigley and Jimmy Herbert, former N.Y.U. flash, and Kane was followed by Jim Kehoe, ex-Maryland ace.

Two weeks later a crack Hoosier mile-relay team composed of Archie Harris, Marc Jenkins, Kane, and Cochran defeated the vaunted Princeton University runners at the Knights of Columbus-Prout Memorial games at Boston. Kane shattered the Boston indoor track record for 1,000 yards when he ran the distance in 2:11.8, defeating the indoor world recordholder, John Borican, speedy New Jersey Negro ace, and Kehoe. Cochran added his share to Indiana's big night by outrunning Quigley, Charlie Beetham, former Big Ten half-mile champion, Charlie O'Donnell of Holy Cross and Herbert.

The third invasion of the "Flying Duo" occurred at the Millrose A.C. games at Madison Square Garden in New York City on February 1 when Kane and Cochran breezed through their third consecutive triumphs in the half-mile run and the 600-yard run, respectively. A picked Indiana medley-relay team consisting of Kane, Cochran, Dale Burnett, and Wayne Tolliver easily won over three other topnotch college teams. Kane chalked up number three over Beetham and Kehoe in 1:58, and Cochran led Herbert across the tape in the fast time of 1:12. The Crimson relay team won handily over Maryland, Manhattan College, and Ohio State, running the one and seven-eighths mile in 7:32.9.

The Eastern meets were also featured by two-mile duels with Don Lash, Tommy Deckard, and Mel Trutt, former Hoosier distance greats, battling for supremacy at that distance with Greg Rice, formerly of Notre Dame. Rice finally broke Lash's World indoor mark and set 8:51.1 as the new indoor record.

Kane was beaten in a 1,000 yard race at Cleveland two nights after the Butler Relays by John Borican at the K. of C. meet; but he ended the indoor season with a spectacular 4:11 mile at the Chicago Daily News Relays on March 20 to win over Walter Mehl and Chuck Fenske, former Conference one-mile champions. Cochran also annexed another 600-yard victory at Chicago before beginning the outdoor season.

Head Track Coach E. C. ("Billy") Hayes . . . has been at Indiana since 1924 . . . Has developed State, Big Ten, and National Champions; specializes in middle-distance men . . . MICHIGAN'S seven-year strangle-hold on the Western Conference Indoor Track championship was finally broken as Indiana's great squad, led by its middle-distance stars, forced its way back to the top for the first time since the Wolverines wrested the title from the Hoosiers in 1934.

When the opening day's preliminaries were over and the 22 man Crimson team had been cut to nine, while Michigan was qualifying eleven men, the same old Wolverine triumph seemed imminent, but the Hoosiers rolled up 44 points and won with plenty to spare.

Campbell Kane displayed unbeatable form in winning his two specialties, the mile-run and the 880-yard dash, thus retaining his mile crown won in 1940 and adding the 880 to his record.

Bob Burnett, Senior veteran, won the broad jump; at the same time establishing a record, since this event had not been contested in previous indoor championships. Roy Cochran had little trouble in defending his quarter-mile championship, running the distance in a fast 48.4 seconds.

Fred Wilt and Wayne Tolliver monopolized the two-mile run to give Indiana first and second place. Wilt, the team's outstanding sophomore, set a grueling pace and lapped the entire field.

The Hoosier one-mile relay team lost by five-tenths of a second to Michigan, in a race which consisted of two heats, the Wolverines running in one and the Hoosiers in the other. Michigan won the first heat and Indiana the second, but the defending champs were pressed by Ohio State and turned in the faster time.

COACH "Billy" Hayes and his I.U. thinlies had a successful indoor track season this year winning four meets and placing second in the Butler Relays.

In the first meet with Ohio State the competition was keen and only in the last two events did Indiana gain its victory margin. The final score was  $52\frac{1}{3}$  to  $51\frac{2}{3}$ .

In the Illinois Relay Carnival, Indiana tied the record set by the University of Chicago in 1918 by winning the two-mile, the distance medley, and the four-mile events. Archie Harris, the husky protege of Billy Hayes, broke the record which was established eleven years ago for the sixteen-pound shot, when he threw it forty-eight feet  $4\frac{1}{4}$  inches. Harris also finished second in the half-mile race and third in the 75-yard dash.

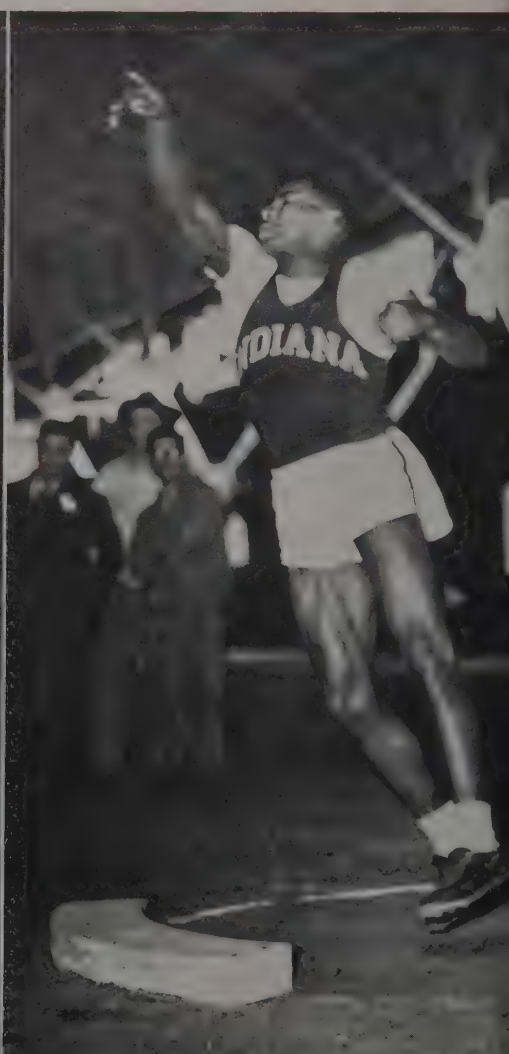

The third record set by the Crimson thinlies was in the four-mile relay. Paul Kendall, Vernon Broertjes, Fred Wilt, and Wayne Tolliver ran this event in 17:34.8, shattering the mark of 17:39.4 set by the University of Michigan in 1940.

In the only meet at home the runners defeated Notre Dame in a close meet. Campbell Kane won the 880-yard dash and the mile against Notre Dame's best men. In the mile race Indiana placed first, second, and third while Cochran won the 440-yard dash. Archie Harris fell short of winning by  $\frac{5}{8}$  inch in the shot-put event against Delaney of Notre Dame.

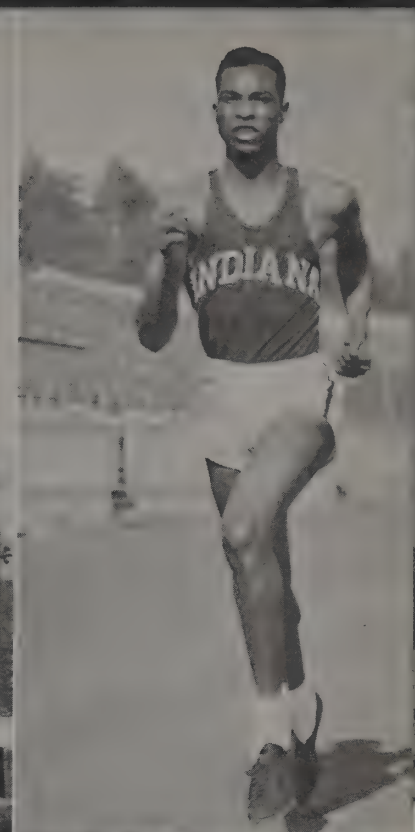

At the Purdue meet the scoring was different from ordinary meets by the consent of both teams making the meet close and exciting. The winner of the broad jump and the high jump was not decided until the final events were finished. Bob Burnett and Ed Mikulas won these events.

Although the Crimson thinlies didn't win the Butler Relays, they won two relay titles in the two-mile and four-mile events. The distance medley team won second while Harris and Mikulas won second and third, respectively, in their divisions.

(Top center) Ed Mikulas, hurdler, both high and low, and high jumper.

(Top right) Marc Jenkins, 440-yard dash and sprinter.

THE Hoosiers were given a good chance of capturing the Big Ten outdoor title as a result of their indoor record during the early spring. Missing only Roger Poorman, Conference javelin throw titleholder, Ed Hedges, middle-distance man, and Bob Denny, high and low hurdler, from last year's mainstays, replacements are on hand to fill the gaps left by these boys.

The outdoor schedule begins with the Penn Relays on April 25-26. A triangular meet between Purdue, Indiana, and Ohio State at Columbus follows the next week-end. Pittsburgh is entertained here on May 10 and the Big Ten Outdoor Meet will be held on May 16-17 at Minnesota. Bloomington will be the scene of the annual State meet on May 31. The squad will also compete in the Central Collegiate meet at Milwaukee June 6, the Big Ten-Pacific coast meet at Los Angeles June 14, and the NCAA meet at Palo Alto, Calif., on June 20-21.

Kane is expected to continue his streak of wins in the mile and half-mile and Cochran should be even better outdoors this year than last year. With Harris in the shot put, Mikulas and Burnett in the jump events, and Mikulas covering the hurdles the squad should be very well-balanced. Wilt should sweep every Conference distance race having already shown his superiority in his favorite, the two-mile run.

NATIONAL CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPIONS

THE hill and dalers of Indiana proved to be the nation's best, won back all the honors that last year fell to Michigan State, 1939 National champions, and Wisconsin, last year's Big Ten champions.

Seven times Indiana's 1940 cross-country team went to the post this fall and seven times they romped off with the honors, including the NCAA meet at Michigan State on November 18 and the Big Ten meet at Purdue on November 9.

Over the past 13 seasons, Crimson cross-country teams have won 56 out of their last 60 dual meets. Since 1928, the only year any other team than Indiana won the Big Ten title was last year when I.U. placed second to Wisconsin.

The harriers opened the season at Purdue with a 23-33 victory over the Boilermakers on October 5. The next meet with Iowa took the form of a matched two-mile race, pitting five Indiana men against five Iowa men in Indiana's Memorial Stadium. The Hoosiers came out on top, 10-26. Michigan State, the defending national champs, then bowed to the Crimson, 20-35. Ohio State proved little better and fell, 22-33. The annual State meet was easy prey, Purdue and Notre Dame following for second and third.

Ohio State, Purdue, and Wisconsin followed Indiana in that order in the annual Big Ten meet. Wayne Tolliver won first place and three other Indiana men placed in the first ten for a low total of 31 points. The NCAA meet was annexed the next week at Detroit.

Tolliver was elected honorary captain of the championship 1940 team because of his superlative performances throughout the year.

FRESHMEN

ALTHOUGH many of the outstanding trackmen of the 1941 squad graduate this spring, a group to fill their shoes has been developed during the past year by Tommy Deckard, former Indiana great, under the watchful eye of Coach "Billy" Hayes.

Roy Cochran, holder of the World's indoor 440-yard dash record, Archie Harris, all-around athlete and former Big Ten shot put titleholder, Ed Mikulas, hurdler and high jumper, and Marc Jenkins, sprinter, all consistent point-winners, will leave the fate of the squad to the oncoming underclassmen.

Better-than-the-average freshmen include Ed Mitchell, transfer from Butler, distance man; Charles Labotka of Hammond, also a distance man; Bill Elliott, Indianapolis, 440-yard dash man; Lawrence Falwell of Trenton, N.J., dash man and broad jumper; Lou Saban, LaGrange, Ill., throws the shot about as well as he plays full-back on the football team; Winfield Jones, Bicknell, high jump; and Jim Steele, high hurdler.

The Freshman squad as a whole is talented enough to fill almost any vacancies next year, and with additional years work under Coach Hayes, should develop into another championship team.

Tommy Deckard, now track coach at Bloomington High School, is one of Coach Hayes' many pupils. He became one of the greatest middle-distance men in the country during the '37 and '38 seasons, and still enters Invitational meets frequently.

1941

With 10 lettermen on the roster and at least one experienced man for every position except shortstop and catcher, Coach "Pooch" Harrell can afford to expect his team to surpass last year's record of ten wins and nine losses.

The pitching staff misses Dale Gentil, 1940 captain and leading twirler, but Don Dunker, Don Hundley, Vic Aldridge, and Clarence Brunner, all of whom saw action last year, will be on hand for regular mound duty. Bob Vittoz, Bob Hansen, and Bob Coleman, reserve pitchers, may break into the starting lineup before the season ends.

Captain Mike Kosman, leading hitter of last season, holds down the third sack, with Fred Gordon and John Logan ready to relieve him at any time. Don Danielson, veteran second baseman, may find competition in Bill Hacker for that position.

The outfield is taken care of by Bob Dro, Chet Francis, Russell Clifton, and Charles Shumaker, though Bob Pavis and Ivan Stostitch look promising in center field.

On first base is Everett Hoffman, letterman of last year. Sophomores Ralph Cooper and Sid Gerstenhaber are also aspirants for that job. At shortstop Kosman, Hacker, or Gordon may be called upon to fill the vacancy.

Guy Wellman, Marv Watkins, Cecil Ferguson, and Marv Groh are candidates for the wide-open catching position.

The season opens with the annual Southern training trip. Tilts with Ft. Benning and Auburn University feature the campaign, after which the Hoosiers open their home season against DePauw on April 7.

1940 Diamondmen Win Ten, Lose Nine; Take 7th in Conference

Indiana finished the 1940 season in seventh place in the Big Ten with three Conference wins against five losses. Illinois and Northwestern shared the title by winning nine out of twelve games each.

On the annual Southern training trip the Hoosiers confronted the soldiers of Ft. Benning, Georgia, in three games. After shutting out the service men in the first tilt 7-0, the Crimson diamondmen lost two heartbreaking struggles in a row, 1-0, in tense moundsmen's duels. Hundley allowed only two hits in the second, but was charged with his first loss of the season.

The Columbus Red Birds of the American Association league didn't prove too tough in the next encounter, and were walloped 8-5, but the Hoosiers dropped a close one to Ashville, 6-4, to end their pre-season training schedule.

Indiana State was the first victim of the Jordan Field boys on their home grounds to the tune of 11-2. The Sycamore squad took another one on the chin the following week at Terre Haute, 11-4. DePauw was taken in stride by a 7-2 count.

The Hoosiers beat Michigan 4-3 to open their Big Ten season, but dropped a 5-4 decision to the Wolverines the next day to even the series.

The Harrellmen then dropped three in a row, one to Butler, 4-3, and two to Wisconsin, 7-6 and 4-2, which took them out of the Conference title race.

Notre Dame was taken into tow by a 7-4 count by the Hustlin' Hoosiers, and Chicago was nipped twice in their next two engagements, 3-1 and an 8-0 shutout.

The first Butler defeat was avenged by a Crimson 7-1 victory before Illinois took the Hoosiers' measure in two games, 4-2 and 7-0.

Dale Gentil, captain and leading pitcher, was chosen for the Balfour Award. Gentil won five games and was only charged with two losses during the year.

Clarence Brunner won one and lost none for the best pitching average; sophomore Don Dunker won three and lost two; Don Hundley won one and lost four, and Vic Aldridge had one defeat and no victories.

Captain-elect Mike Kosman led the team batting with a sparkling .328 average. Bozidar Stoshitch was second with .270 and Don Danielson third with .254.

Varsity

First Row: Crosby, Rolak, Gill, Wilson, Sparks, Antonacci.

Second Row: Coach Thom, Lazzara, Lee, Anderson, Trimble, Davidson, Traster, Burns, Assistant Coach Inman.

Boasting a record of which most any athletic team would be proud, Coach W. H. ("Billy") Thom and his boys were still not quite satisfied with the season, mainly because the Big Ten title was relinquished to Minnesota after Indiana had held it two consecutive years and also because none of the Hoosiers scored points in the N.C.A.A. tournament at Lehigh University.

The grapplers won seven of eight dual meets, dropping only one decision, that to the powerful Franklin and Marshall team, 15-14. They won four matches to the Easterners' three, but lost five points in each of two matches because of falls.

Benny Wilson, 136-pound junior, was the only defending Big Ten champion to retain his title at the Conference meet this year. He was also given the Whitacre Award for being the most outstanding wrestler in the Big Ten.

Angelo Lazzara, 155-pound junior, won the individual Conference crown at that weight for the second time, the first being in 1939.

Wilson and Lazzara with Bob Antonacci, national 121-pound champion in 1940, and Harry Traster, veteran 165-pounder, were picked to represent Indiana in the national tournament. Wilson withdrew because of a knee injury received at the Big Ten meet, and the other three boys failed to place. Last year the Hoosiers had placed second in the meet behind Oklahoma A. and M., who successfully defended their title this year.

The grapplers opened the season with a warmup victory over the Evansville Y.M.C.A. An all-star Duncan "Y" team from Chicago then bowed to the improving Crimson squad. With only three experienced men in the lineup, the Thommen went East to defeat Ohio University and be nosed out by Franklin and Marshall.

Ohio State was the first Conference victim of the Hoosier matmen, and then Michigan, Illinois, and Purdue fell in that order before the powerful Indiana team.

Illness struck Antonacci and Joe Sparks, 128-pound sophomore, just before the Big Ten meet and the Hoosiers ended in a third-place tie with Illinois behind Minnesota and Iowa.

SWIMMING

FACED with top competition this year, Coach Robert A. Royer's swimmers won only two out of nine dual meets and scored but two points in the Big Ten meet. Only nine men were on the varsity, giving the Hoosiers claim to being the smallest squad in the Conference.

Bart Benedetti, versatile all-around speedster, was the most reliable point-getter, averaging at least one first-place each meet. Benedetti could be depended upon to swim any style at any distance when needed.

The illness of Mike Pakucko, veteran distance man, in midseason and also that of Frank Klafs, breast stroker, hampered the team's chances of a good record; but next season's prospects look good with the rise to prominence of several underclassmen. Ray Steffey and Bob Hall, divers; Cecil Franklin, breast stroke; and Al Van Duren, distance events, have shown remarkable improvement.

The splashers won their first dual meet from Ft. Wayne Y.M.C.A. in the season opener, and their second in the curtain closer with Notre Dame. They also met the Milwaukee A.C., Wisconsin, Illinois, Huntington Y.M.C.A., Purdue (twice), and Michigan State.

First Row: Powell, Sill, Horton, Schmidt, VanHorn, Gaston.

Second Row: Penning, Brownstein, Murphy, Rose, Corallo, Coach Soutar.

GOLF

With only Pete Grant and Harry Timbrook missing from the 1940 squad which won six of nine dual meets and took the Midwest Amateur championship at French Lick, the linksmen will have a well-rounded team of veterans to drive through the 1941 season.

Lettermen Frank Penning, Wilbur VanHorn, Bill Horton, Bob Sill, Julius Brownstein, and Wendall Aldrich may all surpass last year's records with the additional tutelage of Coach James Soutar, professional at the Bloomington Country Club. Soutar replaces the former coach, Prof. Hugh E. Willis of the Law School, who resigned his position of golf mentor last spring.

Additional experienced match golfers are also in abundance. Steve Rose returned to Indiana after a year at Northwestern. Rose was one of the outstanding members of the 1939 freshman squad. Hal Schmidt also returned to the squad after being out of school a year. Pete Corrallo and Lennis Murphy, numeral winners last spring, are the sophomores with seemingly the best chances to break into the starting lineup.

The season opens on April 14 against the powerful Northwestern team. Home matches are with Detroit, Purdue, and Illinois. The remainder of the schedule consists of matches with Ohio State, Michigan, and Butler, the State meet at Purdue, the Big Ten at Chicago, and the NCAA meet at Ohio State.

TENNIS

New coach, new courts, new hopes—the watchwords for I.U.'s netters in looking forward to fatter seasons after having been on the short end of the victory columns for several years.

Ralph L. Collins, former tennis ace at the University of the South at Sewanee and at present an instructor in the English Department, was chosen to succeed Ralph Graham, assistant football coach, as the net mentor. Coach Collins was a high-ranking player in the South in his collegiate days a decade ago.

The new men's courts on East Third street will give the needed training facilities to the squad; and also a chance to play home matches for the first time in several years.

The 1940 season ended with the none-too-impressive record of one victory, one tie, and eight defeats. The team beat Butler and drew with DePauw. Gil Haynie was the only Hoosier to score points in the Indiana State matches last year by going to the semi-finals in singles.

Jim Wood, Dan Chiddister, Bill Lugar, and Jack Feighner are returning lettermen. The home schedule includes DePauw, Cincinnati, Notre Dame, Western State, Wabash, and Detroit. The out-of-town matches are with Butler, Illinois, Kenyon, Ohio State, and the State meet at Earlham.

Bill Lugar and Dan Chiddister, Senior lettermen, welcome new Coach Ralph Collins.

I-MEN'S CLUB

THE campus I-Men's club, revived again after several years with no organization, is once more a reality. Started during the winter months by I-men who saw the need for such an organization, the club has already re-established itself as a permanent fixture among the campus organizations.

Bill Armstrong, baseball first-baseman, was elected president, with Vernon Broertjes, cross-country star, as secretary-treasurer and Campbell Kane as vice-president.

The purpose of the club is to bind the lettermen of different sports together in an effort to acquaint them with I-men in other sports and pledge their mutual support to teams of Indiana men in every sport.

The Board of Directors of the organization consists of one man representing each athletic team at Indiana. The Board representatives speak for the members of their teams concerning the business of the club.

All athletic coaches are honorary members of the club and their recommendations and suggestions are weighed heavily by the active members. The club is not actually associated with the I-Men's Association, which consists of alumni letter-winners, but co-operates with the Association whenever possible.

Although formed too late in the school year to have a complete social calendar, the I-Men planned an all-Indiana dance for a week-end in May.

INTRAMURALS

AS the 1941 Intramural season swung into the final spring campaign, only one point separated the three leading contenders. The Sigma Chis garnered 320 points during the fall and winter seasons, and the Delta Tau Deltas and S.A.E.'s were barking at their heels with 319½ and 319, respectively.

The S.A.E.s opened their defending bid for the title which they won in 1940 with a sweeping victory in the fall golf meet. The Delta Chis were second and Delta Tau Deltas third.

The N.A.G.U. gymnasts outdistanced all other teams in the cross-country race, followed by the A.T.O.s and the Sigma Chis, who were the defending champs. Jack Morris, Delta Tau Delta, took individual honors by winning the race.

The code ball championship went to the S.A.E.s with the Delta Tau Deltas second, and Sigma Pis third.

The powerful Sigma Chi touch football team breezed through all opposition to win the title for the third consecutive year. They defeated the Betas in the finals of the league playoffs.

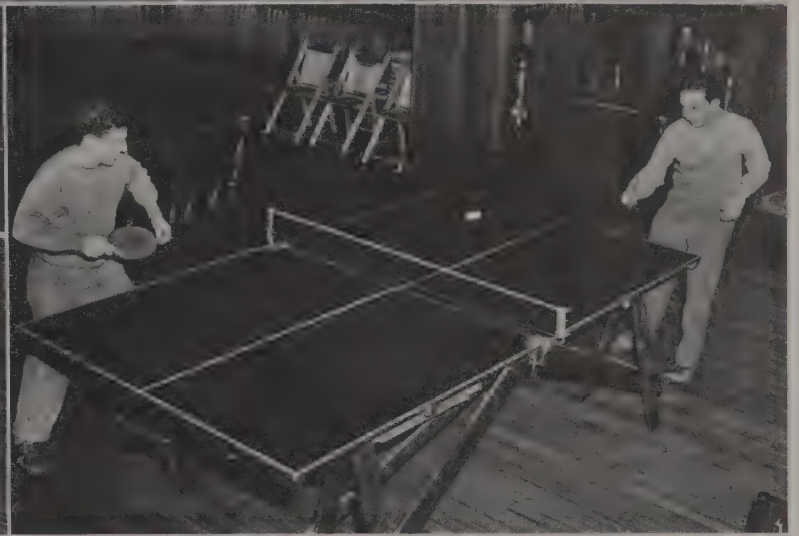

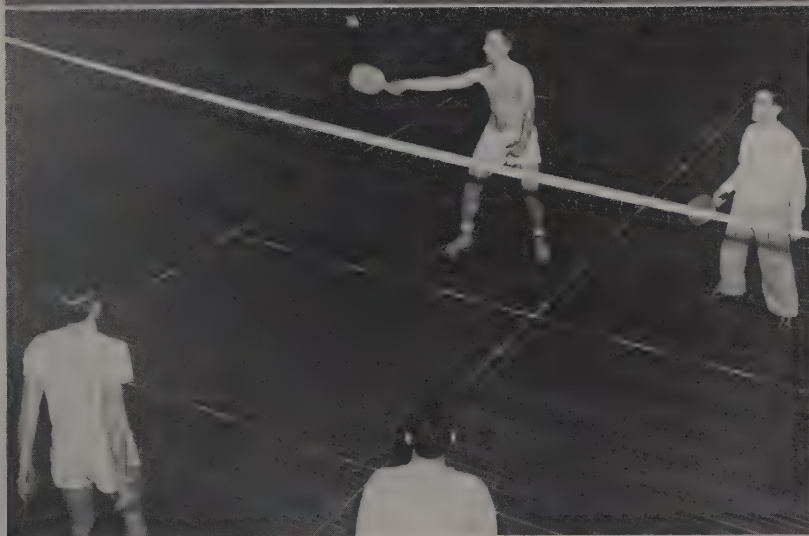

The Ramblers, representing ISA, defeated the Betas in the finals to annex the volley ball crown.

Marvin Smith, S.A.M., won the ping-pong tournament for the third consecutive year and teamed with Doovid Barskin in doubles for their second straight title.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

PHYSICAL Education is required of all Freshmen and Sophomore women, and in addition Freshmen must take one period a week in Orientation during the fall season. One hour of credit a semester is given for the work, and before completing the two-year requirement, each student must have taken one season in a team game, an individual activity, and in a rhythmical activity. Before enrolling in any Physical Education, every student is given a physical examination, and, on the basis of the information obtained, advice is given and special recommendations are made.

Swimming and modern dancing are offered throughout the year; hockey and soccer in the fall season; tennis, volleyball, golf, horse-back riding, and archery in the fall and spring; basketball, badminton, stunts, and tumbling, group games and exercises, folk dancing, and tap dancing in the winter, and deck tennis, basketball, and athletic games in the spring. This year a new activity was begun. Mixed social dancing was offered to give men and women an opportunity to learn the fundamental dance steps used today in ballroom dancing.

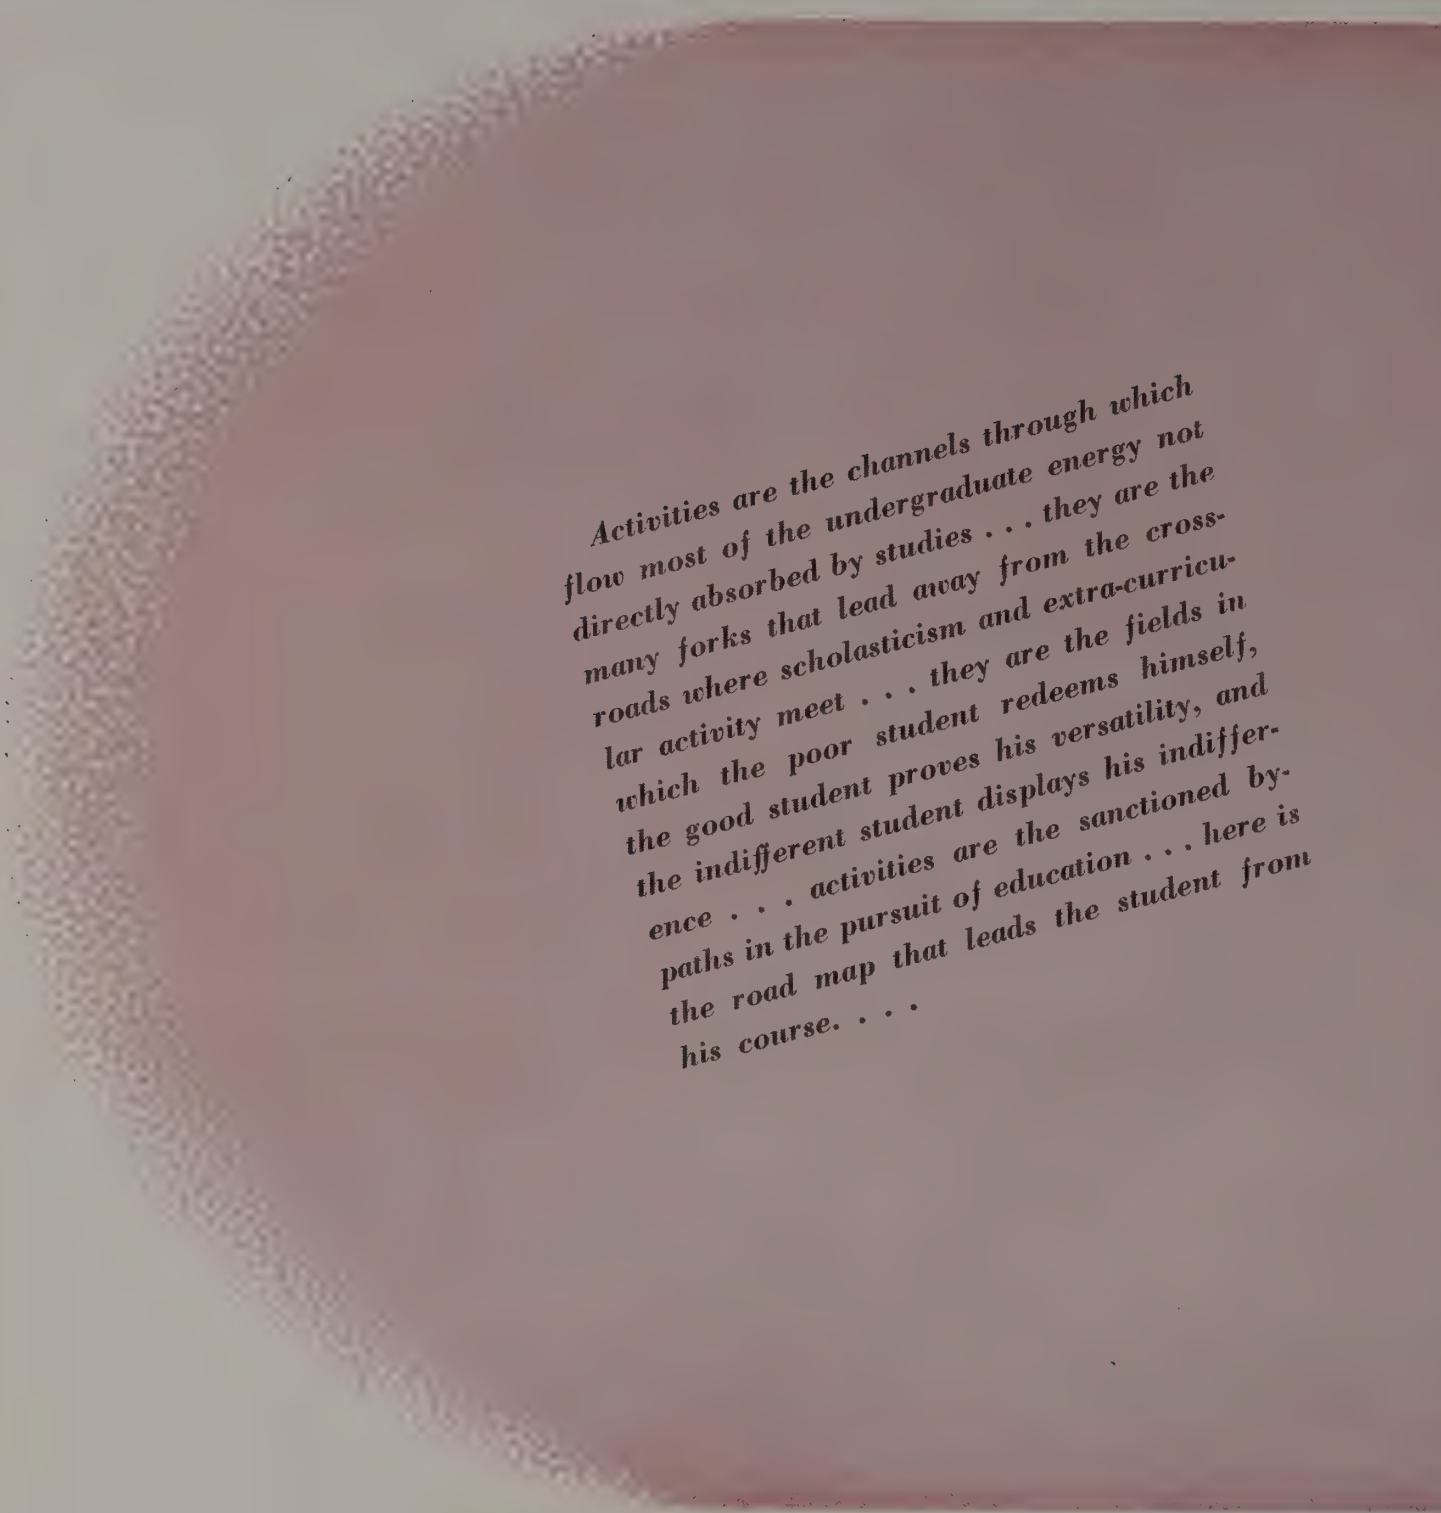

The W.A.A. sponsors numerous clubs pertaining to the activities and also encourages participation in intramural activities. Each of the intramural tournaments begin at different times, are of different types, and are subject to different rules and regulations. The teams are composed of girls from the sororities, dormitories, and the four districts into which Bloomington is divided.

The Intramural Board is made up of twenty-five girls representing every sorority, dormitory, and the districts. Miss Helen Grant is the faculty sponsor; Elnora Curtis, the Intramural Head, and Marcile Irle, secretary. This board sponsors tournaments in volleyball, badminton, swimming, basketball, tennis, softball, golf, deck tennis, archery, and ping-pong.

Dunn Meadow girls learn the tricks of speedball and field hockey in fall and spring; during winter months, the modern dance and the Student Building swimming pool take the spotlight.

Activities are the channels through which flow most of the undergraduate energy not directly absorbed by studies . . . they are the many forks that lead away from the cross-roads where scholasticism and extra-curricular activity meet . . . they are the fields in which the poor student redeems himself, the good student proves his versatility, and the indifferent student displays his indifference . . . activities are the sanctioned by-paths in the pursuit of education . . . here is the road map that leads the student from his course. . . .

1941 PROM COMMITTEE

ALTHOUGH The Daily Student came out with an announcement on April Fool's Day that the Prom would be held in the Armory instead of Alumni Hall, things went off in the traditional manner, and the 1941 Junior Prom was held from 10 to 2 o'clock on April 18 in Alumni Hall.

The room was decorated like a Spanish villa with a balcony effect on the stage, from which the Prom Queen emerged to be crowned. The Commons was also decorated in the Latin-American manner.

Ray Noble and his orchestra played for the gala event, which was attended by a capacity crowd. Indiana students were particularly interested in the band, since Jimmy Cathcart, an I.U. graduate who had his own band here on the campus only a few years ago, is featured with Noble's orchestra.

Members of the Prom committee, who worked faithfully over the arrangements for the dance, were Bob Gates, chairman; Margaret Fargo, Nancy Biddle, Ed Bartley, and John Krueger. Prom dinners and Prom breakfasts were held before and after the event.

R.O.T.C. SPONSORS

STARTING on April 17, every Thursday afternoon the R.O.T.C. military drill was headed by its coed sponsors, dressed in their uniforms of white skirts, and bright, red military coats, and leading their respective battalions like veteran officers.

The sponsors are presented at the Military Ball, February 22, having been chosen previously by a selection committee.

Charleen Romines, '41, was named Colonel of the R.O.T.C. unit, and Barbara Johnson, '43, was made Lieutenant-Colonel. Margaret Gommel, '41, headed the first battalion; Rosalie Doerflein, '42, headed the second, and Jo Anne Pierpont, '42, was made sponsor of the third. Jane Smith, '42, was selected as a sponsor for Pershing Rifles.

Business Manager

JOHN C. VANATTA, III
Editor

THE 1941 Arbutus staff became so active that it overflowed from the office in the Union building and took over a room down the hall. Work on the staff of the Yearbook provides an excellent opportunity for experience in writing, editing, and photography.

The editor of the yearbook can generally be identified by his harassed expression and the lines of worry in his face caused by the state of the book—the deadline of the printer's, just missed—or the possibility of the book coming out on time. His co-worker, the business manager, handles the financial end of the book, selling subscriptions and advertising, and managing the queen contest.

The editorial staff of the 1941 Arbutus is composed of John Vanatta, editor; Joan Veit, Jean Dickson, and Madelyn Pugh, Junior associate editors; Frances Duncan, Bob Anderson, Walter Lerner, Sonny Schlee, Bob Bulmer, Alma Freyn, Betty Bates, June Richardson, Lynn Van Natta, Wilfred Lusher, and Betty Jane Mowry, members of the Sophomore staff.

INDIANAPOLIS STAFF

THE Indianapolis staff of the Arbutus is the group which keeps the book up on things happening on the campus in the capitol city. It is only with their help that the book is able to represent a true cross section of every phase of the University life, of which the Medical and Dental Schools at Indianapolis are truly a great part.

The staff for the Dental School this year was David Stiefler, editor; Darrell A. Stock, assistant editor; Byron Price, business manager; Sheldon L. Hall, assistant business manager. The Medical School staff was headed by Carl Kuehn, editor, and William Browning, business manager.

STUDENT PHOTOGRAPHY STAFF

IN the compilation of any yearbook, the help and cooperation of a great many people are necessary. The work of the photographers is no exception for they and their staff contribute greatly to the success or failure of the book.

This year for the first time the Arbutus employed the services of the photographic staff of the Extension Division. Although at times the burden was very difficult to handle, much of the quality of the Arbutus is due to those of the photographic division for their fine cooperative spirit, splendid photographs, and efficient service.

Robert McConnell, together with Bill Morris, specialized in taking the pictures which appear in the beauty section of the book. These pictures demanded the utmost in photographic technique and McConnell ably handled the assignment.

As in the past the routine work of making the formal pictures of seniors and organization members was given to Dexheimer-Carlon Studios who with their fine cooperation and efficient service supplied the pictures which start the yearbook on the road to complete publication.

The Arbutus, in part, is a collection of pictures of events which transpire during the year. A photographer must be constantly at hand to record these events on film. This year the task fell upon the staff of the Extension Division, whose work accounts for the completeness of the calendar section of the book.

INDIANA DAILY STUDENT

THAT beehive of activity—the office of The Daily Student—is the center and meeting place for all students in the Department of Journalism. The little red brick building houses all the action of a metropolitan daily from the lowest cub reporter to the editor and from the “back-shop” linotype operator to the business manager.

There is nothing quite like working on the staff of the W.G.C.D.—the world’s greatest college daily—to a really earnest embryo journalist. There is something about covering a beat, writing copy, meeting a dead-line, composing a headline,—being a part of a real live publication,—that gets in the blood of the Journalism student when he writes his first story and stays with him.

There is a spirit of cooperation, with everyone working to get the paper out, and a feeling of responsibility of each individual member that is seldom found in any other organization.

The reporting staff is divided into three departments—the city, campus, and sports staffs, each covering its particular field through a network of “beats.” Each staff is headed by an editor and several associate editors. In addition to these, there are special staffs once a week, to put out the women’s page and the church page.

Editor Forrest Garderwine confers with Virginia Davis, Gene Hollingsworth, and Edgar Ferrey.

Associate Editors Geneva Redman, Charles Sem-bower and Virginia Davis peer over Editor Garderwine's shoulder as they check yesterday's issue.

Associate Editors George Knox, Winston Fournier, Alexander Muir, and Dick Runyan hold a boress.

The horseshoe shaped desk in the rear of the office is the copy desk, with the associate night editor sitting in the "slot." There is a night editor for each edition, who sits in back of the copy desk and makes out the "dummy" for the day's issue. Each night editor is responsible to the managing editor and the editor-in-chief.

The staff has a complete turn-over every semester, and the more important positions are re-appointed twice a semester, making four editors a year. The editors-in-chief for this year were Carl Lewis, Sam Wells, Forrest Garderwine, and James Thompson.

The Daily Student is a member of the Associated Press and gets its AP news as soon as any big city paper. Each editor has a special telegraph editor who handles this "wire news" exclusively. Also on the staff is an "art" editor, who takes care of obtaining pictures for the paper. Prof. John E. Stempel, head of the Department of Journalism, is faculty advisor for the Student.

The evolution of a piece of copy from the time the reporter gets his story until the news appears on the front page of The Daily Student is a process which requires the cooperation of each individual member of the staff.

At top left, the reporter is composing his story upon returning to the office after covering his "beat." Stories are written right on the typewriter, with no first drafts, to save time. Top right, the story is handed to the editor of his department for checking. Middle left, the story goes to the copy desk where it is edited again, and a headline is written for it. Middle right, it goes to the "backshop" where the linotype man sets it up in type. Lower left, proof is read and errors caught. Lower right, the finished product.

THE SUMMER STUDENT

THROUGHOUT the hot summer months, the W. G. C. D.—better known as The Daily Student—still goes to press with the ambitious staff sweltering in the little red brick “oven” twice a week for as long as summer school is in session.

Even with only one-third of the usual enrollment and a limited staff, in between visits to the quarries, the group managed to put out a good paper, full of news interest, had a good time doing it and gained valuable experience.

The four-page paper was given free to the public, being left around the buildings for those enrolled in summer school. Copy from the Associated Press was brought down from Indianapolis by bus each day. An unusual feature was the two columns run on the front page each day written by members in the School of Education.

Chris Savage was editor-in-chief of the summer Student, and Dick Runyan was managing editor. The rest of the staff was composed of Meredith Bratton, sports editor; Cynthia Demaree, Woman's Editor; Alexander Muir, city editor, and David Kennedy, sports columnist. Reporters were George Knox, Bob Kluth, and Winston Fournier.

THE STATE FAIR STUDENT

THE special State Fair edition of The Daily Student which a staff puts out during Fair week in September in Indianapolis provides plenty of experience for reporters and editors in actual newspaper work in an entirely new field. The most important thing, as it is on every newspaper, is the way in which contacts are established the first day on the grounds, after each reporter has been assigned to a “beat.”

The group is housed in the Indiana Building on the Fairgrounds, along with the University Theatre, and educational and service exhibits depicting the activities of the University. Every field of writing is represented on the Fairgrounds, and, throughout the week, the reporter may write anything from a feature on the new Coliseum to a listing of the prize-winning swine for that day, or from a cover on the society horse show to a 4-H Club style show. Before the week is over, the staff is generally familiar with every official on the grounds, has taken in every exhibit and side-show, and in general has had a valuable week of good times and practical experience.

Carl Lewis was Editor-in-chief of this year's staff, and Sam Wells was Managing Editor. The remainder of the staff was Dan Holt-house, Madelyn Pugh, Geneva Redman, Jim Thompson, Howard Wilcox, and Harry Amon. Virginia Davis worked with the publicity office in the Administration Building at the Fairgrounds. Prof. John E. Stempel, head of the Department of Journalism, served as faculty advisor for the staff.

THE FOLIO

Seated: Lillian Rymarowicz, Mae Louise Kohr, Gertrude Bloomer, Violet Muse, Betty Jane Smith, Rosemary Kent.

Standing: Frederic Randall, James Leahy, C. Bradford Mitchell, faculty advisor.

THIS year, The Folio formulated a new policy for student direction and management. It is the belief of those directly connected with The Folio that such a policy can play a significant part in creative growth on the campus. The publication, however, will be supervised by members of the faculty. This year, The Folio has been under the capable guidance of Josephine K. Piercy and C. Bradford Mitchell of the English department.

The Folio, a quarterly for creative writing, is a magazine for the entire University published by the students four times a year. Its aims are to stimulate an interest in English composition, and to encourage aspiring writers. The publication tries to satisfy both the creative and the critical tastes of the students.

Several members of the English department assist on The Folio staff. Charles Green, Robert Hubach, Ruth Smalley, and Josephine Piercy are graduates serving on the editorial board. Bernard Stambler and Sam Yellen are members of the proofreading staff. The book and record review staff consists solely of students. The Folio is outstanding for its cover designs and layouts which are under the supervision of Frederic Randall.

INDIANA ALUMNI MAGAZINE

Viewing a new issue of The Indiana Alumni Magazine are Miss Ivy Chamness, head of the Publications office; G. F. Heighway, alumni secretary, and Andrew G. Olofson, managing editor of the magazine.

IN an effort to provide a more modern and a more interesting way of contacting the alumni, the Indiana Alumni Magazine was born in October, 1939, succeeding the old Alumni Quarterly and also the bi-weekly alumnus editions of The Daily Student. This Magazine is the official publication of the Indiana University Alumni Association, and is sent to every active member of the Association each month from October through June.

The Magazine includes articles written both by and about alumni and also contains news of University activities, alumni club meetings, and a sports review. Each month personal items about approximately 3,000 alumni appear in the classmates section. One of the main editorial features of the Magazine is a monthly survey article which examines a different department of the University. These articles, written by Prof. Chauncey Sanders of the Department of English, interpret the progress of the University for the alumni.

INDIANA ATHLETIC REVIEW

AT each gridiron and hardwood event a booklet is published called The Indiana Athletic Review containing the most important facts about the players and the team. This publication was edited by Robert A. Cook who was assisted by Robert Meyer, advertising manager. Songs and yells also had a place in the booklet published for gridiron events. Statistics for the same game played the previous year supply additional information.

THE RED BOOK

A DIRECTORY is published each year under the sponsorship of the Young Men's Christian Association, which is called the Red Book. This year, for the first time, in addition to the names and school addresses of all students the home address was also included. Campus activities were listed according to the service which they perform. M. Porter Murphy edited the book and was assisted by Max Woolery as business manager and Glenn E. Smith as circulation manager.

FRESHMAN HANDBOOK

EACH fall the Union Board sponsors a Freshman Handbook to aid all incoming men students. This publication includes the details of campus activities as well as a matriculation schedule. To provide information about the campus organizations, a description was given of the work each one does and its part in University activities. Don Batton compiled the information for the handbook, and edited the publication.

THE CHIMES

TO supply new women students with valuable information, The Chimes appears each fall. A survey of campus activities enables every new woman student who matriculates in the University to become familiar with its various divisions. A map of the campus points out buildings and points of interest, and a calendar of the coming events is included. Miriam James edited The Chimes assisted by Madelyn Pugh and Geneva Redman.

UNIVERSITY PUBLICATIONS

Dr. Woodburn's history of Indiana is compiled at the Publications office. Left to right: Miss Hilda Henwood, Dr. James Woodburn, Miss Myra Jean Hennon, Miss Ivy Chamness, and William Adkin.

THE keystone of Indiana University publications is the Publications office under the direction of Miss Ivy Chamness, editor. Practically every official bit of printing which goes out from the University goes through this office first, and is carefully edited before it appears before the public.

This year the office was hard at work on Dr. James Woodburn's "History of Indiana University," carefully checking minute details before its release. Miss Chamness, herself, added many of the footnotes which help to explain and supplement this extensive history of the University from the time of its founding in 1824.

Other duties of the Publications office include the editing of the University catalogue each year; the bulletins of the schools; twelve news letters each year; six bulletins from the School of Education each year; eight bulletins from the Extension Division each year; book reviews and class notes for the Indiana Alumni Magazine; the Commencement program and prize folder, and the series of Indiana University publications on humanities, science, social science, and folklore. W. M. Adkins is assistant to the editor.

The Indiana University News Bureau is the source which supplies newspapers, magazines, and radio stations over the state with news about Indiana University. The Bureau also sends releases to The Daily Student, takes care of the athletic publicity for, and has charge of publications promoting the University. This year the office edited the booklet, "The I.U. Auditorium," concerning the new Music Hall.

In addition to the regular staff, two student assistants, Richard Griffith, '41, and Howard Wilcox, '42, help with the news, the mailing, and the rest of the routine work.

BOARD OF AEONS

VAL NOLAN ..... President
ROBERT MENKE ..... Vice-President
SAM WELLS ..... Secretary-Treasurer

LEADERSHIP in campus activities and exceptional scholarship are the two requisites for membership on the Board of Aeons, highest student tribunal on the campus.

Members are appointed annually by the President of the University from recommendations submitted to him twice a year by the Board. Those students chosen represent almost every phase of campus activity.

The organization endeavors to promote a closer cooperation between the student body and the University administration by uniting their interests in its measures for improvement.

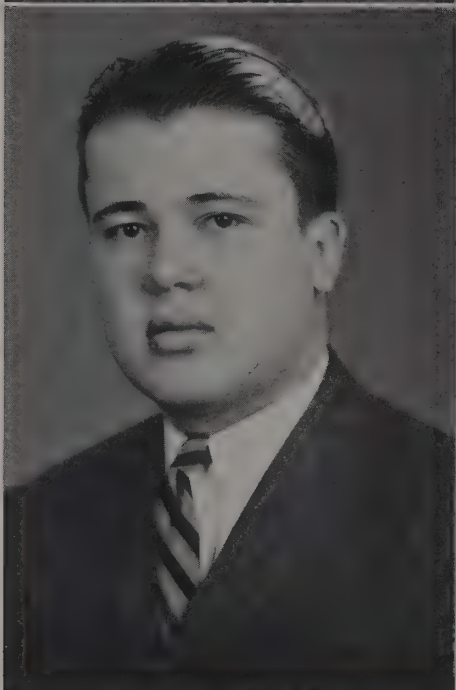

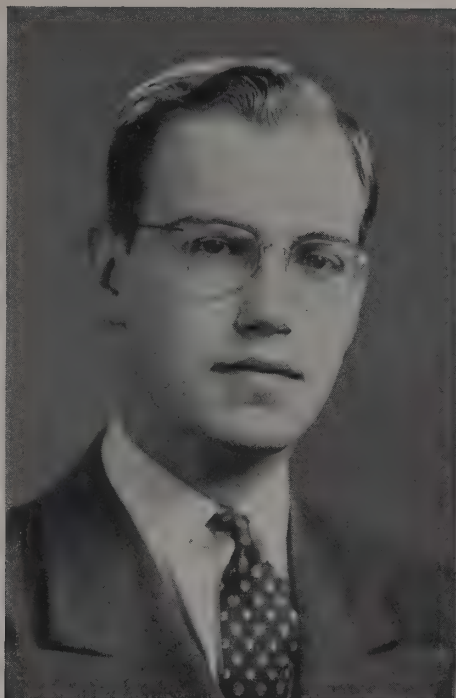

Founded in 1921 by President-Emeritus William Lowe Bryan, it is concerned with matters pertaining to student affairs and University rulings as related to the student body.

This year, aside from checking each campus organization's constitution, revising the Junior Prom constitution, and dealing with many student problems, the Board of Aeons proposed a limitation to the number of extracurricular activities in which any student may participate. This suggestion was accepted by the University Administration.

Because of the large number of questions which continually arise, Board meetings are held every Monday or Wednesday night. Membership of this Board is one of the highest honors a male student can achieve.

KATHRYN ALEXANDER .....	President
JANET HAMERSLY .....	Vice-President
SOPHIA NICHOLAS .....	Secretary
RUTH IMES .....	Treasurer

MORTAR BOARD, the "honorary of honoraries for women," is tops in the extracurricular field for coeds. Having as its aim the promotion of the best interests of University women, the organization bases its membership on scholarship, leadership, and activity, and "caps" the new members during their Junior year on Foundation Day at a Junior-Senior luncheon.

Indiana's chapter of Mortar Board was brought to the campus in 1921 by Dr. Agnes E. Wells, former Dean of Women, who helped with the national constitution of Mortar Board. Dean Kate Hevner Mueller, present Dean of Women, was made an honorary member last spring.

This year, Mortar Board's traditional Dames Ball, the dance at which the coeds "foot the bills" and act as escorts for their dates throughout the evening, topped all previous records for ticket sales. Other activities of the group include compiling a list of tutors recommended by the heads of the departments in the School of Arts and Science; recognizing outstanding Sophomore women by giving a Sophomore "Mortar Board recognition" list; collecting clothing in an "old clothes drive"; the selling of Phillips Brooks calendars, and the awarding of three tuition scholarships.

New projects this year were the joining of the Hoosier Art Salon and the consequent placement of a painting in Beech Hall, and the publishing of "Hygiene and Etiquette for University Women" and distributing it among the Freshmen women.

UNION BOARD

RICHARD STONER .....	President
JOHN JAY .....	Vice-President
DANIEL CHIDDISTER .....	Secretary
J. E. PATRICK .....	Director

WITH the avowed purpose of promoting the interests of the University and its students, the Indiana Union was founded in 1909 by John Whittenberger and a group of students. The Indiana Memorial Union Building since its erection in 1932 has been able to fulfill its purpose to a higher degree than ever before. Membership to the Union is obtained by every male white student upon entering the University.

Functioning as governing body and supervisor of the usage of the building's facilities, the Union Board has continued to fill this capacity since the very beginning. The Board consists of fifteen men, twelve of whom are students; two, faculty members; and one, the Director of the Union. Of the student members, nine are appointed on the basis of scholarship, interest in the Union as demonstrated in committee merit system work, and leadership qualities. The remaining three members are selected by an election held each spring.

The various activities and interest groups sponsored by the Union Board serve the students in many ways. Dances are held each Friday night, jointly sponsored by the Union and A.W.S. The Union makes possible two discussion groups, Town Hall and the Open Forum. Pep sessions and the Grid-Graph, a play-by-play presentation of the out-of-town football games are also supervised by the Board.

Visitors on the campus are conducted on tours of inspection by Union Board guide service workers. Athletic banquets throughout the year are directed by the Board. Another project is the weekly Record Hour which presents many enjoyable programs of classical music. These and several other functions provide the University with a well-directed means of meeting and directing its students.

THE A.W.S. Council, made up of thirteen members, is the governing body for the seventeen hundred women students making up the membership in the Association of Women Students. Established in 1921, A.W.S. is a member of the National Intercollegiate Association of Women Students.

The Council is representative of every class, containing two organized and two unorganized seniors, two organized and two unorganized juniors, and one organized and one unorganized sophomore, besides the President, Vice-President, and Social Chairman. Work of the council is carried on by five major committees, the publicity, clerical, coed counseling, finance, and social committees. At least once a year there is a mass meeting of all the women. This year's editor of the Coed Reporter, sponsored by the Council, was Beryl Ann Brownell.

Recently created is the Board of Standards, an organization which enforces the rulings of the University and gives advice to women students. The group sponsors Friday night dances in collaboration with the Union Board, helps with the Powwow, sponsors coed counselling and edits a Freshman Handbook.

BOARD OF STANDARDS

THE Board of Standards is a comparatively young organization on the Indiana University campus. In 1939 it began its work as an advisory council for the Dean of Women and also as a judiciary board. In minor cases of discipline the board is consulted. One of its primary duties is to consider and make the necessary recommendations for the betterment of campus activities. For the second year the Board of Standards took an active part in trying to stop the practice of cheating which has been prevalent on the campus. A plea was made to all social organizations, dormitories, and to the student group as a whole to desist from cheating. Letters were sent to the faculty members soliciting their cooperation in this campaign, which is valuable to make this movement a success.

The minutes of the weekly meetings are available for reading in the Dean of Women's office and the A.W.S. Council room, so that any interested student may be fully informed of all the work of the Board. Plans are now being made to enlarge the group so that the student body will be assured of a greater representation. Each semester the meeting time of the group is changed due to the change in the programs of the members. Meetings are held every week at four o'clock on Monday afternoon.

Members of the organization for the Spring Semester are Rachel Norman, Betty J. Moran, Mary J. Straub, Betty J. Rowe, Joan Veit, Rosemary Hendricks, Betty Foss, and Rose Steiber.

BLUE KEY

JACK FAIRCHILD .....President
HUGH FUNK .....Vice-President
ROBERT BARTER .....Secretary-Treasurer

BLUE Key was founded at the University of Florida in 1924 by Major B. C. Riley with the purpose of welcoming the members of the state legislature to their campus. Five years later, the local chapter was founded and proceeded to promote the welfare of the university and to recognize student activities and scholarship.

To be eligible for membership in Blue Key, a student must have compiled at least 100 activity points, must have made a better than University average in his scholastic work, must be a junior or senior, and must have the endorsement of President Herman B Wells.

The most widely known activity of Blue Key is the traditional burial of Old Jawn Purdue. Each year at a pep session preceding the Indiana-Purdue football game, this "solemn" ceremony takes place. Other activities of Blue Key include: an annual Blue Key dance, a publication of recognition lists of outstanding freshmen, and an investigation of subversive activities on the campus.

The organization meets every two weeks at a luncheon to discuss various campus problems.

The faculty members of the fraternity are Dean C. J. Sembower, Dr. L. R. Norvelle, Dr. E. L. Yeager, Dr. J. J. Robinson and A. N. (Bo) McMillin. Glen R. Hillis, prominent Kokomo attorney, was made an honorary member in 1939.

PLEIADES

JANE KLEINERT .....	President
MARGARET SMITH .....	Vice-President
LOUISE SAMUELSON .....	Secretary
MARY CATHERINE KIRK .....	Treasurer

THIS year, Pleiades helped in the "Bundles for Britain" campaign by collecting tinfoil from all the sorority houses on the campus. The purpose of the organization is to strengthen the spirit of co-operation and friendliness among social organizations.

The Pleiades member, recognized by her gold and blue cap, must be a girl who is outstanding socially and engaged in extra-curricular activities. The cap is worn on Wednesdays and on rainy days.

Pleiades was founded at Indiana in 1925 by six girls who are signified by the six stars in the Pleiades cap. Membership is limited to twenty-five organized girls and the new pledges are announced at the annual Powwow and the morning of the Junior Prom. The new pledges announced at the Powwow this year are: Pauline Taylor, Winifred Black, Charleen Romines, Mary Carson, Gerry Gates, Mary Stuart Hayes, Madeline Scully, and Mary Kay Welmer.

Pleiades sponsors an annual Christmas party for underprivileged children of Bloomington, and also awards two scholarships to outstanding unorganized women on the campus. Pleiades joined with Skull and Crescent honorary for men, to give a Mardi-Gras Dance in January.

Meetings are held bi-weekly in the Pleiades room of the Student Building, and several dinners are held at the various sorority houses of the members represented. Sponsors of the group are Miss Agnes E. Wells and Mrs. Lee Norvelle.

SPHINX CLUB

BILL MENKE .....President
 EDWARD HUTTON .....Vice-President
 BILL ARMSTRONG .....Secretary-Treasurer

UNIQUE among the honoraries, Sphinx Club justifies its existence by making itself useful about the campus and by fostering good will and fellowship among men students.

Pledges to the organization are announced at the first Conference football and baseball games, and pledging is done in the Well House. The new men are required to have at least a Junior standing. The traditional symbol of the club is the white skull cap with a black band which serves as the badge of a campus "rod." The members of Sphinx Club are chosen on the basis of their part on the campus in some form of extra-curricular activity, and being "good fellows" as well.

Activities of the organization are both numerous and widespread. A famed tradition of the organization is the Table Waiters' Ball, sponsored to gain funds for scholarships given to the two most deserving Sophomore men. Other activities include the annual Dad's Day function held on the day of the Purdue classic. This year the club inaugurated programs in between halves at basketball games to help sustain the enthusiasm. The club presents cups to the sorority and fraternity having the best decorations at Homecoming each year. The organization also holds several private dinners and parties during the school year.

Sphinx Club was instrumental in whipping up enthusiasm for football games this fall, this being an example of the way in which the organization serves as a nucleus for campus activities and politics. Robert Allen is faculty advisor.

Y.W.C.A.

MARY JANE STRAUB.....President

THE purpose of the Young Women's Christian Association is to help University coeds adapt themselves to the University life and to enjoy fully the many benefits which the School offers. Through educational and special interest groups and social gatherings, the Y.W.C.A. brings together the women of the University on the common ground of true friendships formed through common interests. One of the advantages of the organization is that it affords a common ground for different personalities to cooperate for the betterment of both.

The Y.W.C.A. includes monthly meetings for the membership groups, Freshman groups, and discussion groups on religion, public affairs, service, social affairs, and music appreciation. At the beginning of the school year the group, together with the Y.W.C.A., sponsors a Freshman Frolic to help the new students to meet others in their class and participate in the routine of campus activities. During the Yuletide season preceding the Christmas holidays a program of Christmas carols is presented on the steps of the Student Building.

Each spring and fall, members of the Y.W. Cabinet and Council have a retreat in Brown County. Campus problems and Y.W. matters are discussed at these retreats.

The group together with the Y.M.C.A. sponsors the University Sing on the steps of the Student Building in the spring. The Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. also sponsor four Saturday night parties in the Student Building.

TO those men who are likely to distinguish themselves in one field or another for the remainder of their college careers go memberships in Skull and Crescent. Bestowed by each social fraternity upon two of its most outstanding Freshmen each spring, it is a symbol of achievements, both past and anticipated, for those elected to membership.

Skull and Crescent has several duties to perform: namely, to award a fifty-dollar scholarship to an outstanding student of the Sophomore class; to make the Freshmen wear their green "pods" on the campus and keep them off Senior Walk. The members, themselves, may be identified by their green and orange hats.

On January 13 Skull and Crescent sponsored with Pleiades the informal "Mardi Gras" dance, at which they adequately reproduced New Orleans at festival time. Following in the spring were a picnic and date dinner. The group maintains a membership of about forty men, each outgoing group of Sophomores being replaced by the incoming group.

Skull and Crescent has a chapter in eight of the Big Ten schools. Indiana received its charter in 1922. Following the custom, which has almost become a tradition, the organization again performed its functions without the aid of an active chapter advisor.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

THE Women's Athletic Association is an organization to promote interest in sports, both individual and group, among University women. The most important campus service sponsored by W.A.A. is the intramural athletic tournament for women each year. Various campus organizations participate in volleyball, basketball, archery, tennis, swimming, ping-pong, baseball, and deck tennis. W.A.A. presents the winner of each tournament with a loving cup.

W.A.A. also sponsors the various athletic clubs for women. The Hiking Club, the Modern Dance group, and Oceanides, swimming honorary, are all under the direction of W.A.A.

The organization takes part in "Play Days" several times a year, when girls from all over the state meet to participate in various sports "just for fun."

Membership in W.A.A. is obtained through passing a test in any of several sports or by becoming a member of any of the clubs sponsored by the organization.

The group is under the direction of a Board, composed of the President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer, the heads of the various clubs, and Miss Clara Fedler, the faculty advisor.

TO foster high standards of scholarship among Freshmen women, Alpha Lambda Delta increases its membership each year, according to the achievements of the new women students. The qualifications for membership in this organization are a B plus average for the first semester or the first two semesters and fifteen hours of work. The purpose of the group is to provide "a stimulus for study and high scholarship and a reward for real interest in things and high scholarship and a reward for real interest in things intellectual." Each year there are two pledge and initiation services, for if a student does not make the required grades in her first semester, she may still be eligible if the grades for the second one are high enough.

The national sorority holds a banquet annually in the spring with members of Phi Eta Sigma, the Freshman honorary for men students. It was founded at the University of Illinois in 1924 and became a national organization two years later. At this time, scholarly women in colleges and universities all over the country are seen wearing the small gold pin of Alpha Lambda Delta. The organization does not neglect its social activities, although it is directed primarily toward study, but gives various parties throughout the year for its members.

PHI ETA SIGMA

PERHAPS the first and highest distinction that every Freshman man in the University is eligible to attain is membership in Phi Eta Sigma. There are no restrictions to membership, except that to become a member one must make a 2.5 average, a B + average, the first semester of his Freshman year, or bring his grades up to this average in the second semester. The purpose is listed as "to promote a higher standard of learning and to encourage high scholastic attainment among Freshmen men."

Founded at the University of Illinois in 1923, Phi Eta Sigma now boasts twenty-nine active chapters throughout the country. Indiana's chapter was established in 1930. Robert Royer, assistant Dean of Men and swimming coach, is the faculty sponsor.

Primarily a Freshman organization, Phi Eta Sigma functions as an inspiration to Freshmen, both practically by means of study aids and Counsellors and by holding the reward of achievement in the form of membership in the organization. This Counsellors Corps helps Freshmen students plan study hours and advises them on methods of study.

A smoker was held in the fall with President-Emeritus William Lowe Bryan as the speaker, for all Freshmen who had made an A average in high school. A banquet is held each spring in conjunction with Alpha Lambda Delta, the corresponding organization for Freshmen women, in honor of the newly-initiated members.

KAPPA KAPPA PSI selects its members from the "Marching Hundred" on the basis of attitude, appearance, playing, and marching ability. To promote the interests and to make a better band each succeeding year, the fraternity sponsors various concerts and assists other organizations in presenting musical programs.

In the fall the Freshmen were invited to a smoker to acquaint them with the band members and to inspire them to help make the band of Indiana University a better organization.

During the year several picnics and banquets are held to increase the social life of the organization. The "Spring Swing" is a dance sponsored each spring by this organization.

There are other chapters of this fraternity located throughout the United States and it is the aim of the group to keep in close touch with these organizations to know about the work that other bands are doing. Cooperation and good fellowship are the foremost aim of the fraternity. This enables its members to both increase the value of membership and to derive benefits from its affiliation.

WHEN the School of Education offered a B.S. degree in Nursing, they gave the registered nurses taking work here on the campus the idea of organizing a club. In their three years of existence, the group has grown steadily in membership, this year numbering about thirty-two members.

The main purposes of the club are social and educational advancement. At the meetings, which are held once a month at the Student Building, faculty members and other outstanding persons have spoken to the members.

The group hopes to build a chapter house and become a national organization sometime in the future, and until then will simply act as a medium for drawing those with the same interests closer together. Mrs. Bessie F. Swan of the School of Education is club sponsor.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA, service fraternity, again sponsored the Quarterback Hour, by means of which movies of out-of-town football games are shown, along with explanations by members of the coaching staff. The fraternity also sponsors a "Scout Day" during the football season at which Boy Scouts from neighboring communities are entertained on the campus.

The fraternity was founded in 1929 at Lafayette College by students who felt the need of an organization which would continue the services of the Boy Scout movement through college. The purpose of the group is "To assemble college men in the fellowship of the Scout oath and law, to develop friendship, and to promote service to humanity." The first prerequisite for membership is that the candidate have been a registered Scout.

The organization sponsors a two-day conference of Eagle Scouts in the spring. Eagle Scouts from all over the state who are seniors in high school meet on the campus, at which time the fraternity awards a scholarship to one of the attending Scouts.

THE Young Men's Christian Association celebrated its Golden Anniversary this year, commemorating fifty years of service to the University in bringing together in a bond of friendship the individual men on the Indiana campus. The organization was brought to this campus in 1891, and since then has endeavored to give its members religious and social training, political and economic experience, and an opportunity for training in leadership. Its main purpose is in attempting to give the student a well-balanced life.

The Y.M.C.A. assists the Y.W.C.A. each year in sponsoring the University "Sing" in which interested social organizations compete. Judges choose the sorority and fraternity who have made the best performance and each is presented with a silver cup. This colorful event is held on the steps of the Student building in the early evening. Other social events are the Freshman Mixer and the all-University parties.

The "Y" sponsors the printing, publishing, and distributing of the Red Book, campus directory. This publication gives complete information about the faculty, social organizations, campus groups, and the local and home addresses of every student on the campus. From the date of its publishing, the book is invaluable to the students and serves as a campus encyclopedia throughout the year.

SIGMA Iota, an honorary for sophomore men living in the dormitories, was founded at the Men's Residence Center this year. The "brainchild" of Ned Reglein, faculty advisor, and Roberts Chickering, proctor, the organization will be known on the campus in the future by their maroon and white hats.

Fourteen members are pledged at the beginning of the year, remaining active as long as they reside in the dormitories. The membership is based upon activities, scholarship, and attitude.

The organization whose name stands for "Serve Indiana," sponsored a Christmas party in the hall this year, clothing seven children, one for each unit in the dormitories. They have been in charge of several social events throughout the year, and are making plans for the widening of their interests next year.

Inactives of the organization are Ben Coombs, Ray Eggman, Paul Burroughs, and Dick Falkiner. Actives not appearing in the picture are Herschel Shelby and Ronald Little.

YOUNG in years, but big for its age, the Independent Students Association celebrated its third birthday on the campus this year.

The association has three major activities. The first in importance is to promote better acquaintance among the students by sponsoring social functions and informal mixers. The two social chairmen are Margaret Gommel and John Krueger.

Another function is the publication of a weekly newspaper, the Independent View, edited by Betty Foss with Quentin Yoder, business manager; Duane Joyce, Sports editor, and Karl Rahdert, circulation manager. Reporters are Rosemary Kent, Dorothy Burns, Jessie Routh, Frieda Gold, Wilma Cain, Donald Farris and Jeanne Moore.

The third major activity is the support of Independent students in campus elections, Prom Queen and C. C. of C. elections, particularly. Harry Haldane is elections chairman.

To get new members and keep the old ones in line are the jobs of Karl Rahdert, general district chairman; Meg Shaw, publicity chairman; Geneva Paul, membership chairman, and Keith Nelson, personnel director.

Members enjoy one of the monthly mixers . . . Brains and hands are busy promoting elections . . . Board meeting — what, nobody griping? President Jay seems to have the floor for once . . . Andy signs up a candidate for Prom Queen nominations . . . Neither rain, nor snow, nor—well, the Independent View gets delivered most of the time.

SCABBARD AND BLADE, national honorary military fraternity, seeks to develop in its members the qualities of efficient officers—cooperating with the War Department, its aim is improvement of Indiana University's R.O.T.C. units.

All men in advanced R.O.T.C., whose military and academic grades are high and who show a general fitness of mind, body, and character, are eligible for membership. New members are selected each year by the military faculty and the active members of the fraternity.

The organization attempts to unite more closely the military departments of various universities, spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of our country, and develop the traits of leadership, initiative and cooperation in its members.

Founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1904, the organization is modeled upon that of the U. S. army. Company F, of Indiana, the second regiment of the fraternity, was installed at the first national convention of Scabbard and Blade after the World War, 1920.

Among the activities of Scabbard and Blade are the co-sponsorship of the Band Benefit Ball and the sponsorship of the Military Ball, at which the five coed sponsors for the year are announced. Company F is honored on Scabbard and Blade Day with a Regimental Review. An annual Corps smoker for Junior and Senior men in military is also listed under its list of activities.

HOLDERS of second place among regimental drill teams in 1940, the local company of Pershing Rifles now boasts a membership of over 100 men. The unit was established on the campus about ten years ago.

The entire unit drills together for several hours each Monday night, reaching a proficiency in drill seldom achieved by cadet companies. Pershing Rifles marches as a separate company at regimental drills each Thursday afternoon and has its own coed sponsor, Jane Smith.

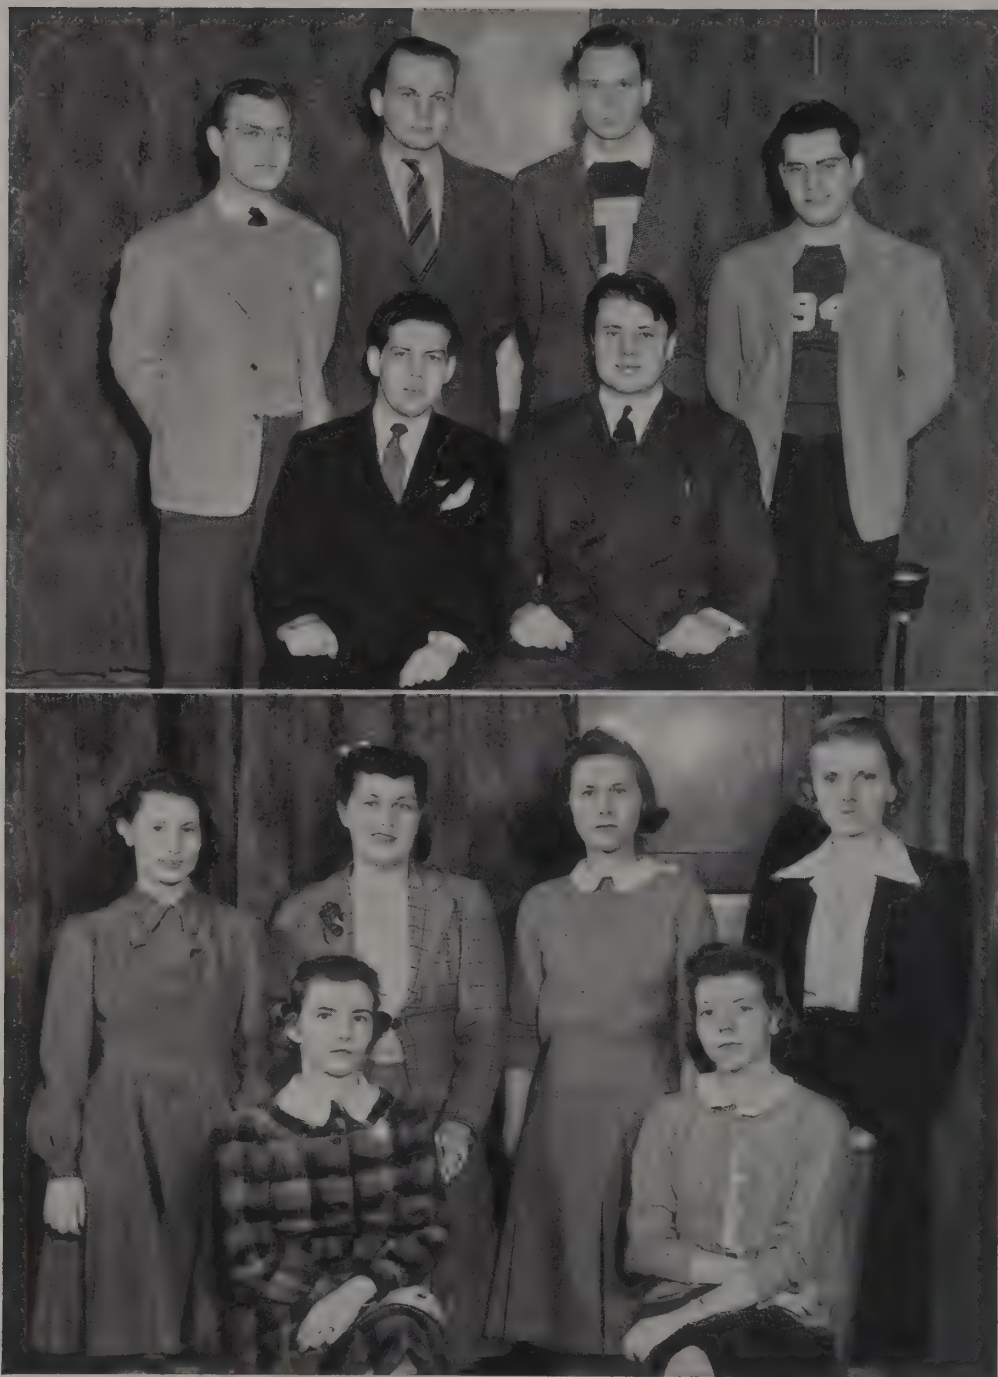

The organization had its beginning at the University of Nebraska where, in 1894, Lieut. John J. Pershing organized a competitive drill team from the army unit there. After the promotion of "Black Jack" in the army the group adopted his name. There are now seven regiments in the United States.

Each year the local company send a crack drill platoon for competition with other companies in the regiment. After placing second at Michigan State University last year the group went to University of Illinois on May 9, hopeful of bringing home a first.

The Indiana University company was host at a regimental meeting held on the campus February 21-22. Representatives were present from other companies in the regiment and were guests at the advanced military banquet and at the Military Ball that night. Pershing Rifle members assist members of the advanced corps with the staging of the Military Ball. Lieut. Charles I. Littell of the United States army is advisor of the group.

LIMITATION OF ACTIVITIES

A PROGRAM completely reorganizing the number of campus activities in which a student may participate has been adopted by Indiana University. This program was forwarded through the efforts of the members of the Boards of Standards and Aeons, pictured above.

The program in effect limits students' campus activities according to a new point system set up by these Boards. The maximum number of points that either men or women may have is one hundred. Major activities are grouped in Class A, and any activity in this class counts seventy points, thus making it impossible for one student to retain more than one major activity.

Campus activities for men and women are based on the time involved in carrying on the activity and the responsibility as determined by the organization's activities. The newly-formed system will also revise the old method of selecting Senior class officers according to their number of accumulative points.

Objectives of the innovation are to allow more students to participate in major campus activities, to bring more efficiency into the work by sharing responsibilities, and to provide such limitations as will create an additional incentive for scholarship. Violations of the rules of the new program will be subject to an administrative tribunal composed of three students appointed by and from the Board of Standards and Board of Aeons for one year terms.

MUSIC DRAMA DEBATE

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

MOVING into the beautiful new music auditorium in February of this year, both the technical and business staffs of the University Theatre now enjoy complete new facilities in every field of play production.

Entire new rooms have been devoted to the making and storage of scenery for the plays which are presented during the year in the new Music Hall Auditorium. Students who are in charge of costuming of the plays now have very little trouble in obtaining them, for all costumes are filed in one room according to the type or period of which they are typical. For the duties of the business staff there is a special office in the building. Here it is possible for this group to work out in a more efficient manner such details as publicity, tickets, and programs.

The technical staff of the University Theatre has been changed for each production this year. The staff is divided into five sections: the light crew, make-up crew, stage crew, persons in charge of costumes, and property managers. V. A. Smith and Foster Harmon, both of the department of speech, are directors, respectively, of stage, costumes, and properties; and of lights and make-up. The scenery is all designed by V. A. Smith.

This year the work of assisting in the technical department has been done by members of several classes on stage production of the Division of Speech. These include classes in lighting, make-up, and stage craft.

Members of the business staff include a senior manager, four juniors, and eleven sophomores who take care of the sale of season books for theatre productions and publicity, posters, programs, and tickets for the plays. The staff also handles the business part of the Jordan River Revue, musical production, and sponsors plays produced by the Experimental Theatre, as well as choral reading programs by the Division of Speech.

Mark makes up with Foster Harmon . . . V. A. Smith does a little scene planning . . . Alberta Shalansky sews a fine seam . . . Louella McGuire gets that school-girl complexion for the footlights.

Prof. Norvelle shows Foster Harmon and Betty Jo Hanson just how to stay out of the red.

Charles Legeman, junior associate, gives a lesson in poster technique to Jane Alexander, Phyllis Burge, Gerry Levin, Jim Piper, and Lela Jane Ross.

Worrying about the ticket sales for the next play are staff members Jack Graves, Jean Moffat, Bob Gates, Bernice Brown, top row; Berry Bercaw, Bob Nelson, Roger Stull, and Mary Elsner, bottom row.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE SEASON

THE University Theatre started out the year's roster of plays with Sutton Vane's "Outward Bound," a highly successful production starring Louis Lind as "Scrubby," Vera May Massey as "Mrs. Cliveden-Banks," and Nota School as "Mrs. Midget." Others taking part in the production were Elizabeth Rowe, Richard Thornton, George Strother, Myron Fox, Martin Goldstein, and Robert Lee.

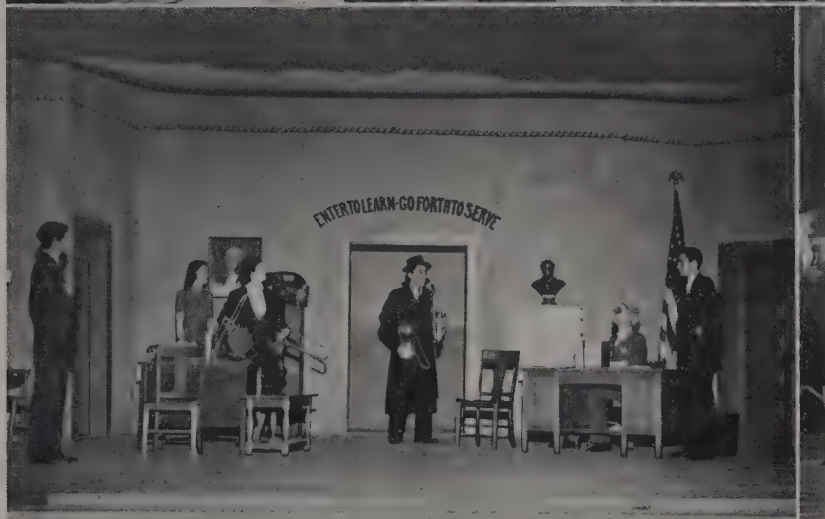

In November, a large cast presented Clifford Goldsmith's "What a Life." New talent appeared in the form of Julia Anne Cowan, June Brown and Patty Lou Wingert. Richard Houk played a prominent part in the production.

An entire student production was the "Vodvil Varieties," taking the place of the annual Cabaret Show sponsored by Theta Alpha Phi. The show was presented in three units, the first of which was a take-off on old time vaudeville, complete with a version of "Little Nell," a rendition of "Listen to the Mocking Bird," by Vera May Massey; "Ginsberg at the Bat," by Mike Fox, and "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie," by the Barbershop Quartet.

The second unit featured a piano duet by Barbara Johnson and Tommie Wright, several solo singers, Sally Hull, Betty Jane Prather and Carolyn Campbell; a jitterbug number by Maggie Lorenz and John Boswell, and "Opus-X" by George Willeford. Also popular with the audience was an Indian dance by Elaine Ax, and a tap number by Marjorie White.

Highlight of the whole Vodvil, however, was the third act, "Dark-town Doin's" by an all-negro cast. The enthusiastic audience received an exhibition of jitterbug dancing, which left them applauding for more, and a display of negro choral singing which far surpassed any heard for some time in originality and naturalness. Jimmy Clark, tenor, led the chorus in "Night and Day," and the finale, "Hallelujah."

Later in the spring semester the University Theatre presented "Ah, Wilderness," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and "Family Portrait."

A gripping scene from "What a Life" . . . Nota knows her knittin' and doesn't drop a stitch in "Outward Bound" . . . a dramatic moment from the same play . . . It's a fight to the finish as "Little Nell" rocks the rafters in the "Vodvil Varieties" . . . Interesting action in "What a Life" . . . A Harlem fantasy finale to the Varieties.

JORDAN RIVER REVUE

THE 1941 Jordan River Revue achieved new heights in the realm of collegiate musical comedies with its presentation of "Take the Day," March 19, 20, and 21, in the New University Theatre, preceding the dedication ceremonies of the Hall of Music Auditorium.

Robert E. Johnson, who had the distinction of winning last year's Civic Theater prize play, wrote the story, depicting campus life at Puny University. The action of the play concerns President Ssuds' efforts to use the mass marriage of the Senior class as publicity to attain national fame for the college, providing plenty of opportunity for comedy.

The musical score was written by Johnson, Raymond Beights, Stewart Cohn, George Willeford, and Doovid Barskin. Dr. Lee Norvelle, assisted by Foster Harmon, directed the musical part of the production, while rhythmic touches were added by the dance routines staged by Mrs. Mary Veletta Miller. Scenery was designed by Virgil Smith, assisted by members of the stage craft classes. Foster Harmon was also in charge of make-up.

Solo dance numbers featured Elaine Ax, La Conga tap; Nancy Ellis, acrobatic ballet; Ruth Gordon, toe ballet; Paul Richey and Marjorie White, flash tap.

The premiere of the musical was presented before an invited audience composed of University officials, guests, and members of the faculty.

Under the joint sponsorship of the Indiana University Women's and Men's Alumni Associations, the show was produced at English's in Indianapolis on March 29.

Mark Shackelford and Louella McGuire . . . Betty Small, Phyllis Burge, Lois Ruth Ingalls, Ruth Gordon, Jean McKee, Janet Schenkel, Phyllis Toy, Marjorie White . . . Charlotte Fields, Stewart Cohn.

SUMMER STOCK THEATRE

FOR the first time last summer an experiment was made by the members of the University Division of Speech in the form of a Summer Stock Company, which presented four plays during the month of July upon Dunn Meadow.

The company was composed of visiting artists, students and alumni, summer school students, high school pupils, and townspeople. All technical work, and make-up was done by students in the summer school session.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream," the first play, was produced out of doors on the terraces behind the Union Building before an audience of 2,000 persons. This colorful masque was directed by Virgil Smith. Make-up and lighting were directed by Foster Harmon, while special dances featured Bill Scrobel, '40, and costumes were supervised by Mildred Cain.

"The Barker" by Kenyon Nicholson, a Crawfordsville author, a play of stark realism depicting traditional circus life under the Tig Top, was another drama presented. Three professional actors took part in this production: Jack Duval and Ned LeFevre of Indianapolis and Pegge Farmer of Cincinnati.

A comic-tragic fantasy, "Enchanted Cottage," by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero was given July 9, 11, and 12 on Dunn Meadow. Its plot dealt with the idea that love changes the appearances of plain people so that they appear beautiful to each other.

A modern comedy by Dorothy Bennett, "Fly Away Home," was produced July 16, 17, and 18, starring Pegge Farmer, supported by alumni and students.

This summer the University Theatre in the new Music Hall Auditorium will be the scene of the season's productions. Plays to be produced are "Yes, My Darling Daughter" and "Elizabeth, The Queen" by Maxwell Anderson, and again, "A Midsummer Night's Dream." A fourth play will be chosen later.

Virgil Smith and Foster Harmon will direct the productions, under the direction of Dr. Lee Norvelle, head of the Division of Speech.

DEBATE

Debate Coach Robert Huber checks over a brief of a debate, as he and Bob Lee attempt to get the squad ready for the Big Ten Debate Tournament.

THE main objectives of the debating program at Indiana University are to develop ability in argumentative and discussion types of speaking and to provide programs to organizations which need them.

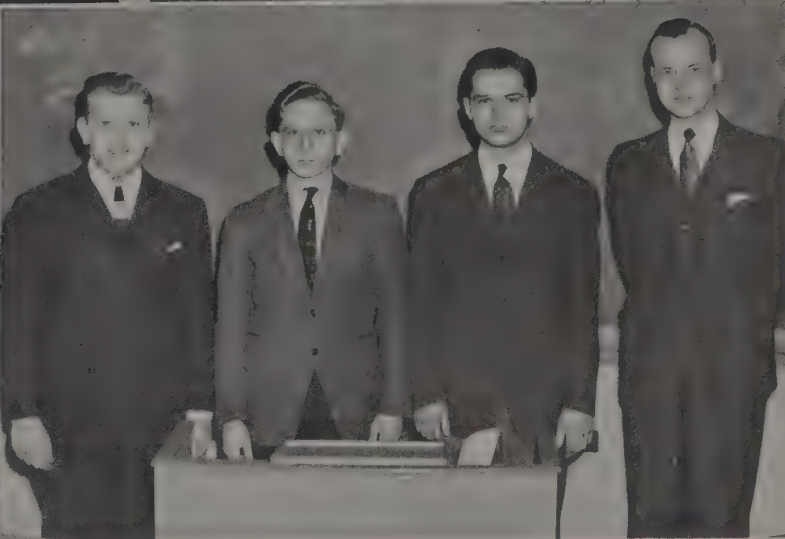

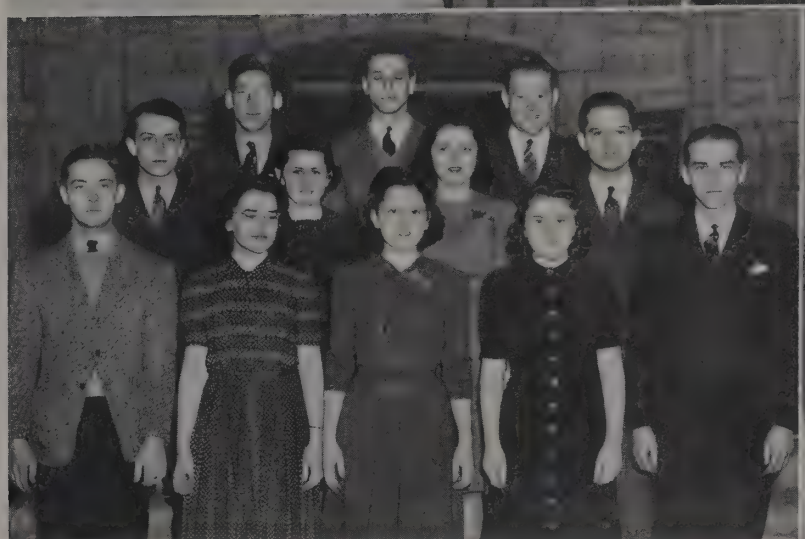

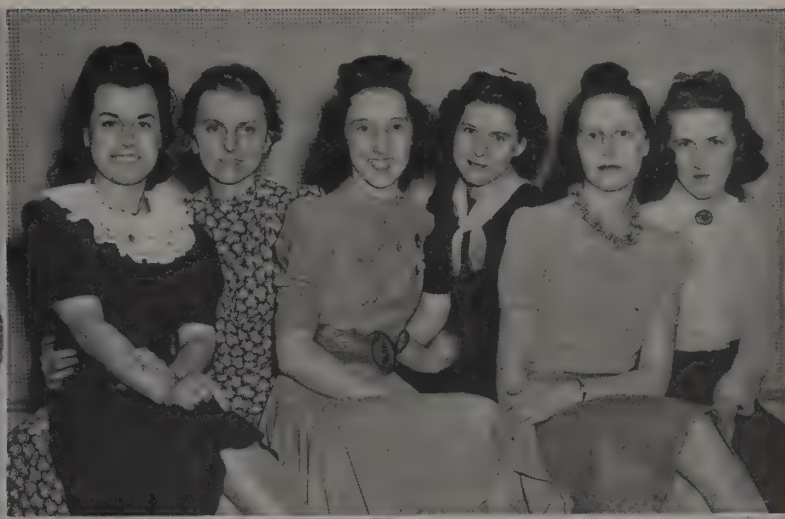

Varsity debaters were furnished to both the Republican and Democratic parties in last fall's election, and groups of four also debated political issues before business men's clubs throughout the state.

The Men's Varsity team last fall won the only decision match debated this year when they defeated Iowa. In the spring they lost the only decision meet to Ohio State. Non-decision meets were held with Purdue, Michigan State and the University of Michigan. At the Manchester Invitational eight varsity men won 16 out of 24 decisions.

In the six years that Coach Robert Huber has been with the debaters, the women's varsity team has lost only one decision. Now other university's squads will meet them only in non-decision competition.

The freshman squad of fifteen debated at an Invitational tournament here Feb. 8, and at the Manchester Invitational where they won 25 decisions out of 30 debates. June Brown and Elizabeth Deane made perfect records of 5 decisions out of five debates at Manchester and Paul Martin and Robert Raphael made the same showing for the men.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

ALL men in the University are eligible for membership in the Men's Glee Club, conducted by Professor William Ross, provided that they pass the try-outs which test the range and quality of the voice.

During the half-time of the Indiana-Purdue basketball game, the Men's Glee Club, numbering seventy-five, sang a medley of songs written by Indiana's composer, Hoagy Carmichael. On December 13, they appeared at the Stevens Hotel in Chicago at a meeting of the Indiana Society.

At the time of the purchase of the new University Extension building, the men sang before the Board of Regents and Alumni.

The Men's Glee Club combines with the Women's Glee Club and townspeople to form the Choral Union. Members of the organization were chosen as chorus members in the "Jordan River Revue." Raymond Beights acted as the accompanist for this.

CHORAL UNION

DEAN ROBERT L. SANDERS of the School of Music conducts the Choral Union, which consists of 250 members. The Union is composed of the combined Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, townspeople, and faculty members.

At the annual Christmas concert, the group sang excerpts from "The Messiah" by Handel and "The Christmas Oratorio" by Bach and the whole of "A Fantasia of Christmas Carols" by Vaughan Williams, with Bryant Millikan taking the baritone solo.

At the program on March 23 of the Dedication of the Music Auditorium, the organization presented a program of American music including a choral work, "The Peaceable Kingdom" by Randall Thompson. The Union also presented a program on Foundation Day.

The University Symphony orchestra accompanies the Union in all of its performances.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

DIRECTED by Professor William Ross and accompanied by Mary O. Ballou, the Women's Glee Club, with an enrollment of approximately ninety, enjoyed an active and successful year. Membership in the organization is on the same selective basis as it is in the Men's Glee Club. Meeting twice a week the group offers either credit or activity points for participation.

Student members took part in the annual all-campus show, the "Jordan River Revue," providing a musical background for the speaking and solo parts in the popular production.

On Mother's Day, the organization performed "The Blessed Damsel," a choral composition written by the French composer, Claude Debussy.

In conjunction with the Men's Glee Club, townspeople, and faculty members, the group often appears as a part of the Choral Union.

RADIO

AS A feature of the radio department of the Division of Speech of Indiana University, a series of three programs is presented for the approval of the radio audience. Two of these entertainment features may be heard on Sunday morning and the other one on Thursday afternoon.

Over station WIRE in Indianapolis, the program known as "Editorial of the Air" may be heard from 9:30-10:00 A.M. on Sunday morning. This broadcast is one of a series which deal in an editorial way with news events of interest to the greatest majority of listeners. Some of the many topics which have been discussed are "The Balance of Power in the Balkans," "Peace Time Conscription," and "How Conscription Will Affect Me." The people who have participated in these programs have all been men familiar with the question involved. Faculty members include Professors John Mueller, John Stoner, Edward Buehrig, and Samuel Braden—all of whom were chosen as experts in the particular field which is to be discussed.

Another such program is "Everyman's Campus," heard over station WHAS in Louisville, Ky. at 11:30-12:00 P.M. on Sunday. A program of music, drama, and major questions of interest to everyone is featured. One of the most interesting of these programs was a recent interview with Dr. Lee Norvelle by Robert Lee of the Radio Workshop, concerning the new Auditorium.

"Campus Notes" may be heard from 5:15-5:30 P.M. over the Mutual Network on Thursday afternoon. This feature is a musical program given by the Indiana University Studio Ensemble under the direction of Raymond Beights.

Professor Robert E. Allen is program director and George Strother is director of the University Theatre.

MILITARY

GIRLS' FIFE, DRUM, AND BUGLE CORPS

ADDITION color to the football games this year was the Girls' Fife, Drum, and Bugle Corps of Indiana University. The group marched in formation at each of the home football games and, in addition, represented the University at the Ohio State-Indiana and the Purdue-Indiana games. In the spring the girls march at the military reviews, appearing also at the Federal R. O. T. C. Inspection.

The group was organized two years ago under the direction of Major Roy N. Hagerty of the Military department. At the time it was the only feminine R. O. T. C. unit. Composed of about 50 girls, it is now under the direction of Lieutenant George L. Kinnett, also of the Military department. Mrs. Frederick E. Green is the musical director.

THE MARCHING HUNDRED

THE famous "Marching Hundred" of Indiana University, actually numbering more than 130, is recognized nationally as one of the best marching band units in the country. The intricacy and the precision of their formations are some of the factors contributing to their fame.

Under the direction of Frederick E. Green, the band appears at all home football games and, in addition, represents the University at a number of out-of-town games.

During the winter the band plays at the basketball games and at pep sessions and other University functions. In the spring the band marches at the military reviews, including the Federal R. O. T. C. Inspection. Special funds for the band are raised at the annual Band Benefit Ball.

Standing: Earl Buckley, Joe Pinter, Richard Feiertag, Donald Hasty, Vance Diggins.
Kneeling: Robert Laux, Evan D. Nering, William Sheedy, Dick Lewis, John Robert Hyndman.

RIFLE TEAM

WHEN the weather began to get cold in October, Lieutenant O'Neal, the sponsor of the rifle team, called for new candidates. After the selections were made the marksmen began to practice in the Field House and to look forward to the spring trips.

During the season postal or telegraphic matches were held with other Big Ten schools. This year the team has won over eighty per cent of these matches. For the first time in its history the I.U. rifle team won the fifth Corps area match in which twenty-two teams participated. Since they won by a one-hundred and eight point margin the victory was decisive.

Two trips were taken in the spring. The first trip, which lasted five days, was to Atlanta, Georgia. The riflers added more victories to their already long string by winning from the University of Kentucky by a score of 1861 to 1812 and by winning a triangular meet with Georgia Tech and Mississippi State at Atlanta, Georgia. The second trip was to Chicago. The boys who have done so well this year and have taken the trips to Atlanta and to Chicago with Sergeant Brooks and Lieutenant O'Neal are: Don Bell, Richard Feiertag, Robert Hyndman, Norris Knoy, Robert Laux, James Marshall, Bill Mullins, Evan D. Nering and William I. Sheedy.

EVERY two weeks the Presidents of the social fraternities meet together. This group, the Interfraternity Council, discusses housing problems, sets up rush rules, and in general acts as a clearing house for all problems which are common to the fraternities on the University Campus. It was in 1909 that the social organizations first realized that such a council composed of representatives from each of the houses on the campus would be beneficial in solving the problems which confront fraternities, and so the Council was then founded.

Among the services which the Council performs is a licensing of salesmen before they may make displays in the fraternities on the campus. In order for a salesman to be able to make a display, he must first obtain a license from the Council. This system eliminates many of the salesmen who would otherwise be bothering the fraternities with displays that are of little interest to the members themselves.

ALTHOUGH the idea of a men's quadrangle was conceived many years ago, and received partial fulfillment in 1924 with the erection of South Hall, the completion of the plan was realized with the opening in September, 1940, of West Hall and North Hall.

Housed in three separate buildings, the three hundred eighty residents of the Halls find West the natural center of activities; here is located the dining room, the library, the quarters of the resident Headmaster, the general office, two large lounges, and high in the tower, the Senate chamber.

Men's Residence Center operates under a form of partial self-government. The chief governing body of the Halls is the Student Senate, consisting of three members from each of the seven units of the Halls, with the addition of a President, Business Manager and Social Chairman. The individual units have their local official bodies, consisting of a Governor, Secretary, Treasurer, Freshman representative and representative-at-large.

The chief administrative officer of Men's Residence Center is the Headmaster, who, with the assistance of the seven resident Fellows, coordinates the various unit activities and serves as a guidance counsellor for the whole of the men's dormitory system.

THE purpose of the Panhellenic Council is "to maintain fraternity life and inter-fraternity relationship; to cooperate with college authorities; to be a forum for discussions of questions of interest to the college and fraternity world." It is composed of representatives from each sorority represented on the Indiana University campus.

In order to foster a greater interest in scholarship, the Panhellenic Association awards a silver cup each semester to the Greek-letter sorority which has the highest average for the semester. If a house wins the cup for three years in succession, that house is entitled to keep the cup permanently.

Meetings are held on the Thursday before the first Monday in every month. During the membership selection week each fall the group meets every day for lunch and at this time all infringements of "rush" rules are discussed and decisions given. This year a committee was named to rewrite the book of rules for the Member Selection Week. Those persons named for this committee were Doris Tuttle, Bernice Brown, and Lela Jane Ross.

Sponsors for the organization are Mrs. Lottie Kirby, Mrs. Seth Thomas, Miss Margaret Rufsvold, and Miss Jean Ashman.

DELTA ZETA

Founded at Miami University 1902
Epsilon chapter founded at Indiana University 1909
Fifty-six chapters

DELTA ZETAS of Indiana University have been making a name for themselves in various campus organizations under the leadership of Jane Hudson, their President. Jane is a member of the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet, the W.A.A. Board, and is President of the Hiking Club. She is also adept at sketching and is in demand by groups to give her "chalk-talks." Another hobby of the versatile house President is her ability to make small wood figures, the carving of which takes up her leisure time.

Elizabeth Dawson is also a member of the W.A.A. Board, as are Dolores Lang and Phyllis Hanson. Elizabeth is also a member of the Indiana University Fife, Drum, and Bugle Corps, and is past President of the Panhellenic Council. Julia Butt captured the title of Intramural Ping-pong champion from a field of over fifty girls. Vivian Johnson is a member of Omicron Delta. The National President of Delta Zeta, Mrs. H. M. Lundy, is an alumna of Epsilon chapter.

Relaxing at the piano are Marjorie Elliott, Jeanne Morris, Genevieve Barker, Ruth Dippell, and Jane Irwin . . . Combined councils of East and West Memorial. Seated: Margaret Hatala, Roxana Wertz, Nellie Walters, Marian Kuhn, Catherine Cherry, Lucy Bachman. Standing: Helen Vidinghoff, Carol Jones, Jean Meese . . . The annual Ring Dinner given in honor of the Seniors . . . Jerry Poole presides over a boress in the East Parlors . . . Thomas and Henry in a close match with Wertz, Carlson, and Ball cheering from the sidelines.

The Memorial Hall arch is the gateway to the court around which is clustered the four dormitories for 600 girls. Its four familiar towers symbolize Education, Service, Religion, and Recreation. They also represent the realization of a dream of Dr. Agnes Wells, who worked and planned for this dormitory—perhaps foreseeing that it would some day be only the beginning of a complete housing plan.

The East wing, where the sun shines first, publishes a year book, the "Towers," and the West wing publishes the "Castle Chronicles." These books review academic and social achievements of the year. Self-government under the A.W.S. constitution is practiced by the residents of the Hall.

On the social side Memorial has teas, dances, and pajama parties. It also joins with the other three dormitories in the Sunday afternoon coffee hour. The traditional Senior Ring Dinner is held every year on November 15, on the anniversary of the Memorial dedication.

At the fall formal dance this year the girls did without costly decorations and donated the money to the Student Refugee fund.

Miss Elizabeth Scranton is social director of the West wing of Memorial, Miss Helen DeVol is social director of the East wing. Miss Violette Maloney is the first graduate counsellor on the campus and Miss Phyllis Goshorn is Memorial nurse.

SYCAMORE HALL

IN January, 1940, seventy-nine coeds moved into the one completed wing of bright, modern Sycamore Hall. The cellophane was still on the building, but those girls wanted to be charter members, so they did not mind when the carpenters ignored "quiet hours" and continued hammering. They did not complain when they stumbled over paint buckets in the halls.

This year, when the building was completed and filled to the brim with two hundred nineteen girls, that same spirit and enthusiasm still prevailed. Perhaps the fact that one hundred sixty of those girls were Freshmen might explain this enthusiasm.

BEECH HALL is one of the very newest dormitories on the campus, being occupied for the first time this year. Despite the Hall's extreme youth, it is an unusually active institution. Of its one hundred fourteen residents, sixty-five are Freshmen. In answer to fraternity serenades, the girls always sing "Beech Hall Girl" to the tune of "When Day Is Done".

This year, three big dances were held, including the "Barn Dance" in October, the "Powder Puff Prom" in December, and the "Beech Ball" in the spring.

Beginning a tradition, the Juniors honored the Seniors at a Senior-Valentine formal dinner in February. The Seniors were presented with Wedgewood plates that were centered with a picture of the Memorial Hall towers, designed by D.A.R., and sent from England in one of the few ships crossing the war zone.

The dormitory contains the dining hall for both Beech and Sycamore Hall girls. The building was completed shortly after Sycamore Hall and is furnished in the same way throughout.

Miss Lorraine Lindsey is social director of the Hall. During the first semester Miss Elizabeth Mann was night chaperone, and Miss Geraldine Drury filled that position during the second semester. Frances Yearick is Social Chairman for the Hall.

It's a debatable point—and which record do you want? . . . Catching up on reading matter in the Libe . . . the Forest Hall orchestra with Elmira Schickedanz directing.

ALTHOUGH Forest Hall was built only five years ago, it helped to form the first angle of what has now become the quadrangle of the Women's Residence Halls.

The government is entirely in the hands of a student council, one of the first attempts on this campus to install a self-governing body. The Council is aided by Miss Maude Jones, social director.

Forest Hall's annual publication, the Forest Folio, unfolds within its green and gold covers the picture, name, and address of each resident; candid shots and reminders of the year's dances and parties.

This year's social activities included two formal dances, a faculty tea, a snack-supper after each home football game, and a pajama party every month. Always high in scholarship, Forest rated first on the campus during the first semesters of 1940 and 1941.

Guarding the health of the coeds is Miss Leona Kerby, nurse, and guarding the exits and entrances against possible late-comers is Miss Marian Repka, night chaperone.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

From the very outset with the selection of the staff and the letting of contracts, many individuals rendered valuable assistance to the staff of the 1941 Arbutus and we wish to express our deep appreciation for their tireless efforts in our behalf.

We are especially indebted to the Comptroller's office for their excellent advice and assistance in the financial administration of this yearbook as well as the many worthwhile suggestions contributed.

We are indebted to the members of the contract committee—Ward G. Biddle, Claude Black, L. L. Fisher, John E. Stempel, and Paul L. Feltus—for handling the important technicalities of the letting of contracts.

Also we wish to thank the contracting companies who cooperated in giving prompt service on delivery, and in many cases in giving rush service: the Stafford Engraving Co., for art work and engraving; Dexheimer-Carlon Studios, and the Indiana University Extension Division for photography; the Samuel R. Guard & Co., Inc., for printing the book; and the Kingsport Press, Inc., for designing and producing the cover of this book.

We wish to thank Dean C. E. Edmondson and the members of the selection committee in assuring us that we had a competent staff, and L. A. Keisler, Business Adviser, and Andrew G. Olofson, Editorial Adviser, for their day by day assistance, and technical advice.

For editorial advice and assistance we are indebted to The Indiana Daily Student, The Red Book, The Indiana Alumni Magazine, The Indiana Athletic Review, Miss Ivy Chamness of the Publications Office, and E. Ross Bartley of the News Bureau. We are also indebted to George Zupanec and Robert Phillips for technical advice in the preparation of the original layout of the 1941 Arbutus.

Photos used in this yearbook were obtained through the courtesy of the Milwaukee Journal, Look Magazine, the Chicago Daily News, and the Makio, yearbook of Ohio State University. Thanks are due Ray Howard and Meredith Bratton for their assistance with the 1941 Arbutus Beauty contest.

The staff is grateful for the assistance given by non-staff members Nate Kaplan, Barbara Jean Cotton, Robert Johnson, Bernard Winner, and also the following Freshmen who are trying out for 1942 staff positions: Margaret Antibus, Betty Jean Beitman, Mary K. Belch, Helen Busard, Louise Cookson, Pat Droit, Lewis Ferguson, Martha Fetterly, James Gaddis, Max Gilson, Jack Hansen, Virginia Hawley, Dorothea Hunter, Wynanda Int-Hout, Marselda Jacobs, Mary Jean Johnson, Mary Kellie, Robert Knight, William Leonard, Betty Jane Lusk, Carmel Peckinpugh, William Sanders, Irene Sanders, Jane Schabinger, Jean Schabinger, Jean Spencer, Marilyn Seward, Rachel Stoner, James Tedford, Richard Terwilliger, James Thieme, Sally Walker, Barbara Wells, Betty Lu Wenger, Nancy Whipple, Mary Lee Wible, and Gus Yochem.

After the Party

—When you get that miserable, let-down, "all-in" feeling, freshen up with

ALKA-SELTZER

(The modern alkalizing pain-relieving effervescent tablet)

You will find Alka-Seltzer's double action very effective in the relief of the headache, the acid stomach, and the fatigue that results from too much eating or drinking, and too late hours.

When You Catch Cold Take Alka-Seltzer to relieve the discomfort

Being fully dissolved, Alka-Seltzer is ready to go to work as soon as you drink it—and it is pleasant to take.

Get Alka-Seltzer by the glass at soda fountains, and keep a package in your room.

GOOD business men do not send out salesmen whose personal appearance does not properly represent them . . . But sometimes business men overlook the fact that their printing represents them to their customers and prospects as much as, if not more than, their salesmen . . . Good printing is a valuable aid in securing <sup>more</sup> business . . . Good printing builds confidence in your firm and its product.

If faithful fulfillment of your specifications by skilled craftsmen, with capable management, means anything to you, you will want to do business with us.

WEBER EQUIPMENT

The Dental Equipment of Dignity and High Quality Value

Forty-one years ago, the Founder of our Company invented and originated the Fountain Water Spittoon, and later developed the first combination of unit equipment ever introduced for use by the dental profession.

The policy of the Weber Company has always been that of constructive advancement and fair price maintenance. No greater value is to be found in dental equipment than is found in the Weber line of today.

The following services are at the command of all dental students, free of charge—

Office Planning and Office Decorating
Location Analysis
Practice Counselling
Individual Helps and Instructions

A complete set of 10 Counselling Brochures supplied each purchaser of Weber Equipment, delivered each month during the first year, when most needed.

All equipment sold on liberal terms and endorsed by first line dealers everywhere. Don't be satisfied until you have inspected the complete line Weber has to offer.

S.S. White MASTER UNIT AND MOTOR CHAIR

*Set a new and refreshing
style for the dental operating room*

The S. S. White Master Unit and Motor Chair surpass all previous levels of beauty, convenience and comfort in dental operating equipment. Every detail of their design and construction is a visible demonstration of these two maxims: (1) Simplicity is far more appealing to the eye than excess adornment (2) correct form enhances function.

Only the S. S. White Master Unit and Motor Chair provide the operating facilities demanded by dental practice today in the stirring simplicity and beauty of modern styling.

FREE OFFICE PLANNING SERVICE

Nothing will do more toward filling the appointment book of the new practice than good office impressions. Let us help you plan an office that will inspire your patients to refer their friends.

Every dental dealer who distributes S.S. White Equipment invites you to visit his showroom where you will find the S. S. White Master Unit and Motor Chair on display. After you have seen and tested each thoroughly let him tell you how easily you can own an S.S. White Master Unit and Motor Chair, and why these offer the greatest protection to your investment and give you the most for every dollar invested.

NEW! Columbia ARTICULATOR FORMER for Inlay Dies

A Time Saver—Easy to Use Makes Neat Models

A simple device for casting neat, self-articulating half-jaw stone or plaster models for inlays, crowns and bridges. The sliding frames are adjustable to make models of any required length. Models of right or left side can be made by reversing position of frames. The T-lock, cast in heel of upper and lower models keeps them in correct centric relation. The frames, T-lock former and metal parts attached to Bakelite block are made of rustless steel.

Schaefer played
national champs

Word has been received here of the death of Herm Schaefer, 61, former Fort Wayne resident and member of the 1940 Indiana University NCAA championship team. He died Thursday at his Indianapolis home. Arrangements are by Flanner & Buchanan Broad Ripple Mortuary, Indianapolis.

Mr. Schaefer was a graduate of Central High School where he played on the 1935-36, and 1936-37 basketball teams. In 1936, Central was eliminated in the semi-finals and in 1938 was defeated by Frankfort High School, 50-24 in the championship game.

Mr. Schaefer, together with Central teammate Paul "Curley" Armstrong, played on the I.U. team which defeated the University of Kansas, 60-42 for the NCAA championship.

Surviving are two sons, R. Scott Schaefer, in California, and William M. Schaefer.

Services will be at 10 a.m. today in the Flanner & Buchanan Broad Ripple Mortuary, Indianapolis. Burial will be this afternoon in Concordia Cemetery, Fort Wayne.
